OUST MANTENO CHIEF IN TYPHOID EPIDEMIC QUIZ

Probe by Grand Jury Is Ordered.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Investigation of the typhoid epidemic which has taken 53 lives at the Manteno State hospital moved swiftly yesterday. There were two major developments:

1. Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, managing officer of the hospital, was suspended from duty by A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, at the order of Gov. Horner.

2. State's Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro of Kankakee county announced he would seek indictments against Dr. Hinton, Bowen, and Lillian Williams, hospital dietitian. Shapiro said he would seek to have the indictments charge malfeasance in office and possibly manslaughter.

Jury Call Ordered.

Shapiro also said he would ask a grand jury to determine whether any responsibility rested on Dr. A. C. Baxter, head of the state health department, whose many warnings that the Manteno water was unfit for use were ignored by Dr. Hinton and Bowen.

Dr. Ralph T. Hinton [upper] and Dr. D. L. Steinberg.

Circuit Judge Luther B. Bratton of Kankakee said he would call a special grand jury to convene Nov. 13 for the investigation. He approved a petition in which Shapiro requested the jury call. Sheriff Dan Bergen of Kankakee county was directed to select the jurors.

Dr. Hinton's removal was ordered by the governor in a letter to Bowen. The governor also told Bowen to remove any other employés he saw fit pending the outcome of the investigations into the epidemic.

Full Facts Demanded.

Gov. Horner's letter said:

"Certain factors in the situation which has existed at Manteno State hospital necessitate, at this time, my directing you, as director of the department of public welfare, to suspend Dr. Ralph Hinton as managing officer of that institution, and such other employés as in your judgment may be necessary, until such a time as competent authorities have placed responsibility for conditions at this hospital.

"This action is not intended as a reflection upon those employés—and should not be so construed unless further investigations show them culpable. The public is entitled to the fullest facts, and I feel that those making the investigation will feel freer in their action if some one else were in charge of the institution at this time."

Dr. Hinton refused to comment on the suspension. Dr. D. L. Steinberg, assistant managing officer of the hospital, was placed in temporary charge. Bowen said Dr. Steinberg would be in charge until Dr. Charles F. Reed, managing officer of the Elgin State hospital, could be summoned home from a western business trip to assume the post of Manteno managing officer.

Freer Reports Expected.

Shapiro said he believed that the suspension of Dr. Hinton might persuade his subordinates to talk more freely to the grand jury.

Shapiro said he would include the dietitian in his indictment requests because while the food bought or raised by the hospital was of the best quality, "much fault was found with its preparation."

Before leaving his duties to Dr. Steinberg, Dr. Hinton, a state employé for 32 years, said the epidemic was on the wane. The death of a patient Thursday brought the total to 53, but there have been no new cases reported in a month. Approximately 200 persons are in isolation at the hospital as typhoid suspects or typhoid cases. Gladys Moody, a patient who had been critically ill for several weeks, died Thursday.

Fence Ordered for Hoodlums at St. Charles

An eight foot cyclone fence topped with barbed wire will be thrown around the St. Charles School for Boys to prevent further escapes by incorrigible young criminals. This was agreed to last night by A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, after a meeting with a legislative committee at Springfield.

"We'll build the fence," said Bowen, who opposed construction of the barrier altho the legislature ordered it erected and voted $40,000 to pay for it. "But you fellows will have to be prepared to take plenty of criticism from women's clubs."

Meeting Called by Gunning.

He was addressing the group of state senators and representatives who were called to his office by Senator Thomas P. Gunning, chairman of the committee formed last year to investigate conditions at the St. Charles school.

Bowen capitulated on the fence issue after a poll of the committee showed that all but one of its members favored it. Those who voted for the inclosure were: Senators Gunning [D., Peoria], Wilbur H. Hickman [D., Paris], Peter Kielminski [D., Chicago], Arnold Benson [R Batavia], and Representatives John C. Friedland [R., Elgin], Thomas P. Bolger [D., McHenry], Leon M. Schuler [D., Aurora].

The only opponent was Representative Maude N. Peffers [R., Aurora].

Says Few Make Trouble.

Bowen reaffirmed his view that the fence was not needed and would not serve its purpose. He said the legislature has also voted $250,000 for a new security building to house troublemakers among the St. Charles boys. When this structure is completed, he argued, the fence at St. Charles would not be needed.

"Why fence in 600 boys when only 50 to 60 make trouble?" Bowen asked.

Senator Hickman then declared the legislature's orders should be obeyed. He explained that $26,000 of the appropriation was for fence, $9,000 for lights, and the remainder for extra guards and motorcycles.

Fence Only Main Buildings.

William T. Harmon, superintendent of the school, said plans for the fence include only the main school buildings. There are 150 trusted boys now living in outlying farm dormitories, some as far as one and a half miles from the main buildings, he said. The legislators suggested that arrangements for fencing these dormitories also could be made.

Two more of the thirteen culprits who fled the school on Wednesday night were recaptured yesterday after a brakeman on a passing Burlington train saw them strolling down the tracks. He dropped a note to a section gang. The gang foreman notified Naperville police, who arrested Leo Moore, 20, colored, and Robert Smith, 18. Both had been committed to St. Charles from Chicago, Moore in 1936 and Smith in 1937.

Posses scoured thickets near Plano yesterday after farmers reported seeing boys in groups of two or three near there. An airplane from the Waterman airport aided in the hunt for the five remaining fugitives.

BRITISH GOVERNORS ASSUME CONTROL IN INDIAN PROVINCES

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The British government indicated today that it intends to adopt a firm policy in India despite the passive resistance of the Indian congress leaders. The congress ministries in the United province, Bihar and Madras having resigned, the governors of those provinces today accepted their resignations and issued proclamations vesting complete control in the governor's hands.

Four of the eight ministries in which the congress holds a majority now have resigned in accordance with the resolution passed by the congress working committee in protest against England's refusal to grant dominion status to India. Section 93 of the India act provides that in case of failure of the governmental machinery of any province the governor may rule.

At New Delhi, India, congress leaders today continued their conversations on policy. It was believed that Mohandas K. Gandhi will issue a statement of policy to the viceroy, the marquess of Linlithgow, tomorrow.

Swiss Watch Battle in Air; 6 Planes Fight

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 3.—The citizens of Basel poured into the streets today to get their first real look at the war. They saw three German Messerschmidt planes attack three French Nieuports escorting a British reconnaissance plane on a flight over the Siegfried line.

The sound of antiaircraft fire brought the populace into the streets at 1 p. m. The British plane, with its French escort, could be seen moving from Alsace in the direction of the German fortifications.

Within a few minutes three German Messerschmidts rose from the ground and engaged the Nieuports in a dog fight which lasted half an hour. During the fight the planes moved close to the Swiss border, but never crossed it into neutral territory.

Move Out of Sight.

Eventually they moved out of sight of Basel and it was impossible to determine if there had been any casualties.

As the French and German planes battled the British plane swooped low over the Siegfried line, apparently for the purpose of taking pictures. It flew off in the direction from which it came, unharmed.

The theory here is that the British have completed photographing the upper sections of the Siegfried line and now are moving into this area.

Hear First Heavy Gunfire.

It was the first action of this kind seen here except for some German antiaircraft firing shortly after the beginning of the war.

The first heavy gunfire was heard here last night as the German and French artillery opened up along the Vosges mountain front.

CABINET LEADER SPURNS DEMAND FOR TERRITORY

Insists Reds Abide by Old Treaties.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on back page.)

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 3.—Efforts of the Russian government to force Finland to sign an agreement similar to those signed recently by Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania will be categorically rejected by the Finnish government, Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko said tonight. He spoke after reading an article published in the Moscow Pravda, organ of the communist party, under the headline, "Erkko provokes war."

[Russia, in its treaties with Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, was given the right to establish army, navy, and air bases in those countries.]

Erkko dismissed Pravda's statement that Finland was being used as the tool of unnamed foreign powers to start a war against Russia as ridiculous.

Not a Baltic State, He Says.

"Finland is a Scandinavian country and refuses to be considered a Baltic state," he said. "Any attempt to separate us from the Scandinavian countries is doomed to failure.

"The Finnish government has considered the question of Leningrad's defenses and is prepared to make concessions to solve this problem. But it must not be forgotten that this is entirely a question of Finnish territory, which the government of the soviet union has recognized in its treaties with us.

[Vyacheslav Molotov, soviet premier and foreign commissar, in his speech Tuesday, said Russia was concerned because Leningrad is only 20 miles from the Finnish border and thus within range of artillery. He proposed that the border be shifted several dozen kilometers farther to the north of Leningrad, in return for which Russia would cede other territory to Finland.]

"If there is any sanctity left in treaties we should easily reach an agreement. If not, then what is the use of making a new treaty with Russia?

Defends Defense Measures.

"Finland's back is against the wall and we have a perfect right to take measures to defend ourselves. Any suggestion that Finland threatens Russia with war is absurd. We are one of the most peaceful countries in the world, having no ambitions or claims against any of our neighbors.

"No foreign government or any one else has proffered advice, and if they had I can say that Finland would not have accepted it. We have received many expressions of sympathy from abroad which we appreciate, especially those from America, but sympathy cannot be called advice.

"The Finnish delegation, which met the Russians in Moscow for further negotiations tonight, presented our counterproposals to the soviet government."

Erkko said that while the government still is hopeful of a settlement, some of the soviet demands are unacceptable and should the Russians continue to exert pressure they would meet with resistance as strong as Finland's granite bound frontiers.

Charge Reds Imitate Nazis.

Finnish government circles charged that the soviet government is using German tactics. Molotov is trying out Fuehrer Hitler's strategy of browbeating opponents into submission, it was alleged.

Finns declare there is a difference between Hitler and Molotov. Hitler, they say, has behind him the most powerful army in Europe and a thoroly organized nation to support his demands. Molotov, they declare, has a nation with broken down internal economics, disorganized transport facilities, widespread crop failure and an army poorly fed and badly equipped and without experience or educated officers.

The prolonged negotiations between Helsingfors and Moscow have enabled the Finns to obtain large quantities of arms from Sweden. Should the soviet government persist in its demands for a naval base at Hango [Hanko], at the mouth of the

Norway Gives Ship Liberty; Jail Nazi Crew

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Nov. 4, Saturday (AP).—The German charge d'affaires at Oslo was ordered today to protest Norway's action in interning the German prize crew of the American freighter City of Flint and in releasing the ship to the American crew. The commander of the German crew which took the freighter into the Norwegian port of Haugesund was a "victim of his humanitarianism," foreign office circles held. Their view was that the commander merely had heeded a plea of President Roosevelt to Great Britain and Germany to take good care of the City of Flint's American crew.

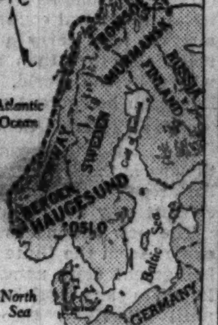
When one American fell ill, they said, the commander entered Haugesund so the American might be given proper medical care.

Officials left no doubt that pretty straight talk to Norway would ensue.

BULLETIN.

BERGEN, Norway, Nov. 4, Saturday, (AP).—The American freighter City of Flint arrived here today from Haugesund, 75 miles down the Norwegian coast, where she was freed by the Norwegian government from her German captors.

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 4 [Saturday] (AP).—The wanderings of the American freighter, City of Flint, under a German prize crew ended early today. Norwegian officials interned the Nazi crew of 18 men at Haugesund, on the western Norwegian coast, after they had failed to obey regulations in Norwegian territorial waters, and released the ship to her American crew of 41 men. Later the ship sailed away in command of her American crew.



Dotted line shows route of City of Flint.

The release came at 2 a. m. [7 p. m. Chicago time, Friday] and the reason ascribed by Norwegian naval officials was that the City of Flint, en route from Murmansk, Russia, to Hamburg, Germany, had made an illegal entry of the port of Haugesund.

One report was that the commander asked to enter Haugesund because an American sailor was ill. It was said investigation showed the illness was not sufficient to justify granting permission for the ship to anchor, but despite that finding the ship anchored. The internment followed.

Fails to Respond to Warning.

Previously, they said, the ship had failed to respond to a warning shot to slow down, given by a Norwegian destroyer. The warship put a warning shot across the freighter's bow.

Admiralty officials added that it was decided to intern the German crew and that the vessel should be "given free." This meant that the vessel—a prisoner of the Germans and an object of diplomatic action since she was seized by the German pocket battleship Deutschland on Oct. 9—was free to sail away flying the American flag and in charge of her American crew. The ship left Haugesund and turned northward toward Bergen, 75 miles away.

The freighter, first carried to Murmansk by the Nazi prize crew after her capture in the Atlantic with what the Germans said was a contraband

CONGRESS QUITS AFTER PASSING ARMS SALE BILL

Law Effective Today as President Signs.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—The Roosevelt administration's long controverted neutrality repealer was approved in final form and sent to the White House tonight by the special session of the 76th congress, which promptly adjourned sine die. The senate adjourned at 6:20 and the house at 6:35 p. m.

The White House announced that Mr. Roosevelt will sign the neutrality revision measure ceremoniously at noon tomorrow. Administration leaders who managed the bill in the senate and the house will attend the White House ceremony.

Called the neutrality act of 1939, or the Bloom-Pittman bill, the measure repeals the existing neutrality law, with its embargo on the exportation of munitions to warring nations, and substitutes a purported cash and carry scheme of selling arms and other materials to belligerents.

The conference agreement on the neutrality repealer, reached early this afternoon by the conferees of the respective houses, was approved by the senate by a vote of 55 to 24 and later by the house by a vote of 243 to 172.

Take Record on Adjournment.

The sine die adjournment resolution was submitted to a record vote in each house, a procedure that is followed only on rare and extraordinary occasions. Most Republicans and some Democrats in each house opposed adjournment, demanding that congress remain in session to keep Mr. Roosevelt under close surveillance during the progress of the European war. This they believed to be necessary lest steps be taken that might involve the United States in the hostilities.

The senate, however, voted 46 to 25 for adjournment, and the house approved the resolution by a vote of 223 to 189. House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts voted against adjournment, while Senate Republican Leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon voted for it.

Most of the members of each body were impatient to go home for two month vacations before the convening of the next regular session on Jan. 3. They had had only a brief opportunity for political fence repairing between adjournment of the first regular session of the 76th congress on Aug. 5 and the convening of the special session on Sept. 21.

Message from President.

In contrast to the terse farewell note he sent the two houses in August, after they had scrapped his four billion dollar spending-lending scheme, President Roosevelt's farewell message today was cordial. The letter to Vice President Garner, identical with the message to Speaker of the House William B. Bankhead, said:

"As it seems probable that this extraordinary session of the congress will be brought to adjournment within a few hours, may I extend thru you to the members of the senate my congratulations and good wishes?

"I hope that world events will not make it necessary to have any other extraordinary session—and, therefore, in anticipation of seeing you all on the third of January, next, I extend to you in the meantime my best wishes for a happy Thanksgiving and a merry Christmas. May I add that I hope those members from states whose governors have set Nov. 30 as Thanksgiving day will celebrate both Thanksgivings—the 23d and 30th."

The President's witticism about Thanksgiving produced laughter in each house.

Only Legislation Enacted.

The Bloom-Pittman neutrality repealer, for which Mr. Roosevelt called the special session, was the only legislation enacted during the session with the exception of the indispensable resolution appropriating the mileage allowances [20 cents a mile each way] of senators and representatives.

The conference report on the neutrality revision bill was adopted without debate in the senate and with only perfunctory discussion in the house. Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, and Representative Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.], chairman of the foreign affairs committee, explained the minor changes made by the conferees this morning in the bill passed by the senate last Friday.

The house, in effect, accepted the senate bill with minor amendments. The senate had passed the measure by a vote of 63 to 30 and the house yesterday voted 243 to 181 against insisting upon the arms embargo which it adopted on passing the original Bloom bill last June 30.

Vice President Garner banged his gavel and barked, "Without objection approved," immediately after Pittman had called up the conference report.

There were protests from Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], and other opponents of the arms embargo repealer, who demanded that "yeas and nays" be entered upon the record. There was no debate and the roll was called.

Two Refuse to Sign.

Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] merely called the senate's attention to the fact that the two minority members of the senate conference commitee—himself and Senator Borah—had refused to sign the report.

The administration forces won a final victory in obtaining adoption, without objection, of a preamble which they were forced to withdraw last Friday night when it was denounced by opposition leaders as a "stump speech, obviously intended for political purposes." The conferees substituted it for a preamble adopted by the house, and there was no opportunity in either body to consider it separately.

The significance of this maneuver is that it permitted the administration forces to avoid putting themselves on record on the question of keeping out of the European war.

Last Friday night Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.] forced the withdrawal of the administration preamble when he offered a substitute stating that the United States "desires to serve notice to the world that it intends to keep out of participation" in the European war.

Objects to Wording.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.], author of the administration preamble, said he did not wish to commit himself "as to what we are going to do in the future." He said he wanted to leave that question open, and not tell the world what we would do without knowing "what the world is going to do to us."

The Connally preamble states merely that the United States "desires to preserve its neutrality and is "desirous" of keeping out of the European war; that in placing certain restrictions on the rights of its nationals it is waiving none of its rights under international law; that it specifically reserves the right to change the act at any time.

Opposition leaders said the preamble misrepresented the express provisions of the bill and the declared purpose of many of its supporters to help Great Britain and France defeat Hitler.

The conferees today adopted a provision excepting from the title transfer requirement all materials exported on neutral ships to such belligerent ports as are open to American vessels. This was to prevent giving American ships a competitive advantage in violation of certain treaties.

Gives Ships Leeway.

Another provision adopted today excepts from the restrictions of the law any American ship that leaves an American port for a foreign port prior to the issuance of executive proclamations putting the act into effect. As passed by the senate, the bill would apply retroactively to any American ship having sailed within seven days of the issuance of the proclamations. Many American ships, particularly those sailing from New York, have changed their schedules in order to beat the dead line.

Mr. Roosevelt is expected to sign the act and issue the proclamations putting the so-called cash and carry restrictions into effect simultaneously tomorrow, before departing for a week-end at Hyde Park, N. Y. The provisions of the law become effective whenever he finds and proclaims that a state of war exists among foreign nations and that the restrictions are necessary to preserve the peace or promote the security of the United States.

CHIEF FEATURES OF ACT ALLOWING SALES OF ARMS

Effective When President Proclaims It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—A summary of the purported cash and carry neutrality revision bill, which congress approved today and sent to the White House, follows:

The old neutrality law, with its embargo on the exportation of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to nations engaged in war, is repealed.

The purported cash and carry provisions regulating the munitions traffic and other commerce with belligerents will become effective when the President finds that a state of war among foreign nations exists and that the restrictions are "necessary to promote the security or preserve the peace of the United States or to protect the lives of citizens of the United States."

When State of War Exists.

The old law became effective whenever the President found that a state of war existed, without regard to his finding that it is necessary to promote the security or preserve the peace of the United States.

The new act makes it unlawful for any American vessel to carry any passengers or materials to any belligerent state named in the President's proclamation.

Transportation by inland waters, by land and by air to Canada is not affected.

Exceptions in Measure.

Altho called a cash and carry measure, the bill, strictly speaking, is neither. American ships may transport passengers and materials, other than munitions, to belligerent ports anywhere in the western hemisphere south of 35 degrees north latitude, anywhere in the Atlantic ocean south of 30 degrees north latitude, anywhere in the Pacific and Indian oceans, including the China sea, the Tasman sea, the Bay of Bengal, the Arabian sea, and other adjacent waters, and anywhere in the western hemisphere north of 35 degrees north latitude and west of 66 degrees west longitude [the Bay of Fundy and the Gulf of Maine].

The effect of these exceptions is to permit American ships to carry passengers and materials, other than munitions, anywhere in the world, except the European ports of the belligerent nations and the Canadian ports on the Atlantic. American ships may carry munitions as well as other materials to neutral countries. American aircraft may carry passengers and materials other than munitions anywhere in the world, except to the European belligerent ports.

May Prescribe Combat Areas.

The President, however, has discretionary authority to prescribe "combat areas" which American ships and aircraft may not enter.

The new act makes it unlawful to export from the United States to any belligerent state named in the proclamation any articles or materials until all right, title and interest therein has been transferred to a foreign agent. This restriction does not apply to materials, other than munitions, exported by land, air, or inland waters to Canada. It does not apply to materials transported on American vessels or on neutral vessels to any belligerent port to which American ships may transport materials other than munitions.

File Cargo Declaration.

American vessels transporting materials to belligerent ports will be required to file a declaration of the cargo, the names and addresses of the consignees and the prospective ports of call.

The new act makes it unlawful for American citizens to travel on belligerent ships, except in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the President. The old law contains a similar provision.

The new act makes it unlawful for any person in the United States to purchase or sell any bonds or other obligations of a belligerent nation or its agency or to make any loan or extend any credit to any belligerent nation or its agency.

Bars Sale to Private Person.

This provision applies also to the sale of munitions to any private person or corporation of a belligerent country. It does not, however, prohibit credit for the purchase of other materials by private individuals and corporations of the belligerent countries. The prohibition against credit does not apply to a renewal or adjustment of such indebtedness as may exist on the date of the President's proclamation.

The old law prohibits loans and credits to belligerents, except such ordinary short-term commercial credits as the President, in his decision, might exempt.

The new act makes it unlawful for any person in the United States to receive or solicit any contribution for or on behalf of any belligerent nation or its agency. This prohibition does not apply to the collection of funds to be used for medical aid or assistance to relieve human suffering, provided the collecting agency is not acting for or on behalf of a belligerent government. The old law contains a similar provision.

Require Ship to Post Bond.

The President is given authority to require any vessel, domestic or foreign, before leaving a port of the United States, to post bond against delivering fuel, men or munitions to a warship or supply ship of a belligerent. This merely reënacts a provision of a world war statute. It is not contained in the neutrality act of 1937.

The President is given authority to place restrictions upon the use of American ports by the submarines or armed merchant ships of belligerents. The old law contains a similar provision.

Any belligerent ship misusing the flag or other insignia of the United States as a ruse of war to escape identification would be denied the use of American ports for a period of three months. There is no such provision in the old law.

Regulate Munitions Traffic.

The national munitions control board, consisting of the secretaries of state, treasury, war, navy, and commerce, is reëstablished to regulate the munitions traffic. All manufacturers, dealers, exporters, and importers of munitions will be required to register with the board. No munitions may be exported to belligerents or other countries, without a license from the board.

The bill provides general penalties of imprisonment up to two years and a fine of not more than $10,000 for violations. For violations of the transportation and financial provisions respecting commerce with belligerents, specific penalties of not more than five years' imprisonment and a $50,000 fine are provided.

The act of 1937 provided penalties of not more than five years' imprisonment and a fine of not more than $10,000.

Britain and France Rejoice Over Death of Arms Embargo

PARIS, Nov. 3 (AP).—The French government today paid homage to President Roosevelt for his efforts in securing repeal of the American arms embargo. A semiofficial statement issued after a cabinet meeting said the repeal of the embargo "is regarded in Paris as an event of great material and moral importance."

"It is greeted with great satisfaction," the statement said. "Homage is paid to the sense of fairness which inspired the debate of the American congress and the personal action of President Roosevelt.

"France and Great Britain gain a definite advantage, since mastery of the seas and their financial resources permit them alone, in fact, to take delivery in American ports of products they need."

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 3 (AP).—Repeal of the American arms embargo was hailed generally thruout southeastern Europe today.

The Jugo-Slav press said repeal of the embargo would be welcomed by "small nations which have been living in fear and anxiety for a year."

The Rumanian press congratulated congress and the American people and said passage of the new legislation would be a "death blow for Germany."

Embargo repeal, in the view of the Hungarian press, would put the United States "in all but active participation in the war and constitutes an outright alliance with the western powers."

There was little comment in Bulgaria, but the embargo repeal was welcomed in Greece and Turkey.

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP).—Great Britain today looked to the United States as an arsenal of unlimited resources as a result of the repeal of the American arms embargo.

Supply Minister Leslie Burgin hailed congressional action lifting the embargo as "telling Germany at once that there is an endless source of supplies open to the allies at will."

He said a British purchasing mission probably would visit the United States when Britain decided what it would buy in American markets.

Burgin asserted that machine tools for armament production would be the heaviest immediate requirement.

Besides such tools—which formerly came from Germany—the supply minister said Britain would need "certain types of raw materials and ultimately some ammunition."

BERLIN, Nov. 3 (AP).—Nazi Germany appeared resigned tonight to the prospect that lifting of the American arms embargo would open a vast arsenal to Great Britain and France.

"We do not underestimate the importance of this development," an authoritative spokesman said, "but of course it is a matter with which Germany had calculated and as far as possible discounted."

There was little evidence of irritation in official quarters over lifting of the embargo. One spokesman said he found satisfaction in the evidence that there was considerable opposition within the United States to removing the arms ban.

"The close preliminary vote in the house of representatives indicates about 30 men in that body could have retained the embargo," he said.

HOW CONGRESSMEN FROM CHICAGOLAND VOTED ON EMBARGO

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 [Special]. —A study made today of several roll calls taken yesterday in the house revealed the stand of representatives of Chicagoland states on the retention of the arms embargo. A majority of congressmen from the states in the Chicago area, except Illinois, favored keeping the embargo, Wisconsin being unanimous against the repealer.

Illinois congressmen voted 17 to 10 against the embargo and in favor of its repeal. Here is the stand taken by the representatives by states:

ILLINOIS.

FOR—Democrat: Fries; Republicans: Allen, Arends, Chiperfield, Church, Dirksen, Johnson, Reed, Sumner, and Wheat.

AGAINST—Democrats: Arnold, Barnes, Beam, Keller, Kelly, Kocialkowski, McAndrews, McKeough, Maciejewski, Martin, Mitchell, Parsons, Sabath, Schaefer, Schuetz, and Smith; Republican: Mason.

WISCONSIN.

FOR—Republicans: Bolles, Hawks, Johns, Keefe, Murray, Schafer, and Thill; Progressives: Hull and Gehrman.

MICHIGAN.

FOR—Democrat: Rabaut; Republicans: Blackney, Bradley, Crawford, Dondero, Engel, Hoffman, McLeod, Mapes, Michener, Wolcott, and Woodruff.

AGAINST—Democrats: Dingell, Hook, Lesinski, and Tenerowicz.

IOWA.

FOR—Democrats: Harrington and Jacobsen; Republicans: Dowell, Gilchrist, Jensen, Le Compte, Martin, and Talle.

AGAINST—Republican: Gwynne.

INDIANA.

FOR—Democrat: Ludlow; Republicans: Gillie, Grant, Halleck, Harness, Johnson, Landis, and Springer.

AGAINST—Democrats: Boehne, Crowe, Larrabee, and Schulte.

Representative Fries was the only Democrat from Illinois voting against repealing the embargo.

Senators Scott W. Lucas and James M. Slattery, Illinois Democrats, both voted to repeal the embargo and for adjournment of congress.

POOR MANNERS, ROOSEVELT IDEA OF SOVIET ACTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt ascribed poor manners to soviet Russia today. Replying to a press conference invitation to comment on the recent suggestion of Representative John W. McCormack [D., Mass.] that the United States withdraw her ambassador to Russia, the President said he never had believed poor manners should beget poor manners.

McCormack was indignant over Premier Vyacheslav Molotov's criticism of President Roosevelt for "intervening" in behalf of Finland in the latter country's dispute with Russia.

The United States government also has been exercised by the difficulty experienced in getting official information from Russia relative to the American vessel City of Flint, seized by a German raider and taken, for a time, to the Russian port of Murmansk.

WOMAN VOTE CAN KEEP US OUT OF WAR, SAYS GREEN

Danville, Ill., Nov. 3 [Special.]—Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for governor of Illinois, told the Vermilion County Republican Women's club here tonight that the mothers and wives of America rather than the statesmen will determine whether we will ever enter the European war.

"The nation is divided and worrying about what is happening in Washington," he said, "but the real answer as to whether this country gets into the present European war is to be found in the homes of America. Now that women have the right to vote the present administration in Washington is rather cagy about steps that may throw us into the conflict."

Will Almost Believes That One About a Cat's 9 Lives

Girdletree, Md., Nov. 3 (AP).—Will Ingersoll ceremoniously buried his white cat, killed by an automobile. The next morning his pet was purring on the doorstep. Buried, Ingersoll discovered, was the white cat of Walter Berdan, a neighbor.

HARRIS ASSAILS CITY'S TRACTION PLAN DEMANDS

Impossible with a 7c Fare, Says Banker.

Albert W. Harris.

Albert W. Harris, chairman of a major transit bondholders' group, yesterday made a brief but frank and incisive criticism of the city's proposals for a unified traction franchise. He assailed the city's use of the traction fund for financing the construction of the 46 million dollar subway and termed the city's traction proposals "utterly fantastic financially."

It was the first time in nearly a year that the veteran banker who heads a committee representing $41,700,000 of first mortgage bonds of the surface lines had given his views on the traction tangle. His committee in January was the last to agree to the securities redistribution plan upon which the merged company will be based.

Delegates Power to Committee.

Following this agreement the Harris committee joined other bondholders' groups in delegating its powers to a three man traction committee whose negotiations with the city for a unified franchise have bogged down in recent months.

"The city," Mr. Harris said, "is talking about and asking the surface lines to produce a new company by taking in the rapid transit lines and the motor coach company and furnishing a form of transportation which would necessitate the raising of $100,000,000. Such a company could not live under present fares if given the $100,000,000. The surface lines cannot do the impossible."

The transit companies have asked for an 8 cent street car fare under the merger plan, but the city has insisted on maintaining the present 7 cent fare.

Suggests Guaranteed Return.

"The city, as is done by all other cities that are furnishing citizens with transportation at less than cost, might guarantee certain earnings by subsidy, provided a company is formed that can raise money and give the service desired by the city," Mr. Harris continued.

"This subsidy must be enough to enable the company to raise the new capital or the city must furnish it. If the city cannot do this, the plan which provides for a consolidation and the raising of $100,000,000 in new capital is impossible and we ought to quit talking about it and let the companies do the best they can on their own.

"Using all the money in the traction fund just to dig a hole in the ground under cover of conversations with Washington may benefit contractors but it does not improve transportation or the reputation of those responsible."

Active in Traction Fights.

Harris, who is chairman of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, has for years guarded vigilantly the surface lines' first mortgage bondholders in the traction squabbles with the city. His committee was the last to agree to the 1930 ordinance which later lapsed because of the depression. He also took part in drawing up the old 1907 ordinance for the street car company.

Mr. Harris, who will be 72 years old today, has been directing head of the Harris trust as president or chairman for 26 years. He is a philanthropist and sportsman as well as the dean of Chicago bankers. He is an enthusiastic horse breeder and raises horses on his ranch at Pomona, Cal.

SMUTS PROMISES HELP TO ENGLAND IN AFRICAN LANDS

BLOEMFONTEIN, Union of South Africa, Nov. 3.—Prime Minister Jan C. Smuts said today that South Africa would keep its promise to defend British territories in Africa if England appealed for help. The speech was a reply to criticisms contained in former Premier J. B. M. Hertzog's recent speeches.

Referring to a statement by Oswald Pirow, defense minister in Hertzog's government, that the defense act only required South African troops to serve inside the boundaries of the union, Gen. Smuts said, "You hear from Pirow that he is going to oppose me if I should venture beyond the union's boundaries. Let him; I am prepared to fight back."

SHOWS HOW NEW NEUTRALITY ACT HARMS SHIPPING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—Chairman Schuyler Otis Bland [D., Va.], of the House committee on merchant marine said today that passage of the administration neutrality legislation meant withdrawal of 92 American vessels from the war zones, abandonment of eight foreign trade routes where the government had invested $195,061,000, and the loss of gross revenues to American merchant marine of $52,500,000 annually. He said about 5,800 to 6,300 seamen would be thrown out of work.

Liners' Sailings Canceled.

New York, Nov. 3 (AP).—Because of passage of the administration neutrality measure the United States Lines deferred indefinitely the sailings of the liners Washington, President Roosevelt, and American Farmer, all of which were scheduled to leave today for English and French ports.

The neutrality act bars American ships from belligerent ports, and line officials have indicated they would have to suspend operations until the war ended unless that provision was modified.

JAPS' FOREIGN MINISTER, GREW DISCUSS CHARGES

TOKIO, Nov. 4, Saturday (AP).—United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and Foreign Minister Kichisaburo Nomura today held a 90 minute conference at which both were reported to have spoken with "entire frankness" in exploring the entire field of American-Japanese relations.

A high official source said they exchanged views on positions of their governments regarding some 600 instances of American property damaged by Japanese bombings in China, alleged Japanese restrictions of American trade in China and interference of American business transactions.

The conference grew out of a speech by Grew on Oct. 19 in which he said American opinion resented interference with American activities in China.

HOW THOUSANDS ARE UNITED FOR THE WAR ON WAR

Many Organizations, and Many Methods.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—The overwhelming popular demand for the United States to keep out of the European war is reflected in the activities of several hundred organizations which are deluging the country with peace literature.

The asserted objective of all these organizations is to keep the United States out of war, but they have no common denominator as to methods. Many of them advocate methods "short of war" to help Great Britain and France defeat Hitler, but this would be done in the name of peace for the United States.

Another Stand.

Others advocate genuine neutrality and deny that the United States can keep out of war by getting part of the way in. Typical of the latter school is the Emergency Council to Keep the United States Out of War, with headquarters in New York. It announces that it is "fighting the war mongers with their own weapons, fighting propaganda with counter-propaganda, fighting lies with truth, exposing the fallacy, as illogical as it is false, that we must go into this war simply because we went into the last one."

The organizations campaigning in the name of peace disagree violently on the question of the Roosevelt administration's arms embargo repealer. Most of the internationalist, Anglophile, world saving groups which supported the league of nations proposal under Woodrow Wilson and the world court proposal under Roosevelt have supported the neutrality repealer.

There are four main national groups in the organized peace movement. These are the National Committee to Keep Out of Foreign Wars, the National Council for Prevention of War, the National Peace conference, and the National Nonpartisan Committee for Peace Thru Revision of the Neutrality Law.

Committee of Legislators.

Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] is chairman of the National Committee to Keep Out of Foreign Wars, which was organized last summer primarily to support the neutrality law. The committee consists of 50 present and former members of congress, including former Representative Samuel B. Pettengill [D., Ill.] and former Representative John O'Connor [D., N. Y.], both vice chairmen.

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.] and other supporters of the Roosevelt administration's neutrality repealer have denounced the Fish committee as a racket, while enthusiastically acclaiming the National Nonpartisan Committee for Peace Through Revision of the Neutrality Law. This organization is headed by William Allen White, the Kansas editor and perennial reformer of the Republican party. Its mmbership roster includes such well known Anglophiles and internationalists as Sherwood Eddy, Prof. Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago; James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard law school; Felix Morely, editor of the Washington Post; Mrs. Ogden Reid, wife of the publisher of the New York Herald-Tribune; Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist; Prof. James T. Shotwell of Columbia university, and Prof. Quincy Wright of the University of Chicago.

Opposes Embargo Repeal.

The National Council for Prevention of War is an amalgamation of peace organizations, including the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, the Fellowship of Reconciliation, the Keep America Out of War congress, the peace section of the American Friends Service committee, the War Registers league, the World Peaceways, and the Youth Committee Against War. The council has vigorously opposed repeal of the arms embargo.

The national peace conference has 40 affiliated organizations, the asserted objectives of which are by no means uniform. Most of the organizations in this conference, however, are internationalist in foreign policy and support President Roosevelt's neutrality revision program. The foreign policy association and the League of Nations association, both extremely internationalist, are affiliated with the national peace conference.

The Women's National Committee to Keep the United States Out of War, with headquarters in New York, is headed by Catherine Curtis, founder of the Women's Investors of America, Inc., and the Women's National Committee for Hands Off the Supreme Court. She declares that her mobilization work is being carried on by an organizing committee of 48 women representing 25 states.

Urges Mail Campaign.

The Peace House, also of New York, headed by Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram, has been urging the writing of letters to congressmen in favor of retaining the arms embargo.

The National Legion of Mothers of America and the Christian American National Defense league are among the smaller organizations that have sprung up with the purpose of keeping the country out of war.

MISS ALICE DE MAXWELL.

For more than two years Alice De Maxwell wrote letters regularly from the home of relatives in Cracow, Poland, to her mother, Mrs. Helen De Maxwell, 2027 Iowa street. The letters stopped with one dated four days before the outbreak of war in Poland. Since then Mrs. De Maxwell has had no word from her daughter, who is 21 years old. Alice is a graduate of Tuley High school. She went abroad in 1937, studied at a business school for two years, and last fall enrolled at Jangelonian university in Cracow. Mrs. De Maxwell has appealed to the state department and to the Red Cross for aid in locating her daughter.

DEBT BURDEN IS NEW DEAL PLOT, WARNS BRIDGES

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 3 (AP).—Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] asserted tonight that the national debt, which he placed at 46 billion dollars, was planned by the New Deal "to wrap the people for purposes of control in the tentacles of a burocracy."

The senator, who spoke before the Indianapolis Association of Credit Men, told newspaper men earlier in the day that he would be available for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

In his address he said of the national debt:

"It is this debt that has given a sprawling and insolent army of burocrats their grip on the people.

"From the very first emergency appropriation of 3 billion dollars back in 1933 to relieve distress and to serve as 'pump priming,' the conception of the spenders has never been that primarily of relieving distress or priming the pump, as they claim, but rather to wrap the people for purposes of control in the tentacles of a burocracy."

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP).—The captain and 24 crewmen of the 3,402 ton British steamer Mervyn, sunk in collision with an unidentified steamer off the coast of Wales last Wednesday, were landed at Llanelly, Wales, today. Four of the crew still were missing.

NAZIS AND REDS SWAP NATIONALS IN POLISH DEAL

Germany Exiles Jews to Private District.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Part of the population of Poland is being exiled and resettled along the border of Germany and Russia on a scale unparalleled in modern history.

Moscow and Berlin today signed an agreement for the exchange of their respective minority groups in former Poland. The pact said rations must be "voluntary." Property rights of individuals will be respected.

White Russians, Ukrainians and Ruthenians are moving from the region now controled by the Germans to territory occupied by Russians. Germans in Russian controled territories are moving into the German area as fast as possible.

Germans Explain Haste.

"This must be accomplished before the local German population is bolshevized by the Russians," Nazis explained.

Simultaneously, preparations were under way to move the Poles out of the territories that Germany incorporated into the reich. To find them new homes, a new Poland about the size of the old duchy of Poland is being set up, with its capital at Cracow, where the German governor, Commissioner of Justice Hans Frank, rules as Adolf Hitler's deputy.

Jews are being moved from all parts of Poland adjacent to territories controled by the Nazis into a Jewish reservation between Lublin and the River San.

Get Orders to Move.

Germans whose families had lived for centuries in the Baltic states are being settled in newly conquered Polish territory. Poles and Jews who lived in the former Polish corridor and the Polish area incorporated into the reich will make way for the Germans from the Baltic and the Russian part of Poland. The Poles will go to the Polish area and the Jews to the Jewish area near Lublin.

A number of Jewish families in the former Polish corridor received instructions from Nazi authorities to be prepared to move within three days. Their destination was not announced.

All Jewish men will be compelled to do physical work in their new home. Only doctors will be allowed to continue in their profession. After the men have completed the preparatory settlement work, their families will be allowed to join them, possibly in six or eight months.

Must Turn Over Homes.

When the Jews leave for the Jewish area their homes in Germany will be turned over to Jewish welfare agents. The latter will use the proceeds of the sale of homes and their contents to pay debts of Jews or to help other destitute Jews.

If the plans for the Jewish reservation work out according to the German government's wishes, Jews will be granted administration privileges. Nazis said the Jews will be allowed to appoint a mayor and other officials.

"All Jews will be moved out of Germany within a year if the scheme works," the Nazis added.

Hongkong Gets 40 Whippet Tanks to Bolster Defense

HONGKONG, Nov. 3.—The arrival of 40 of the latest type of Vickers whippet tanks from England today put this colony almost at the last stage of complete preparedness so far as any threat arising in the far east is concerned. The European war has led to setting up effective harbor protection here. About 2,000 volunteers are well equipped to supplement the British army garrison and antiaircraft defense.

MRS. PEARL BROWN.

Mrs. Pearl Brown didn't say no when Judge Joseph Sabath asked her to patch up her romance with Michael Kay yesterday. She only said there were these difficulties: He punctures her tires, soaps her windows, telephones her before time to get up, tells her customers in her beauty shop at 445 North Kedzie avenue she's a gold digger, and—he's sueing her for $3,000.

Mrs. Brown is 33 years old, a divorcée. Kay is 38 years old. He lives at 3149 Monroe street. He's suing her because she didn't marry him after accepting presents that he said cost $3,000: a bathtub, stove, washer, ironing board, and other furnishings for a summer home.

Her attorney, David Alswang, wanted the judge to forbid Kay to annoy Mrs. Brown. But the judge gave Kay a warning and continued the case until Nov. 17, when he hopes Mrs. Brown will have made up her mind about loving Kay just as he is.

GERMAN REVENUE FROM TAXATION SHOWS INCREASE

BERLIN, Nov. 3 (AP).—The German press published tax statistics today which it said showed that the reich was prepared financially to carry the war to a victorious end. Tax revenues for the second quarter of 1939—July 1 to Sept. 30—amounted to $2,471,960,000, which, the newspapers said, was $600,000,000 above revenues during the same period last year.

Germany's decision to permit citizens of India caught in this country by the war to leave without being treated as enemies was announced today. Thirty Indian citizens are to be taken to The Netherlands frontier. DNB, official German news agency, said that India was being dragged into the war against its will and that Germany felt no hostility against India.

It also was disclosed that the government will not call back for resettlement Germans who live in Jugo-Slavia.

COLOGNE JEWS' FOOD PURCHASES CURBED BY NAZIS

Fowl and fish—except canned—are forbidden to Jews. In the cases of mixed marriages, the women, not the men, must be responsible for the housekeeping. Aryan women married to Jews may buy in Aryan shops, but Jewish women married to Aryans must patronize designated shops and must not send their husbands to do the shopping.

FINLAND DEFIES SOVIET THREAT; READY TO FIGHT

Refuses to Meet Russian Territorial Demands.

Meet One Hour in Moscow.

MOSCOW, Nov. 3 (AP).—Finland's representatives had an hour's conference with Russian officials tonight against a background of grim hints from the soviet press and radio that they had better sign on the dotted line.

Shortly before the Finns were called to the Kremlin, Pravda, organ of the communist party, asserted that Finland's foreign minister, Eljas Erkko, had directly threatened the soviet union in a speech Wednesday and that his remarks "cannot be appraised otherwise than as an appeal for war with the U. S. R. R."

[Erkko, in his speech Wednesday, said Finland was ready to make arrangements for improving Leningrad's defensive position, but that "any guardianship which a foreign power might receive over Finnish territory must be regarded as endangering Finland's neutrality."]

Hints Empires Push Finns.

Pravda, in asserting that Erkko wanted war, hinted that Great Britain and France were backing both Finland and Sweden in their opposition to Russian demands in the Baltic. Swedish politicians, the paper charged, were acting "on orders of their bosses in the west."

"We will throw to the devils all games of political gamblers and tread our own way despite everything," Pravda said as quoted in a translation issued by Tass, soviet official news agency. "We will insure the security of the U. S. R. R. without regard to anything, breaking all and every obstacle on the way to our goal."

Pravda said Erkko's position was "precisely like that of the former Polish foreign minister, Joseph Beck. He, too, made provocative speeches, and the result was that he provoked war with Germany."

Cites Benefits of Pacts.

Citing the signing of pacts between Russia and Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, Pravda said:

"Attempts to deny the mutual advantages of these agreements for all their signatories are made only by their common enemies, interested in fomenting war not only in western but in eastern Europe as well, particularly on the Balkan coast."

Pravda's attack was reminiscent of the press campaign prior to the entrance of the Red army into Poland. It also was the first time since the war started that Sweden had been attacked in the soviet press.

Japanese Bombers Wreck British Hospital in China

SHANGHAI, Nov. 3 (AP).—The British Church Missionary society reported to the British embassy today that its hospital at Hingwa, 70 miles southwest of Foochow, was wrecked in a Japanese air raid on Wednesday. There were several casualties among Chinese.

NAZIS ESTIMATE 840,000 POLES TAKEN PRISONER

BERLIN, Nov. 3 (AP).—A German war office spokesman, asked for statistics on Polish losses in the war on the eastern front, said today that no accurate figures would be available for at least two years.

He estimated that slightly less than 2,000,000 Polish soldiers were in the field at various stages of mobilization, that 840,000 were taken as prisoners by the Germans or Russians, and that about 60,000 escaped over nearby borders.

This would leave about 1,000,000 unaccounted for as killed or wounded or escaped by taking off their uniforms and reëntering private life.

The spokesman said some Polish prisoners, particularly farmers, had been released to return to their homes.

GERMANS POUR BIG GUN SHELLS ON ENEMY LINES

Sudden Barrage Reaches Evacuated Areas.

PARIS, Nov. 3 (AP).—Renewed German troop activities, accompanied by artillery barrages from Nazi big guns, were reported tonight south of Zweibruecken, shifting action from the western to the eastern sector of the northern part of the front.

The German guns opened up suddenly, military dispatches said, laying down a heavy fire on the French front lines as well as on the territory in the rear from which the civilian population has departed.

French military sources said the Germans apparently were trying to reduce the bulge in the French frontier formed by established boundaries.

Hindrance to Communications.

This bulge was said to have hampered German communications between strong concentrations further east and in the western sector which slants northward to the Luxemburg frontier.

Dispatches from the front said the German stategy appeared to be to concentrate a pincer movement on the three-sided, flat-topped frontier projection which juts into Germany between the towns of Walschbrunn and Loutzviller, about five miles south of Zweibruecken.

In addition, French observers said, new concentrations of German troops were reported north of Saarguemines along the upper waters of the Blies river. The eastern sector which was identified in dispatches as the Ohrenthal zone, because of the little French frontier village in the middle, was said to be active, altho the action resulted in no change of lines.

Contact Unit Clashes.

The French communique tonight said:

"A quiet day on the whole front. Locally there have been a few encounters between contact units."

The morning communique had reported:

"A quiet night. Some artillery and infantry fire."

[A German high command communique yesterday reported "feeble artillery and reconnaissance activity" on the western front.]

Kermit Roosevelt Trains as Machine Gun Specialist

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP).—Kermit Roosevelt, recovered from a slight illness, has begun active training as a British machine gun specialist with the Middlesex regiment, friends said today. Roosevelt, who accepted a second lieutenant's commission, is slated for rank of acting major. His friends said he was retaining his American citizenship.

BRITAIN SLASHES HOUR FROM ITS BLACKOUT PERIOD

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Britain's blackout is to be shortened by one hour starting tomorrow night. Blackout will not begin until half an hour after sunset and it will end half an hour before sunrise. Heretofore it has begun it sunset and ended at sunrise.

The concession follows representations by employers and trade unionists, who complained the blackout was reducing industrial output. Tests were carried out by the royal air force before the changes were decided on.

Motion picture houses will stay open longer starting Monday. All movies and theaters, except those in central London, will be allowed to stay open until 11 p. m. In London's central theater district movies which at present are allowed to remain open up to 10 p. m. in alternate weeks will be able to show movies up to 11 p. m. in those weeks.

BIDS TO RUSSIAN PARTY DECLINED BY CONGRESSMEN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—Chances of seeing a congressman at a big soviet embassy reception next Tuesday afternoon dwindled today as one representative and senator after another revealed that he had sent "regrets."

Occasion is "the 22d anniversary of the great October Socialist revolution," according to the engraved R. S. V. P cards bearing the gold seal of the U. S. S. R. which went out with an estimated 1,000 invitations to Washington society.

Most of the congressional leaders who received invitations and declined said merely that they had expected adjournment and made plans to go home. Other reasons given ranged from the delicate diplomatic situation to an aversion to vodka.

HUNGARIANS ASK AN EXPLANATION OF SLOVAK RIOTS

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 3 (AP).—The Hungarian government today ordered its chargé d'affaires at Bratislava to protest and demand an explanation of anti-Hungarian riots in the Slovakian capital last night.

Thousands of Slovaks marched thru the Hungarian section of Bratislava, sacking two Hungarian newspaper offices and a number of Hungarian shops after a massmeeting called to protest Hungary's acquisition of a slice of Slovak territory under the Munich settlement a year ago.

Some quarters here said they feared the riots might provide an indirect way for Germany to bring pressure on Hungary. Slovakia, formerly a province of Czecho-Slovakia, now is nominally an autonomous republic, but under German military protection. During last night's disorders police watched with folded arms as the rioters surged thru the streets, shouting anti-Hungarian slogans.

BELGIUM LIFTS RESTRICTIONS AS WAR FEAR FADES

Cabinet Removes Curfew on Cafes and Bars.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 3.—Despite disturbing news from Finland and the Balkans, Belgium today relaxed the social and political rigidity fixed by the first emergency efforts to preserve neutrality.

Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak gave out a reassuring statement, after a meeting of the foreign affairs committee, expressing confidence that the Belgian neutrality policy would be successful. He denied that he was considering censorship or other restrictions on the press.

Lift Curfew on Cafés.

His statement came soon after the cabinet's action in removing all emergency restrictions governing closing hours of cafés and bars, which had been a constant source of complaints from owners and patrons.

The newspaper Le Pays Reel scoffed at recurring reports that Belgium and Holland are about to be attacked by Germany. It asserted that the reports emanated from England to arouse public opinion in the two countries.

The paper praised the refusal of Holland to enter defensive military and political alliances which Belgium is reported to have tried to effect. It quoted an Amsterdam newspaper as saying such an agreement would be only a military illusion and political danger.

Spaak Explains Warning.

Spaak warned newspapers a week ago that if they did not show restraint in trying to involve the country in war the government would act. By the word "act," he explained today, he did not mean censorship, but enforcement of old laws protecting national interest.

The Tribune correspondent is informed that financial circles are more optimistic regarding the possibility of raising the $300,000,000 needed to meet the extraordinary costs arising from the war. Banks are said to be offering to supply $166,500,000 of the loan. If this is done, raising of the remaining amount would be an easy problem.

DESPITE CRITICS, U. S. STICKS WITH NEUTRALITY BELT

But Denies Any Idea of Using Force.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—In the face of criticism of the wide "neutrality zone" established around the Americas, the United States stuck by the plan today, altho announcing it has no intention of using force to prevent belligerent activity within the area.

President Roosevelt said at his press conference the zone plan is now in effect. The state department later made public a memorandum saying there is no implication of "force on the part of any American republic." This indicated enforcement would be by diplomatic pressure, based on information obtained by patrols in the zone.

Zone Varies in Width.

The zone, varying from 250 to 1,250 miles in width, was established by American republics thru the recent "declaration of Panama." The idea was to keep hostilities between the European nations at a distance from American shores.

Information reaching here is that six nations are now maintaining patrols of the zone—the United States, Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Chile, and Ecuador.

Patrol's Purpose Explained.

The state department emphasized that the patrol provisions "provide for nothing more than the kind of patrol which the government of the United States and several other American governments have recently undertaken."

"The purpose of the patrol proposed," said the department, "is to enable the governments of the American nations to obtain the fullest information possible with regard to what is going on within the restricted area.

"It must be apparent that in times such as these it is of the utmost importance in the interest of the preservation of the neutrality of this hemisphere that each American nation have the fullest possible advice as to the activities undertaken within the waters near its coasts."

ITALIAN DIVORCES WIFE WHO WON'T JOIN HIM IN EXILE

Dr. Giuseppe Antonio Borgese won a divorce yesterday when he told of his unsuccessful efforts to persuade Mrs. Maria Borgese of Milan to join him in his American exile from Italy. Dr. Borgese, author of "Goliath," is now a professor of romance languages at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Borgese translated several of his wife's letters in which she declined to join him. The author's wife is herself a poet and novelist. The Borgeses have two children, Leonardo, 34 years old, an artist living with his mother in Milan, and Giovanna, 28, who came to the United States with her father and now lives in New York. Dr. Borgese told Judge Cornelius J. Harrington he is now an American citizen.

JUGO-SLAV SOLDIERS MUTINY; SHOOT FIFTY CIVILIANS IN TOWN

LJUBLJANA, Jugo-Slavia, Nov. 3 (AP).—Jugo-Slav gendarmes were ordered today to move on deserters from a Croatian infantry regiment intrenched behind machine guns at a post outside Karlovac [Karlstadt], 30 miles southwest of Zagreb. The revolt developed three weeks ago, but news of it had been suppressed.

The regiment, made up largely of peasants from newly autonomous Croatia, had been told by agitators it was to go to the western front to fight for France.

When the mutiny broke out the entire regiment of 4,500 swept into Karlovac. The mutineers were said to have shot 50 civilians.

An army commission charged the men and their officers had been drinking heavily. Regiments were rushed to put down the uprising. Many of the mutineers were rounded up and sent to southern Serbia. Others, however, resisted capture, fleeing into the woods, where they intrenched themselves with light arms.

NORWEGIANS SET FLINT FREE; JAIL NAZI PRIZE CREW

Berlin Enters Its Protest Against Action.

Admiralty's Statement.

Some hours later came the admiralty's statement which said:

"The American City of Flint with a German prize crew was allowed to use Norwegian territorial waters from Tromsoe southward. The ship, accompanied by a Norwegian warship, Olav Tryggvason, and one torpedo boat, arrived at Haugesund Friday evening and anchored off Haugesund without permission.

"As there was no valid reason for calling at the Norwegian port authorities decided the ship should be given free and the German prize crew interned."

Thus came a startling new turn in the series of incidents which have kept the diplomatic wires burning between Washington, D. C., Moscow, and Berlin since the 4,963 ton City of Flint fell into the hands of the Germans.

Russia Bares News of Capture.

First official news of the capture of the vessel came from Moscow Oct. 23 when the soviet government announced that she had been sailed into the Arctic port of Murmansk by the German prize crew.

At the time of her capture she was en route from New York to Liverpool and Glasgow with a cargo of tractors, grain, leather, fruit, and wax.

Until the Moscow announcement, the government-owned United States Line, which leased the City of Flint from the United States maritime commission, had had no definite word of her whereabouts.

She had put into Tromsoe, Norway, for water but there had been no official report to her American owners.

The Russian government said that the prize crew took the City of Flint to Murmansk to repair damage to her engines. This was permissible under international law which provides that prize ships captured by belligerents may put into neutral ports for such emergencies.

Uncertainty shrouded the status of the City of Flint until the soviet government announced Oct. 26 that she had sailed from Murmansk under the American flag after an investigation of her cargo and completion of engine repairs.

It was not until the freighter was well at sea when it was learned that the German prize crew was taking her toward Germany in an effort to run the British blockade.

In a sea-going game of hide-and-seek, the ship made her way carefully down the coast of Norway.

Keeping to neutral waters, she wormed her way past Lodigen Light, 600 miles north of Bergen, Wednesday, and the next day passed Maaloy, 110 miles north of Bergen.

Second Stirring Episode.

She was reported to have observed international regulations until she anchored offshore in Haugesund harbor. While she was at anchor the British admiralty in London said British warships had sighted the City of Flint.

The capture of the City of Flint by the Deutschland was the second stirring episode in which she figured since the European war started. On Sept. 3 she took aboard 220 survivors of the sunken British liner Athenia.

Capt. J. A. Gainard, a veteran of the sea, brought the survivors to Halifax and New York and on his next trip toward Europe ran into the second and more eventful experience—capture by the Deutschland.

At the time the Nazi pocket battleship hailed the City of Flint the German commander placed 38 surviving crewmen of the torpedoed British freighter Stonegate aboard along with the prize crew. The Stonegate survivors were landed at Tromsoe on the vessel's northern voyage to Murmansk.

U. S. Notified Ship Is Free.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—The state department received an official dispatch tonight saying that the City of Flint "now flies the American flag."

END C. I. O. STRIKE AGAINST ARMOUR IN NORTH DAKOTA

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 3 [Special].—The C. I. O. strike at the Armour & Co. plant here, which had been in progress since Aug. 23, ended today with strikers agreeing to return to work within a week. The company said the strikers will forfeit their seniority rights in relation to the rights of employés who remained on the job.

Reëmployment will not be given the two men whose discharge for refusal to do work assigned them led to the strike, according to a company statement and the union agreed it would not make their case or any other events involved in the strike a basis for charges before the National Labor Relations board.

The company said it will be able to reëmploy the strikers without discharging other workers hired to replace them because of increased live stock receipts in recent weeks.

MRS. STEFANIA SADOWSKI.

Mrs. Stefania Sadowski, whose husband, Jozef, went to Poland in June to settle his father's estate, was informed by the state department yesterday that he had been executed Oct. 20 after a court martial by German army authorities in Warsaw.

Sadowski, who was 51 years old, had been an American citizen for 20 years. He enlisted in the Polish Civil Guard in September and was assistant chief of the 6th precinct of the guards in Warsaw. The Germans found him guilty of concealing a quantity of arms and ammunition. They said he gave no indication he was an American citizen.

Mrs. Sadowski lives at 3331 North Pulaski road, where her husband operated a cleaning and dyeing plant. "I didn't even know he had enlisted," she said last night. "I had only one letter from him since he left. He said he would be home before winter."

The Sadowskis' niece, Irene Sadowski, 25, of Milwaukee, worked in a consular office in Warsaw for two years. She escaped and is now employed at the American embassy in Berlin. Her father, Leo, a world war veteran, is in Hines hospital.

ORDER DIES QUIZ ON CANAL ZONE UNION ACTIVITY

C. I. O. Organizer There a Red, Committee Told.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—The house committee investigating un-American activities ordered a detailed investigation of union activities in the Panama Canal Zone today. The order followed testimony that the C. I. O.'s organization director there is a communist.

The testimony came from Frederick C. Phillips, former official of the C. I. O. National Maritime union, who told the committee the man in question is H. A. Stoudt and that he received his job thru the influence of John L. Lewis, C. I. O. president, and on recommendation of Joseph Curran, head of the N. M. U.

Committee Aroused.

Moreover, Phillips said, there has been great organizational activity in recent months among nonseamen, and Curran has emphasized the need "to lay the basis for work among the 16,000 civil employés."

Mention of the Canal Zone, strategically vital area in American defense plans, aroused the quick interest of the committee.

Representative J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.] demanded to know why a maritime union should manifest interest "at this critical time" in organizing foreign employés of the Canal Zone who never go to sea.

Rhea Whitley, committee counsel, was instructed to have investigators go into the Canal Zone situation.

Educators to Be Called.

Declaring that communism has crept into "practically every university in the United States," Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.], announced today that "eminent educators" would be called soon to testify before the committee.

"Well known professors will make out a startling case showing how communism has infiltrated into colleges and universities thruout the land," Dies said.

Dies predicted also that the committee would go to the west coast early next year to investigate communism in labor unions and in Hollywood.

WIFE OF FLINT'S CAPTAIN HAPPY HE HAS SHIP BACK

Melrose, Mass., Nov. 3 [Special].—Mrs. Joseph A. Gainard who has been peppering Washington, D. C., Berlin, and Moscow with pleas for news of her husband, the master of the American freighter City of Flint, and for pledges of his safety, was relieved tonight to hear that Capt. Gainard once more was in command of his vessel.

"I'm glad to hear that the ship is back in the hands of the American officers and crew," she said. "But naturally I'll be much happier when I hear that my husband is safely back on land again. I guess it's been rather a disagreeable thing for everybody."

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

George Marksteiner, 50 years old, a painter, died of a heart attack last night in his home at 2116 Kenmore avenue.

LONGSHOREMEN'S LEADER SPURNS MEDIATION BOARD

Strike Ties Up East Coast Shipping.

New York, Nov. 3 [Special].—Joseph P. Ryan, president of the A. F. of L. International Longshoremen's association, served notice today that he would have nothing to do with the Federal Maritime Labor board because it has a friend of Harry Bridges among its commissioners.

Ryan revealed that Robert W. Bruere, board chairman, offered to send a mediator to help settle the strike of 5,000 longshoremen which today began to paralyze all coastwise shipping on the Atlantic seaboard. At least ten big vessels were tied up in the port of New York tonight.

"No Confidence."

Not only would Ryan have nothing to do with the mediator, James L. Bernard, but also he suggested that the Maritime Labor board be abolished.

"As far as our organization is concerned," Ryan said, "we have no confidence in the board while Dr. Louis Bloch of California is a member.

"We know Dr. Bloch's sympathies are with the communistic dual longshoremen's organization on the Pacific coast. We should like to see the Maritime Labor board abolished."

The reference, "dual organization" was to the C. I. O.'s International Longshoremen and Warehousemen association, headed by Harry Bridges, whom Ryan frequently has characterized as a communist.

There was no picketing in the strike, but its effectiveness was shown by the cancellation of six sailings. Ryan said more than 70 ships operated coastwise by nine companies would be tied up.

Thousands Affected.

In addition to the 5,000 longshoremen striking here, thousands of teamsters were made idle, as well as upwards of 10,000 dock workers and teamsters in other cities.

Ryan said the officers of the union's New York district council opposed the strike.

"The men thought differently," he said. "They believed that now was the time to strike because of a rush of work in the coastwise trade. We are backing the strike 100 per cent."

The union is demanding $1 an hour, a 5 cent increase over the present rate.

The lines affected by the strike are the Savannah, Clyde-Mallory, Pan-Atlantic, Bull, United Fruit, Eastern Steamship, Newtex, Morgan, and Moore-McCormack. Only their coastwise ships are affected.

A spokesman for John E. Cragi, vice president of the Clyde-Mallory Line and chairman of the Ship Owners' Negotiating committee, admitted that the port was all tied up. He said no freight was being received or delivered.

Passengers Lose Out.

The Clyde-Mallory freighter Medina, which docked this morning, was the first inbound vessel affected. No attempt was made to unload its cargo. The line said that 200 persons who booked passage have been notified that the Shawnee will not sail tomorrow.

Departure of the George Washington of the Old Dominion Line, scheduled to sail at noon for Norfolk, was canceled, as was the City of Birmingham. The New York, due to leave Boston for New York late today, was held up.

CARDENAS FOLLOWERS BACK COMACHO FOR MEXICAN PRESIDENCY

Gen. Manuel Avila Comacho.

[A. P. Wirephoto.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 3 (AP).—The PRM, Mexican revolutionary party of President Lazaro Cardenas, today nominated Gen. Manuel Avila Comacho as its presidential candidate. He is 42 years old and a former minister of war.

Political observers predicted that a more conservative Mexican governmental social program would be forthcoming as a result of the PRM's 1940 platform preamble. They interpreted the preamble, released last night, as a reply to the more conservative policies advocated by Gen. Juan Andrew Almazan, independent presidential candidate. Cardenas' term ends Dec. 1, 1940.

The preamble calls for coöperation in developing the national wealth with due respect to the incentives of private benefit; guarantees of rights of labor, but by such means that private industry will not find in them any hampering or hostility; and gradual reparation of social injustices.

LAWYER'S WIDOW FIGHTS BEQUEST TO HIS SECRETARY

Mrs. Augustine Alden filed suit in Circuit court yesterday to set aside the will of her husband, Frank Alden, a lawyer, who left one-fourth of his $50,000 estate to his secretary. The secretary is Miss Anna Faux, 30 years old, of Villa Park.

Alden, who was 66 years old, lived at 1020 Gunderson avenue, Oak Park. He died Aug. 2 in St. Luke's hospital. The suit charged that Miss Faux and Ward H. Harris, an attorney who shared Alden's office, induced Alden to make his will after he had fallen into a partial coma.

The will left half of the estate to Mrs. Alden, who is 65, and the remaining quarter to a niece.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

ILLINOIS PROTEST AGAINST SEAWAY GIVEN ROOSEVELT

Lucas and Slattery Hand Over Horner Message.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—A vigorous Illinois protest against any ratification of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway treaty was placed in President Roosevelt's hands today by Senators Scott W. Lucas and James M. Slattery of Illinois and Benjamin S. Adamowski, majority leader of the Illinois house of representatives.

After he had read the protest, which was drafted by Gov. Henry Horner, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not believe there is any immediate possibility of ratification of the treaty. Although he did not say what he regarded as "immediate," members of the group interpreted the statement as indicating Mr. Roosevelt feels the project he is seeking to revive could not be brought up for a vote in the senate until late next spring.

Ample Hearings Promised.

Mr. Roosevelt said that before any action could be expected, Illinois will have plenty of time to make its protest. He asserted that before the senate could vote on the treaty the senate foreign relations committee would have to hold hearings, at which every one who so desired would be afforded an opportunity to be heard for or against the treaty.

The governor's protest against the pact, which the President revived when Canadian opposition melted on the outbreak of war, dwelt on the injustice of "freezing" water diversion from Lake Michigan for the Illinois waterway.

The treaty would limit diversion to 1,500 cubic feet a second, the rate of flow now in force under a United States Supreme court decision. Gov. Horner said that if the treaty is enacted the rate of diversion will stay at that amount, even tho the usefulness of the waterway and the life and health of persons in the Illinois waterway area are seriously endangered.

Former Limit Recommended.

United States army engineers recently recommended that the flow be restored to the former limitation of 5,000 cubic feet a second into sanitary canal as a health and navigation measure . A petition is being prepared which will ask the Supreme court to grant the suggested relief.

"The 1,500 cubic feet per second flow is utterly inadequate for the maintenance of navigation, the preservation of sanitation, and the interests of wild life," Senator Lucas said as he left the President's office.

Senator Lucas said he does not believe there is any chance of approving the treaty in the senate. He said 24 of the senators who voted against the treaty in 1934 are still in the senate and would do so again. Thirty-three votes would be sufficient to kill any attempt to revive the treaty and these will be obtained easily if it is revived, Lucas predicted.

Senator Slattery declared he will oppose the treaty if it is ever brought to the senate floor. He and Senator Lucas would raise the number of treaty opponents to 26. Slattery said he was certain that more than the necessary seven more will be found if the seaway project is ever brought to a vote.

PAINT STAIN ON VICTIM CONVICTS JOLIET MOTORIST

A cream colored paint stain led to the conviction of a hit and run driver on a manslaughter charge in the Will county Circuit court late last night.

He is Ray Burgard, 44 years old, 802 North Raynor avenue, Joliet, a wall paper mill superintendent. Last Jan. 9 a cream colored automobile killed Paul Markgraf, 9, outside the Joliet city limits. The boy was hurled 110 feet.

Police found traces of cream colored paint on the boy's coat. Burgard, owner of a cream colored car, was arrested. In court C. W. Muehlberger, Cook county coroner's chemist, testified that the paint on the coat contained the same ingredients as the paint on Burgard's car. Burgard offered no defense. The verdict was returned by a jury of men and women. Burgard faces a sentence of 1 to 14 years.

Drives Past Four Lights; Gets Five Days in Jail

Luther Hill, 36 years old, 1243 Wilson avenue, was sentenced to five days in the county jail for reckless driving by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in the Safety court yesterday. Police testified that Hill drove his car past four stop lights in Sheridan road on Oct. 28.

FOUND HANGED IN HOME.

Anton Schultz, 45 years old, an unemployed printer, was found hanged yesterday in the basement of his home at 5426 South Christiana avenue.

BEST WAY TO AID FARMERS IS LOW TAXES, SAYS LUND

Cites Figures, Urges Pay Roll Cut.

[This is the sixth in a series of articles analyzing by departments the reductions in state spending proposed by Representative Lund.]

Low taxation would be more appreciated by farmers than any service that the state government could provide. Representative Arnold L. Lund made this assertion yesterday in disclosing his detailed plan for a 44 per cent cut in the $4,797,260 appropriations to be spent by the state department of agriculture.

"The best things the state can give the farmer are honest government and low taxes," Lund said. "Great expenditures for home advisers, premiums for county fairs, and padded pay rolls are no aid to the farmer. Generally the jobs go to persons too busy with politics to plow the fields."

Compares Spending in '33-'35.

Lund said the work of the department does not appear to have changed in the last few years, but directed attention to the following comparison:

Item.	1939-'41.	1933-'35.
Wages and salaries...	$1,437,320	$1,065,214
Travel	212,840	143,400
Contingencies	35,000	10,362

Why must the employés travel so much more? Lund queried. If the appropriation for travel were reduced, perhaps it would tend to keep them in their offices and fewer would be needed, he said.

Much of the work of various divisions in the department is overlapping, he charged. Consolidation of these divisions would reduce costs, eliminating the need for half a dozen offices with six sets of clerks and stenographers, he said.

List of Proposed Cuts.

The following table shows the appropriations and recommended reductions:

	Appropriated.	Cut Proposed.
General office	$ 132,620	$ 31,040
County agri. advisers.	221,160	221,160
Grants to county fairs	650,000	400,000
Agri. extension clubs	110,000	....
Vocational sect., fairs	60,000	30,000
County home advisers	85,000	85,000
Exhibits at fairs.....	20,000	20,000
Seed inspection	99,480	35,000
Div. of animal indus.	1,062,600	500,000
Div. of apiary inspect.	35,000	10,000
Div. of plant indus...	122,880	38,000
Div. of foods, dairies	417,180	52,000
Div. of dairy husb...	22,740	6,000
Div. of poultry husb.	32,640	8,000
Div. of state fair....	483,960	124,000
State fair premiums.	337,000	200,000
National swine show	1,500	....
Div. of markets......	81,500	15,000
Div. of agri. statistics	40,480	10,000
Div. of standards....	144,180	35,000
Div. Chi. grain insp..	535,680	250,000
E. St. L. grain insp..	101,[illegible]60	50,000
Totals	$4,797,260	$2,120,200

Lund said he believes that farmers would support these drastic reductions, knowing that their own money is being used in an attempt to buy their votes by means of such expenditures.

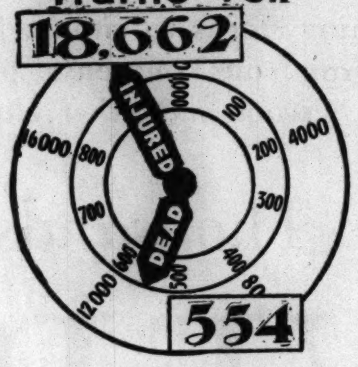
THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1939 Traffic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

RETURN DOCTOR FOR TRIAL IN AUTO DEATH OF BOY, 6

Dr. Jerome Kaiser, 28 years old, of Charleston, Ill., was brought to Chicago yesterday and lodged in the county jail to await arraignment Nov. 7 on an automobile manslaughter charge. He was arrested Aug. 22 after his car struck and killed Arden Leavitt, 6 years old, 856 East 73d street, at Cottage Grove avenue and 73d street. Dr. Kaiser was exonerated by a coroner's jury, but later was indicted on the manslaughter charge.

Frank Powell, taxicab driver, narrowly escaped serious injury when his cab skidded into a lamp post at State street and Wacker drive yesterday and was demolished.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 719 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 554 were killed in Cook county, where 18,662 were injured in the same period.

SNOWFALL TURNS FORECAST INTO A LITTLE WHITE LIE

Because of a combination of meteorological forces, Chicago had what amounted to a private snowfall yesterday. The loop was the center of the snow area. A few flakes fell in the northern suburbs and a heavier fall was recorded in the west suburbs. At the Chicago airport there wasn't enough precipitation to measure.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel, who had predicted fair weather for Chicago, awoke to find low hanging clouds over the city. Donnel explained that yesterday morning the city was in the center of a mass of cold air which had moved in from the northwest. The air over Lake Michigan was warmer. When the cold and warm air met, the air over the lake, saturated with moisture, was forced upward. It grew colder and eventually released its moisture in the form of snow. There was a total of half an inch of snow in downtown sections, but most of it melted soon after reaching the ground

Indian Held to Grand Jury in Girl's Car Crash Death

Abner St. Cyr, an Indian, was held to the grand jury by a coroner's jury yesterday in connection with the death of Miss Gladys White Eagle, 26 years old, of 669 Wrightwood avenue, also an Indian. She was killed Oct. 17 in an automobile accident at Marquette road and Cottage Grove avenue. St. Cyr, who is employed in the Chicago office of the United States department of the interior, said that Miss White Eagle was driving his car when it collided with a street car.

AUTO LAW RULED INADEQUATE; CITY OFFICIAL IS FREED

Escapes Fraud Count in License Case.

George M. Strachan.

Last January George M. Strachan, 73 years old, a veteran city employé, lost an automobile damage suit. He was ordered to pay a judgment of $465. Altho his salary as superintendent of electric service men in the department of public works is $4,500 a year, Strachan had not paid the plaintiff up to Oct. 1.

The state drivers' license law provides that licensees may be deprived of the right to drive when unpaid judgments stand against them more than 30 days. Acting under this law, Investigator Theodore Young of the office of the secretary of state took away Strachan's license. He warned him not to drive.

License Plates Seized.

Strachan kept on driving. Young seized his license plates. Strachan then went to the secretary's office at 334 South Ashland avenue and made application for a new set of license plates. In this application he stated that his old plates had been stolen.

An investigator who recognized him informed Young. Strachan was arrested on a charge of filing a false affidavit. Before his case came up before Judge John Gutknecht on Oct. 24 he paid the $465 judgment.

Judge Gutknecht held that the charge was faulty, that it should not have alleged the filing of a false affidavit but fraud in attempting to obtain the duplicate license plates [the specific offense laid down in the auto license law]. He continued the case so that a proper charge could be made.

He Wins Freedom in Court.

Yesterday the court hearing was resumed. It was no contest. Joseph Depka, assistant state's attorney, moved that the charge be nol prossed.

"There is no adequate provision of the law to cover this case," Depka said. Judge Gutknecht freed Strachan. Later Depka explained that a perjury action could not succeed because he was unable to find the employé in the secretary of state's office who would say Strachan had taken an oath when he said his old plates were stolen.

Attorney Edwin Hamilton, representing Strachan, said the outcome of the trial was logical.

"I think the law permitting confiscation of license plates is unconstitutional," he asserted.

GETS TO TAKE CHILD ON TRIP, BUT A JUDGE INSURES HER RETURN

Mrs. Pauline Scholte.

When Mrs. Pauline Paltridge Scholte asked permission yesterday to take her daughter to Los Angeles for summer vacations, Judge Cornelius J. Harrington said yes—on condition. Mrs. Scholte, who is 30 years old, was divorced last May from Richard Paltridge of 419 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park. He won custody of their daughter, Audrey, 7. The mother has remarried. The conditions the judge laid down are these: That Mrs. Scholte post a $1,000 bond and waive extradition, so that there will be no difficulty in bringing the little girl back to the court's jurisdiction. Mrs. Scholte agreed and won permission.

DENIES WAR HAS CURBED ATLANTIC OCEAN AIR MAIL

An impression that the war in Europe had curtailed trans-Atlantic air mail service to and from the United States was corrected yesterday by W. W. Howes, first assistant postmaster general, in a letter to Postmaster Ernest Kruetgen. Operation of the northern route, by way of Halifax, was suspended Oct. 4 because of weather conditions, Howes said, but there are now two flights instead of one each week over the southern route, from New York City to Lisbon, Portugal. Mail planes leave New York at 8:30 p. m. on Saturdays and Wednesdays.

SANTA TO ARRIVE NOV. 24; HERALD TOY OPENING DAY

Santa Claus is coming to town—on Nov. 24.

The early appearance of the old fellow with the red suit and white whiskers is easy to explain. It's because the Thanksgiving turkey is also an early bird this year, arriving here, by way of a presidential proclamation, on Nov. 23. Next day, the Christmas shopping season starts.

"Nov. 24 has been designated Toy Opening day as a symbol of the holiday gift season," Lawrence H. Whiting, vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said yesterday. The Cook county retail council, State street council, and numerous neighborhood organizations will cooperate to provide complete lines of toys in thousands of stores.

Only 42—count 'em—42 shopping days until Christmas.

AUTO INDUSTRY SHOWS ITS 1940 WONDERS TODAY

Factories Watch Buyers in Chicago Market.

BY HAL FOUST.

A preview for members of the trade opened Chicago's 40th annual automobile show last night. With their families and invited friends, approximately 10,000 persons were in the International Amphitheater, Halsted and 43d streets, to see this year's exposition of automobile advancements.

From 2 o'clock this afternoon until 11 o'clock tonight, the public is invited to inspect and to learn about the latest in motor vehicles. Tomorrow and daily thereafter thru Nov. 12, the hours will be from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. Admission is 55 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Nine Days to See Show.

The management, a committee of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, expects a nine day gate tally to exceed the 310,000 admissions last year when the show ran for eight days.

All of the 1940 models are on display, in carpeted aisles in a decorated exhibition hall. It is the only time they are all assembled affording ready comparisons.

Attracting much attention from patrons are mechanical displays, bisected engines, cutaway chasses, and dissembled parts, labeled and explained so that even an office employé with engineering skill limited to operation of a filing case can understand what is under hood and floor boards. Women, experienced in tinkering with the equipment of a modern household, are as attentive as men to explanations of what makes the wheels go around.

Singing and Dancing Show.

The preview disclosed that the entertainment feature this year is really a show in itself, girls, singing, dancing for eye and ear diversion, while new cars are paraded across the stage. Lola Fletcher, former soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company, is the director of ceremonies. Also on the program are Sigrid Dagnie, dancer; the Bennett Singers, 19 "beauty queens" in costumes representing the nationalities molded in this metropolis, and a dozen pairs of jitter bugs.

This stage performance, entitled "Dame Fashion," will be repeated each afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and each evening at 9 o'clock. Come early to get a good seat.

The preview customers, in the main, were familiar with the new cars. The public will be pleased to verify by personal inspection the improvements incorporated into the 1940 models by stylists and engineers backed by venturesome capital in this highly competitive industry. The prices, as a whole, are slightly lower. Where there is no slice from last year's figure, there has been no increase to cover betterments to the product.

Watched by Factory Officials.

Factory officials began to arrive in Chicago to observe the public's response to these improvements. Chicago is the center of America's motor market. And the market here is typically American in contrast to the individualism of New York where the manufacturers held their automobile show a few weeks ago.

Sales and dealer orders booked here will guide executives in scheduling production. Since this is America's largest manufacturing industry, the show therefore has significance in national economics. The manufacturers, in temporary headquarters in loop hotels, will be influenced in fixing their commitments for supplies and materials, commitments that affect employment thruout the country.

Sues German Mate

[Root Photo.]

MRS. GLADYS PERROW SIEMS.

Charging that Alexander Siems has deserted her and returned to his home in Hamburg, Germany, Mrs. Gladys Siems brought suit for divorce in Waukegan yesterday. Mrs. Siems, who is 27 years old, is living at the home of her father, Arthur Perrow, secretary and treasurer of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, at 880 Roslyn circle, Highland Park.

Mrs. Siems met Siems on shipboard while on her way to Europe to attend the Salzburg music festival. They were married Feb. 13, 1937, in Miami, Fla. For a time they lived in Haiti, where Siems was in the exporting business. Thence they went to Germany, eventually returning to Chicago. The bill, drawn by Curry J. Martin and Kenneth C. Berry, attorneys, asked no alimony.

Married to Same Man, Girls Now Live Together

Tulare, Cal., Nov. 3 [Special].—Helen Douglas and Mildred Dickson, both 20 years old, discovered they had an important matter in common. Both were married to Wilfred Trudel, 38. Instead of hating each other, they became friendly and moved into the same house while the law undertook to untangle Trudel's surplus matrimony. Officers learned that Trudel married Miss Douglas in 1934 and Miss Dickson in 1937.

French Soldiers Get Leave to Pay New Babies a Visit

PARIS, Nov. 3 (AP).—Soldiers who have become fathers since the war began went home today to see their babies. Three day furloughs were made possible under a special decree in keeping with the program of encouraging family life even in wartime. The government paid the fares. To make sure there was no deception the fathers were required to bring back with them the new birth certificates.

AIRPLANE SHOWS HELP ARMY TO DRAW RECRUITS

15 Units Tour Cities to Exhibit Equipment.

The United States army used showmanship last night in its drive for recruits in the 6th corps area—Wisconsin, Illinois, and Michigan. At Kenosha, Wis., and Lawrenceville, Ill., army antiaircraft searchlight batteries coöperated with flyers of the 15th observation squadron to demonstrate interesting phases of army life.

These shows, the first ever put on by regular tactical units of the army in any recruiting campaign, were intended to lure mechanically minded young men toward the mechanized branches of the modern field army. The units that participated are among 15 recruiting parties now scouring the three states. The corps area needs 1,200 new enlisted men by Nov. 12.

Fly Over Other Towns.

"Flights over various cities will be made each night from Nov. 3 to Nov. 10," Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 2d army and the 6th corps area with headquarters at Chicago, said yesterday. "Saturday night the flyers and antiaircraft searchlights will demonstrate maneuvers over Mount Carroll, Havana, and Mount Vernon, Ill.

"They will put on the same show over ten other cities during the next seven days."

"The recruiting parties are sent out to explain to young men the possibilities of service in the army," Gen. Ford continued. "Recruiting officers are instructed to answer all questions so the candidate can judge as to his preference for an army career over one in civilian life."

104 Recruits on Nov. 1.

Capt. R. G. Carpenter of the area intelligence staff reported yesterday that 104 men enlisted in the army on Nov. 1. In the Chicago district there were 18 enlistments, while there were 22 in Milwaukee, 29 in Detroit, and 25 in Peoria. There were 10 others at army posts within the 6th corps area, he said, to make up the total.

Twenty-one flying cadets who have completed their first 12 weeks of training at the Glenview civilian training school have been transferred to Randolph field, Tex., near San Antonio, for the second stage in their flying course, Gen. Ford announced.

Glenview, which is one of eight civilian primary flying schools now used by the air corps, trained the men in the basic elements of flying. They now will begin learning advanced flying. If successful in passing the second stage of training, they will be sent to Kelly field, the army's military flying school.

The Chicago cadets in this group are: James H. Thompson, 641 West 65th street; Walter H. Brandenburg, 2924 North Western avenue; Robert E. Coulter, 539 North Waiola avenue, La Grange; and Gerald M. Keenan, 7939 South Maryland avenue.

BROKER ROBBED OF CASH, CAR.

Sidney M. Keller, 2100 Lincoln Park West, a broker, was robbed of $20 and his automobile by two Negro gunmen at Cottage Grove avenue and 51st street last night. He is head of an investment security house bearing his name at 100 West Monroe street.

Dances at Festival

More than three hundred Chicagoans danced the rhumba, the tango, the conga, and the zamba last night at the Lake Shore Athletic club, all in the interest of a better understanding among Pan-American nations. The program, announced as a musical experiment in international relations, was sponsored by Latin American consuls of Chicago under the chairmanship of Miguel G. Calderon, Mexican consul general.

NOV. 23 CHOSEN AS THANKSGIVING DAY IN ILLINOIS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 3 (AP).—Gov. Henry Horner today swept away all hope that Thanksgiving turkeys might be held for that extra week of life.

In a proclamation, he carried out his previously announced intention of following President Roosevelt's example in moving Thanksgiving day up to Nov. 23 this year—a week earlier than usual.

The proclamation urged citizens to observe the day by "giving thanks to Almighty God for His bounty and by seeking divine guidance for the future."

Each 92, They Celebrate 72d Wedding Anniversary

Nicholasville, Ky., Nov. 3 (AP).—The Rev. and Mrs. David L. May, each 92 years old, celebrated their 72d wedding anniversary today. They were married in 1867.

ARTILLERY UNIT TO BEGIN WEEK'S TRAINING TODAY

The 2d battalion of the 122d Field Artillery, composed of about 500 men, will go to Camp Logan, in Lake county north of Zion, this morning to begin seven days of fall field training. Under a war department order, all National Guard units must put in a week of such training before Jan. 31.

The field artillery battalion, commanded by Maj. Charles A. Plamondon, will be the first Chicago unit to comply with the order. The men will assembly at their armory, 234 East Chicago avenue, and depart by truck at 8 o'clock.

The 1st battalion of the 122d will be next to go, beginning its training next Saturday.

SENTENCED IN CHECK FRAUDS.

James Callan, who was accused of passing several small checks bearing the forged name of Congressman Ralph E. Church of Evanston, was sentenced to 10 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in Town Hall court. He was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

CUNNING REGAINED

By CALEB

AT NINE, they begin to gather—and even at five-thirty, you may still find a few lingering over a favorite pattern . . . as a painter lingers over a canvas he is loath to leave. For these are the "Ladies of the Needle," an unofficial sorority of goodly craftswomen, whose deeds are wrought on fabrics in every form of cunning the feminine hand is heir to.

The scene of their activities is our Handcraft Section on the State street third floor—where women who want to regain, or re-assert, their own creative skill learn and practice the delicate arts of knitting, crocheting, embroidery, handweaving, needlepoint, lamp-making and rug-making. Over a hundred such customer-pupils daily avail themselves of this expert instruction; and both the tools and materials of training are plentifully at hand for the occasion.

To a visitor of the masculine persuasion the variety of these feminine adventures in Making Things for Oneself is amazing. Out of Arabian Nights knitting-bags flash thimbles, scissors and needles; and in an instant theirs is the bright business of converting gay yarns—Germantown, Saxony, Shetland and Knitting Worcester—into sweaters, bootees, socks, scarves, skirts, blouses, mittens, or any of their apparel kindred. . . .

"Follow the knitting book?"—a teacher laughingly repeats our query. "Not necessarily! If a customer wants to make a particular dress, and has drawn a picture of it, we prepare the pattern for her, and she does the rest. And while there is, naturally, a continual call for 'staple' usage of the needle and rug-hook, another and always fascinating feature of our work is the demand for needlepoint. In this lovely craft, the best of which hails from France, we have one of the largest collections in the world; while a member of our staff devotes much of her time to its teaching requirements.

"Age-limits—sex-limits? We have neither. One man, for example, has 'hooked' six rugs that represent substantial sums apiece in material and labor; another has three to his credit; and our 'pupils' range from eight years young to eighty-nine old. I think it's the instinctive lure of creating something by one's own skill . . . a lamp, a dress, a rug, an afghan, a piece of embroidery or needlepoint . . . which brings these happy groups to us, day after day. Not only do we personally instruct, but we maintain a library, regarding which there is a standing order to add any new book on the subject that may appear."

All very reassuring, when you stop to think of it. For while today is preeminently the age of the City and the Machine—the crafts of home and the hand still wield their spell; and here at Field's clever fingers can obey it, to express the individual and imperative urges of their owners.

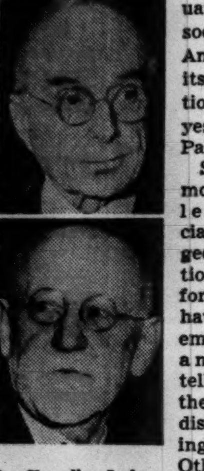
SOCIAL MEDICINE IS ASSAILED AS INCENTIVE KILLER

Fixed Fees Stifle Progress, Doctors Told.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.



Dr. Chevalier Jackson [top], new president, and Dr. J. B. Herrick, president elect, of postgraduate medical group.

After one of the most successful gatherings in its history, the Interstate Postgraduate Medical Association of North America closed its 24th international assembly yesterday in the Palmer House.

Since Monday more than 6,000 leading physicians and surgeons of the nation and from foreign countries have heard 94 eminent teachers and specialists tell in detail of the vital medical discoveries during the last year. Others of the association's 50,000 membership will read of these advances when the association's official proceedings are published in book form.

"Such a membership and such an attendance would be impossible under socialized medicine, which is being contemplated for this country in certain quarters," said Dr. W. B. Peck of Freeport, Ill., the association's veteran managing director. "Government dictatorship and regimentation of the profession would strangle initiative and block progress.

Tells British Experience.

"With a fee fixed for each disease in the calendar and with competition eliminated, there would be no incentive for development of great doctors. Why should the general practitioner strive for more knowledge if he can earn his fee on what he knows now?

"That is the question put to me in England, where I go each year in the interest of this association. 'Why should we take postgraduate courses?' they ask me.

"It would shock an American to observe the workings of some of the British so-called clinics. The patients march thru, hardly pausing. The doctor looks at them and may listen to them briefly. Then he snaps his orders to an assistant: 'Give him prescription 10; give her prescription 12.' And socialized medicine is the reason for it.

Finds Taxpayer Suffers.

"Mediocrity and slovenliness result. And the taxpayer suffers, as usual, these medical fees being paid by the ministry of health under the socialized medicine statute; 'sick insurance' we would call it in America. But the taxpayers' suffering is as nothing compared with that of the luckless patients.

"The effectiveness and ability of the general practitioner drop steadily under socialized medicine. The specialists, it is true, do keep abreast of the times; they have an incentive because they are not directly affected. But specialists rise from among the general practitioners. As the energies of the latter decline so does the potential caliber of the specialists of years to come.

"The socialized medicine agitators of this country charge that the cost of medical care is too high. Analysis will show that the great costs are due to hospitalization, not to the general practitioner, who is lucky if he collects 50 per cent of what he earns."

Dr. J. B. Herrick Elected.

At the annual election yesterday the association chose Dr. James B. Herrick, professor emeritus of medicine, Rush Medical college, University of Chicago, as president elect for 1941. President Elect Dr. Chevalier Jackson of Temple university school of medicine, Philadelphia, succeeded Dr. George W. Crile of the Cleveland, O., clinic, as president.

Dr. Peck was reëlected managing director; Dr. Tom B. Throckmorton of Des Moines, Ia., was reëlected secretary; Dr. Arthur G. Sullivan of Madison, Wis., kept his post as director of exhibits; Dr. Henry G. Langworthy of Dubuque, Ia., was reëlected treasurer of the foundation fund, and Dr. Mather Pfeiffenberger of Alton, Ill., was retained as speaker. The next assembly will be held at Cleveland, Oct. 13 to 17, 1940.

CHICAGO GIVES ITS BABIES A BETTER CHANCE AT LIVING

Infant Death Rate at a New Low.

Chicago is again heading toward national eminence as the country's healthiest city for babies, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday.

The infant death rate for the first ten months of 1939 was 31.7 per 1,000 live births. For a comparable period in 1938, the rate was 35 deaths per 1,000 live births. The 31.7 figure establishes an all time record for Chicago.

Bundesen believes the new low is significant because of the fact that during the first five months of 1939, the infant death rate was 38.3. During the last five months, however, it was pulled down to 27 per 1,000 live births. This was more than a 30 per cent reduction.

Maternal Mortality Drops.

The maternal mortality rate, which also was high during the early part of this year, has swept downward in keeping with the baby death rate.

Maternal mortality for the period from Jan. 1 to June 1 was 3.3 per 1,000 births. During the next five months it was cut to 2 per 1,000—a 40 per cent reduction.

Comparable decreases in still births also were experienced this year. For the first five months, still births were 26.7 per 1,000; the next five months saw them reduced to 23.9, or about 9 per cent. This also is a low in Chicago's health history.

These reductions extended to the city's general death rate, which, from January to June was 11.2 per 1,000 births, and for the next five months, 8.9, or a reduction of 20 per cent.

Coöperative Action Praised.

"The gratifying reduction in the infant mortality rate during the last five months," Dr. Bundesen said, "can be explained, at least in part, by the fine coöperation displayed by physicians, nurses, and hospitals in the strict application of the health board rules and regulations for maternity hospitals.

"The full force of the regulations was not felt early this year but due to the coöperation I have mentioned, many errors have been corrected and we look forward to an additional decrease during the remaining two months of the year.

"We already are below the 1938 death rate, even considering the difficulties experienced early this year. Chicago's position is not a mere accident.

Urges Eternal Vigilance.

"What Chicago has done, every city can do. However, it requires eternal vigilance and the wholehearted coöperation of all interested parties.

"The aim of our rules is to see that every mother receives skilled obstetrical care, that every baby receives proper nursing care and those other life saving measures that mean the difference between life and death during the first few days after birth."

Chicago's advance in maternal and infant care is the subject of an article in the current issue of the Ladies Home Journal. The author, J. C. Furnas, declares that Dr. Bundesen's activities have been a large factor in "making it two and a half times as safe to have a baby in Chicago as it was ten years ago."

IERC HEAD SAYS BOOST IN RELIEF MIGHT HIKE TAX

Neil H. Jacoby, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said yesterday an increase in the sales tax rate will be necessary if relief appropriations are to be made larger. The only alternative, he said, is to curtail other state functions financed by sales tax revenue.

Under the present arrangement, Jacoby said, 1 cent out of 3 is earmarked for relief. If more sales tax revenue is allocated to relief, he said, it might be necessary to collect a 4 or 5 per cent sales tax instead of 3 per cent as at present.

10,000 RELIEFERS WILL GO ON WPA JOBS NEXT WEEK

Ten thousand Chicago reliefers will be placed on Work Projects administration rolls early next week. This announcement was made yesterday after Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief commissioner, conferred with Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, and other city, CRA, and WPA officials.

The transfer plan was devised by Mayor Kelly and approved by Gov. Horner. It provides that a portion of state relief funds be used to start new WPA projects on which relief clients will be employed. Transfer of the reliefers would provide the city with more than $140,000 additional cash for those left on relief rolls.

CITY'S RELIEFERS TO GET FREE MILK BEGINNING NOV. 13

Contract for Delivery to Families.

Free milk will be distributed daily to Chicago's reliefers beginning Nov. 13, Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief commissioner, announced yesterday. He estimated that approximately 90 per cent of the city's 239,000 relief clients will apply for the free delivery.

Lyons' announcement came after N. J. Cladakis, federal milk market administrator, reported that contracts had been made with 10 dairies for deliveries to homes and to 21 distributing stations.

The dairies are: Bowman Dairy company, Borden-Wieland Dairy, Blue Ribbon Dairies, Inc., Sidney Wanzer & Sons, City Sanitary Milk company, International Dairy company, Western United Dairy company, Hunding Dairy company, Wencel's Dairy Products, and the Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc. The contracts provide for distribution until at least Feb. 1, 1940.

Split Cost with Government.

The CRA and the department of agriculture will share the costs of the milk, which is to be given to reliefers in addition to the regular allowance for food. The average price for milk delivered to homes will be 7.4 cents per quart, of which the government will pay 2.4 cents and the CRA 5 cents. Milk delivered to stations will cost 5.47 cents per quart. The government's share is 1.47 cents and the CRA's 4 cents.

Relief officials estimated more than 125,000 quarts would be distributed daily at the outset. This is a little less than one-ninth of all the milk sold in Chicago each day. The regular price for a quart of milk, delivered, is 13 cents and for that bought in stores, 11 cents.

Can Step Up Purchases.

Under the contracts dealers may be called on to deliver as much as 183,000 quarts daily to homes and 24,250 quarts to distributing stations. However, milk will be given only to those requesting it, Lyons declared.

Prior to 1935, reliefers were given milk whether they wanted it or not. Since then, the allotment for milk has been included in the monthly relief checks.

Those who request milk will be allowed a maximum of one quart a day for children less than 7 years old. Older children and adults may receive a pint a day. The distributing stations will be in the poorest sections of the city, where most of the relief clients have no refrigeration facilities.

Scouts Sell Cookies

A special one day sale of Girl Scout cookies was held yesterday in railroad stations and other public places in Chicago as a feature of National Girl Scout week. At the same time delivery was started on cookies which were ordered early in October. Thousands of boxes were sold at 25 cents a box. The money is to be used to further Girl Scout scholarship, camps, and activities. Delivery was promised for National Girl Scout week, and yesterday's special sale was arranged as an added feature.

REVISION OF VOTE LAWS DEMANDED BY GRAND JURY

City Election Frauds Cited; 24 More Indicted.

In its final report returned yesterday, the October Cook county grand jury recommended four changes in the election laws to end wholesale vote frauds it investigated during its five weeks of work. It recommended:

1. Use of voting machines.
2. Elimination of absentee voting.
3. Elimination of party circles.
4. Giving the county court control of policemen assigned to polling place duty.

Investigation Staff Enlarged.

The jury also recommended that its investigation be continued by subsequent grand juries. State's Attorney Courtney immediately assigned three additional assistants to the task. Assistant State's Attorney Frank Christensen, who has had charge of the work, will have the aid of Thomas A. Bugan, Gordon Nash, and Casimir Cwiklinski.

In addition to presenting its report, the grand jury returned seven true bills. Two of them replaced indictments quashed for technical errors last week. The five new ones included indictments against poll officials of two precincts of the 24th ward and one precinct of the 11th ward.

Three Elections Cited.

There were three true bills directed at officials of the 3d precinct of the 24th ward, the stronghold of Ald. J. M. Arvey, one of the bosses of the city council and vice chairman of the Democratic county committee. The violations were alleged to have been committed in three elections.

Another precinct of Arvey's ward, the 61st precinct, was hit by another true bill. The fifth batch of new indictments included officials of the 52d precinct of the 11th ward, another Democratic stronghold where Hugh B. Connelly is both alderman and Democratic ward committeeman.

The new indictments named fifteen men and nine women, nearly all of whom were precinct judges and clerks appointed by the county court. One of the men, Joseph Schneiderman, was indicted in connection with each of three different elections and was the Democratic precinct committeeman representing Arvey's organization in that precinct, the 3d of the 24th ward.

Two Indicted Twice.

Two officials of the same precinct were indicted twice. One was Robert Hafkey, a Democratic clerk. The other was Bertha Van, a Republican clerk.

The three elections involved were the state and county election last November, the mayoral election last April, and the judicial election last June. The personnel of the election board for this precinct changed each time. The members indicated, in addition to the three already mentioned, are:

Mrs. Rose Zarlenga, Democratic judge.

Mrs. Madeline Conforti, Republican judge.

Mrs. Sarah Siegel, Republican judge.

Mrs. Lenora Roberson, Democratic judge.

George Martins, Republican judge.

Mrs. Shirley Mozer, Republican judge.

Mrs. Stella Levy, Democratic judge.

Sidney Banks, Republican judge.

Harold F. Burmeister, Republican judge.

Two Brothers Named.

The officials of the 61st precinct of the 24th ward indicted included two brothers, Emanuel Solomon, a Democratic judge, and Joseph Solomon, a Republican clerk. The others were Hyman Ginsberg, Republican judge, David Miller, Democratic judge, and Ben Orloff, Republican judge.

Those indicted for frauds in the 52d precinct of the 11th ward included Harry L. Beck, a Republican judge, who confessed and told his story to the grand jury. Included with him were Sam Orlando, the Democratic organization captain, and Joseph Vinci, the assistant captain.

The other officials of this precinct indicted were Mrs. Gladys Spizzirri, Democratic judge; Miss Ann Turrisi, Democratic judge; Joseph Leonardis, Democratic clerk, and Edward J. Schader, Republican clerk. The alleged frauds were said to have been committed at the judicial election last June, when the Democratic coalition ticket won an easy victory.

AL CAPONE PAYS $20,000 TO CLEAR WAY TO FREEDOM

Gangster Ends 8 Years in Prison Nov. 19.

The way for Alphonse Capone's release from the Terminal Island prison was cleared yesterday when his attorney, Abraham Teitelbaum, paid $20,000 to Hoyt King, clerk of the United States District court. This completed payments of fines and costs assessed against the former gang leader for income tax evasion.

Teitelbaum explained that $15,000 was paid under protest.

Challenge Cost Assessment.

"Capone was found guilty on only 5 of the 22 counts in the indictment against him," the attorney said. "Just the same the total costs of $7,692 were assessed to him. It is our contention that at least $5,000 of the costs should be paid by the government, which lost on 17 counts.

"We also contend that two convictions for a misdemeanor, on each of which Capone was fined $10,000 and sentenced to one year's imprisonment, ran concurrently; that is, one year in jail served to satisfy both these convictions and one fine was all that should be collected. We have paid under protest so that there will be no delay in my client's release. There is nothing now to prevent his going free on Nov. 19."

Fines assessed against the gangster chief totaled $50,000.

Plans to Go to Florida.

So far as can be learned, there have been no changes in the plans for Capone to go to his Florida estate, rather than return to Chicago immediately. A long period of medical treatment may be necessary. He suffered a breakdown in Alcatraz prison. Physicians there said he had paresis. In all, he has been imprisoned more than eight years.

Terminal Island prison authorities declined to comment on rumors Capone might be transferred to a federal institution in the east before his release to facilitate his trip to Florida. Nor would they comment on his physical or mental condition.

On his release from Terminal Island he will be served with a summons in a civil suit in which the government hopes to collect $350,011 in back income taxes.

THREE CONFESS 100 BURGLARIES; GET $5,000 LOOT

A WPA worker and two associates confessed yesterday that in four months they had looted 100 apartments in the Albany Park district of jewelry and household goods worth $5,000. On burglary attempt No. 101 the trio was frightened away from an apartment at 4308 Cornelia avenue. Police traced the license number of their car.

Sergt. John Hillock and his squad first seized John Rose, 26 years old, 5347 Wrightwood avenue. He implicated John Dedick, 26, of 2808 North Narragansett avenue, the WPA worker, and Eugene Strumpf, 24, of 1339 North Western avenue.

Pension Fund Custodian Held on Perjury Charge

Arthur Daicker, 45 years old, a butcher, 2202 Belmont avenue, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $2,000 by Judge John V. McCormick. Daicker was charged with perjury. He is accused of giving false testimony in a recent suit brought by relatives of Henry Teutel, civil war veteran, who died in 1936. The suit sought to recover $1,994 in Teutel's pension money, which Daicker held. A jury returned a judgment against Daicker.

The Inquiring Reporter

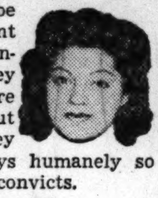
The Question.

Should State Welfare Director Bowen erect the fence around the St. Charles School for Boys for which the legislature has appropriated $25,000?

Where Answered.

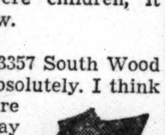
In the Illinois Central station at Randolph street.

The Answers.

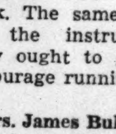


Miss Connie Ambrosia, 1353 Grenshaw street, sales clerk—Yes, I think the wall should be built. We don't want dangerous boys running around. They should have more guards there, too. But I feel also that they should treat the boys humanely so they won't feel like convicts.

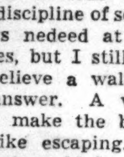
James Deady, 8227 East End avenue, gateman—I think he should build the wall. The boys are there to be straightened out, and the school doesn't serve its purpose if they get away. If good advice didn't do any good when they were children, it won't hold them now.



Mrs. Fred Sering, 3357 South Wood street, housewife—Absolutely. I think they should also hire more guards and pay them enough so that they would be well qualified for their work. The same goes for the instructors. They ought to get instructors who discourage running away.



Mrs. James Bulger, 3376 Archer avenue, housewife—It is obvious that more discipline of some sort is needed at St. Charles, but I still do not believe a wall is the answer. A wall would make the boys feel like escaping. I think their treatment could be improved on first.



Miss Lillian Siebert, 1645 West 33d place, milliner—Yes, they should build a wall, and make it good and high. But they should give the boys inside a life as near as possible like the kind of home life they didn't get as kids.

WIDOW TO FACE INQUIRY TODAY IN UNION SLAYING

Mrs. Martha Peters, widow of Paul Peters, who was slain by unidentified assassins Tuesday near his home at 3505 North Oak Park avenue, will be questioned today by Capt. Herbert Burns of the Jefferson Park police. Capt. Burns said he hoped to obtain clews to the slaying, which is laid to internal troubles in the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union. Peters was a member of Franklin local, No. 4.

Hugh Crambert, union president, told Burns yesterday that Joseph Davis, a member and a friend of Peters, had told him Peters had confided that he was in financial trouble the day before the shooting.

Funeral services for Peters will be conducted at 9 a. m. today in the chapel at 6453 Irving Park road. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

14 HUNTED IN CITY FOR WILL ROGERS LOTTERY FRAUDS

Nab Ex-Hospital Head as Zimmerman Aid.

A. F. Zimmerman.

Government agents in Chicago are seeking 12 men and 2 women wanted in Boston, Mass., for participation in a lottery ring which fleeced its clients of $20,000,000 in the last 10 years. The ring used the now defunct Will Rogers Memorial hospital, 6970 North Clark street, as a basis for its operations in recent years, issuing "Will Rogers Memorial Hospital charity bonds."

The 14 promoters are included among the 71 men and 3 women indicted secretly last September by a federal grand jury in Boston but not named until yesterday. They include Abraham F. Zimmerman, former Chicago newsboy, now known as "king of the lotteries," who is believed to have been the director of the ring.

Issue Removal Warrants.

Removal warrants for the Chicagoans were issued yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. In addition to Zimmerman those sought are:

Mrs. Gertrude Becker, former personal secretary to Zimmerman; Mrs. Elizabeth Rice, former head nurse at the hospital; David Rice, her husband, a printing broker who allegedly designed the tickets; Thomas Sheehan, Chicago Heights, a former prize fighter; Russell F. [Duke] Emmerich, one time University of Chicago football star; Ernest Daliege, ex-Chicago police sergeant, described as Zimmerman's bodyguard; Charles Shayne and his brother George; James H. Van Natta, a retired Chicago police lieutenant; David E. Burnstein, Abraham A. Brody, Herman Eskovitz, and Morris Latker. The last seven are described as agents for the ring. Latker also operated the Morris Printing company, formerly at 61st street and Dorchester avenue, where, agents said, some of the tickets were printed.

Head Physician Arrested.

Dr. Frank Deacon, former head physician at Will Rogers Memorial hospital, for whom a warrant was issued here, was taken into custody yesterday at a Civilian Conservation corps camp near East Tawas, Mich., to which he was attached as physician. He waived examination before United States Commissioner Otto J. Manary at Bay City, Mich., who set bond at $5,000 pending an order for removal to Boston.

Dr. Deacon denied knowledge of the lottery ring, and said he had leased the hospital for legitimate purposes.

More than 100 persons testified before the grand jury in Washington, including Mrs. Will Rogers, widow of the cowboy humorist whose name had been used without permission.

According to the government, the ring had promoted 13 lotteries, issuing 12,000,000 tickets annually. Handsome prizes were offered, it is charged, but the syndicate seldom paid off.

Hospital Gives Certificates.

The Will Rogers hospital phase of the lottery was uncovered by the attorney general's office in Illinois in February, 1938. The hospital was found to be circulating certificates in return for "donations" to its benefit fund. Each certificate announced that $20,000 in prizes would be awarded on the basis of an essay contest.

Zimmerman, alleged leader of the lottery ring, was sentenced Jan. 20, 1939, to serve 20 months in Leavenworth penitentiary for evading income taxes totaling $36,250 for the years 1930 and 1931. He is at liberty on appeal bond.

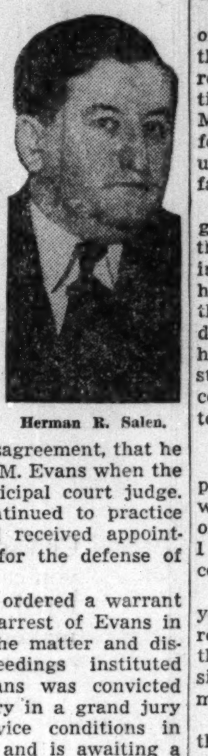
7 HURT IN RAID ON C.I.O. STRIKERS' HEADQUARTERS

Seven men were cut and bruised last night in a fight in a strike headquarters at 2107 South Michigan avenue. Those who were injured said four strangers came in with clubs and a gun and attacked them.

The headquarters, a rooming house bedroom, is that of Leonard Levy, an organizer for the United Retail and Wholesale Employés of America, a Congress of Industrial organizations affiliate. He told police a strike of shipping clerks is in progress across the street in the Continental Products company's manufacturing plant at 2036 South Michigan avenue.

EX-PROSECUTOR PLEADS GUILTY TO CONSPIRACY



Herman R. Salen.

Waukesha, Wis., Nov. 3 [Special].—Herman R. Salen, former Waukesha county prosecutor, today pleaded guilty to a charge of obstructing justice and agreed to give up his license to practice law. In return Circuit Judge Clayton F. Van Pelt dismissed that charge and additional charges of perjury and false swearing.

Salen testified in a recent trial on the latter two charges, which ended in a jury disagreement, that he lent $300 to David M. Evans when the latter was a Municipal court judge. Salen said he continued to practice before Evans and received appointments from him for the defense of indigent cases.

Judge Van Pelt ordered a warrant prepared for the arrest of Evans in connection with the matter and disbarment proceedings instituted against him. Evans was convicted last July of perjury in a grand jury investigation of vice conditions in Waukesha county and is awaiting a retrial after a reversal by the Wisconsin Supreme court.

Policeman Held on Charge of Loan Fraud on Bank

New York, Nov. 3 [Special].—A policeman and a National City bank clerk were arrested today on charges of grand larceny, involving alleged fraudulent loans obtained by the policeman from the bank. The patrolman, John T. Douglas of the Bronx, was suspended from duty after he was booked at police headquarters. The clerk is Thomas Regan, 24, of Jersey City, employed in the bank's branch at Madison avenue and 42d street.

WOMAN, 60, GETS 1 TO 5 YEARS FOR REALTY SWINDLE

Four Others in Family Are Convicted.

Mrs. Katherine Morris, 60 years old, and four members of her family were found guilty and sentenced yesterday for their part in a real estate fraud organized by Mrs. Morris. Sentence was pronounced in Criminal court by Judge John Sbarbaro, who heard the case without a jury.

Mrs. Morris, who testified that her company, the First State Mortgage company, 10 North Clark street, did a gross business of $250,000 a year after it was organized with $1,000 capital, was sentenced to one to five years in the woman's prison at Dwight. In addition she was fined $2,000, to be worked out at the rate of $1.50 a day if she is unable to pay.

Husband, Son Get Same Terms.

Her husband, Louis, 63, and a son, Milton, 23, got similar penitentiary sentences and fines. A daughter, Mrs. Esther Arnold, 32, was sentenced to one year in Dwight. Her husband, Jay, 37, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail.

The five were convicted on charges of conspiracy to cheat and defraud the public of about $80,000 thru fake real estate deals. Sixty witnesses testified they had given deposits to the Morris company as down payments for real estate. The company was unable to deliver the properties and failed to refund the deposits.

Mrs. Morris testified that she organized the company and induced the other defendants to participate in its affairs. She said the company had used new deposits to pay off the old ones when it was unable to deliver property. She said it could have continued this policy if the state had not interferred. The state contended she was "robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Judge Turns Down Plea.

"It won't do any good to put me in prison," Mrs. Morris told the court when she was sentenced. "If I could only be out I'd pay the money back. I could sell real estate at 10 per cent commission to do it."

"I'm sorry to send a woman of your age to prison," Judge Sbarbaro replied. "But, for the protection of the public, you will not be in a position for a time to engage in any more real estate transactions."

Up to the time of their arrest, the Morrises lived at 2850 Berwyn avenue. The Arnolds formerly lived at 3836 Monticello avenue.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

ANNENBERG ACTS TO BALK CLOSING OF BOOKIE WIRES

Writ to Be Sought; Fight Begun on Lottery Case.

How bookmakers in Washington, D. C., operate without the Annenberg services is described on page 21.

Weymouth Kirkland, counsel for M. L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia newspaper publisher and critic of the New Deal, announced last night that an injunction will be sought to restrain wire and telephone concerns from ceasing to furnish horse racing information to Annenberg's concerns.

The injunction, which was being prepared late last night, also will be directed against William J. Campbell, United States attorney, and Thomas J. Courtney, state's attorney. The federal and local prosecutors will be named because of the ultimatum they presented to the wire and phone companies Wednesday, warning them that they faced possible indictment unless they deprived the Annenberg corporations of their services.

3 Concerns Accept Ultimatum.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company replied to the ultimatum by announcing it would discontinue its service to Annenberg and to his Nationwide News Service and Illinois Nationwide News Service at noon Monday. Its parent concern, the American Telephone and Telegraph company said its stoppage would be effective next Thursday.

The Western Union Telegraph company notified Campbell late yesterday that it would also serve notice on the Annenberg concerns that it was canceling its wire contracts, effective next Thursday.

Earlier in the day, Kirkland appeared before Judge James H. Wilkerson in the federal District court and asked for an early ruling on the validity of the lottery indictment against Annenberg and his associates on which the Courtney-Campbell demand upon the communications companies was based.

Sets Wednesday Deadline.

After a long and somewhat acrimonious hearing, featuring an exchange between Campbell and Kirkland, Judge Wilkerson directed the defense chief to file arguments to his demurrer by next Wednesday and gave the government two weeks from that date in which to answer them.

Before the two weeks have elapsed all defendants in the ten indictments in the case will have been called for plea and arraignment before Judge Wilkerson on Nov. 15. It was anticipated, however, that a continuance would be granted because the preliminary motion will be pending until Nov. 22.

Attorney Francis X. Busch, counsel for Joseph E. Haffner, one of the defendants in the lottery case, pressed a motion to release from their oaths of secrecy the grand jurors who returned the indictments and the more than 250 witnesses who testified before the jurors.

Explains Reasons for Request.

Busch said he had three purposes in pushing the request: To determine whether the grand jury began its lottery investigation after July 1, to determine whether immunity granted certain of the defendants who testified before another grand jury sitting simultaneously had been violated, and to determine whether government attorneys authorized to appear before the grand jury only in the income tax cases had participated in the lottery investigation.

Judge Wilkerson took the oath question under advisement until next Tuesday.

The bookmakers who will be deprived of wire services were in a quandary as to how to operate their establishments without wire services, and many observers believed they would be forced to go out of business.

Besides difficult technicalities in the way of using radio in place of the wire services, the bookies were faced with a radio ultimatum issued by State's Attorney Courtney, which he said was concurred in by District Attorney Campbell. This statement read:

"Any radio corporation which allies itself or its properties with any operations of a gambling or bookmaking syndicate will meet the combined and joint opposition of the United States district attorney for northern Illinois and this office. We have already discussed and outlined our plan of procedure should the occasion arise."

Some defined this as a threat of grand jury action—the same club that hung over the wire services in Wednesday's ultimatum.

Judge Stephen Adamowski in South State street court yesterday granted jury trials to 12 defendants charged with operating handbooks. Fifteen other cases were continued for further hearing.

HIT BY STREET CAR AND INJURED.

Irving Heaton, a laborer, 26 years old, 1445 Adams street, was seriously injured yesterday when he was struck by a Madison street car at Union street.

INDICT DOZENS IN NATION-WIDE BUILDING QUIZ

Federal Grand Juries Act in Two Cities.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—The justice department's sweeping inquiry into the building industry brought indictments in St. Louis and Pittsburgh today, while investigators piled up information for grand juries in half a dozen more cities.

William L. Hutcheson. [Acme Photo.]

A St. Louis federal grand jury indicted William L. Hutcheson of Indianapolis, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and three other union men for conspiracy under the anti-trust law.

Battle of Two Unions.

The charge grew from a jurisdictional dispute between the carpenters' union and the machinists' union, both affiliates of the American Federation of Labor, over the installation of equipment at the Brewing plant of Anheuser-Busch, Inc.

The indictment said Hutcheson and the other defendants conspired to coerce an employer to violate a contract with one group of employés and to replace them with another group.

In Pittsburgh 13 corporations and 45 individuals were indicted on charges of conspiracy to defraud the federal government. It was alleged they conspired to secure in advance the awarding of contracts to a contractor selected by the Electrical Contractors' association of Pittsburgh. Acting United States Attorney George Mashank said the indictment charged fraud on the government that may total $500,000.

Many Companies Named.

One of those named in the indictment was the Hale Electric company, which had been given the electrical contract for a new municipal hospital, partly financed with federal funds.

Eleven other electrical contracting firms also were indicted, along with the contractors' association, and three officials of the Pittsburgh local of the A. F. of L. Brotherhood of International Electrical Workers.

Evidence gathered during building cost investigations now is being placed before grand juries in Cleveland and San Francisco. Information has been prepared for grand juries which will meet in New York on Monday and in Detroit on Nov. 14. Investigations have been started also in Chicago and Los Angeles, but the cases are not yet ready for the grand jury.

Silk Stocking Bandit Gets $66 in 2 Holdups

The silk stocking bandit entered the Lerner Dress shop at 3216 Lincoln avenue yesterday and forced the manager, Miss Ruth Edwards, to give him $51. Then he went to the Neumode hosiery store, 2648½ Milwaukee avenue, and took $15 from Miss Dorothy Conlee, the manager.

FUGITIVE PROMISES BY PHONE TO COME BACK, AND SHE DOES

Dwight, Ill., Nov. 3 [Special].—Miss Helen Hazard, superintendent of the state women's reformatory here, received a telephone call Wednesday night from Mrs. Grace Foockle, 38 years old, of Peru, who escaped from the institution the night of Sept. 13 by crawling thru an unbarred window.

"I just got back from Wyoming and I hear you've been looking for me," Mrs. Foockle said. Miss Hazard admitted authorities had conducted quite a wide search for her.

"Well, I'll be back tomorrow night," the fugitive said, amiably. "I'm in La Salle now. I hitch-hiked away and I want to hitch-hike back and not have the police bring me. I'll be back as soon as I do a little shopping, tomorrow night, I think."

True to her word, Mrs. Foockle returned last night. She must continue serving a one year term for lewdness which she began last March 7.

7 UNION LEADERS GIVEN TERMS IN FEDERAL PRISON

Sentenced for Strike Truck Burning.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 3 (AP).—Seven labor union leaders were sentenced today to two year terms each in federal penitentiary after a jury found them guilty of charges growing out of the burning of a bakery truck near the Iowa-Minnesota border during a truckers' strike in 1938.

The charges included Dyer act violation, conspiracy and theft in interstate commerce. Defense attorneys said all were members of the A. F. of L. truck drivers' union.

The men are Howard Fouts, Ralph Johnson, and Shaum [Jack] Maloney, all of Sioux City; Earl Carpenter, Walter Stultz, and Louis Miller, all of Omaha, Neb., and Francis Quinn of Des Moines, Ia.

The truck was owned by the Metz Baking company of Sioux City.

Federal Judge George C. Scott overruled defense motions for a new trial and for arrest of judgment, but set appeal bonds for all at $5,000 each. Defense attorneys said appeal would be taken to the federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

Ex-Convict and St. Charles Grad Held for Burglary

Lawrence Davenport, 18 years old, 1456 Jackson boulevard, a parolee from the St. Charles School for Boys, and Albert Dion, 34, a former convict, were held to the grand jury on burglary charges yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden. They were captured and Dion was wounded Oct. 7 while looting a book binding concern at 812 Van Buren street. Dion, who gave his address as 709 South Leavitt street, served seven years in Joliet penitentiary for robbery.

EX-POLICE HEAD AT KANSAS CITY SENT TO PRISON

Pendergast Satellite Gets 2 Years.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 3 (AP).—Otto P. Higgins, 49 years old, former director of police when Boss Tom Pendergast ruled Kansas City, pleaded guilty today to federal income tax evasion. He was sentenced to two years imprisonment and placed on probation for five years on another count. Higgins was taken to Leavenworth penitentiary late today.

Similar pleas last spring brought prison sentences for Pendergast and his henchman, R. E. O'Malley, former state superintendent of insurance. They are serving terms of over a year at Leavenworth, and on their release they will face state bribery indictments returned a few days ago.

Also in prison is Charles Carollo, who collected the "protection" from gambling spots and had a large say so in the police department. His crimes included tax evasion.

Tells of Forged Check.

Maurice M. Milligan, United States district attorney, charged in reviewing the evidence that Higgins received $1,000 a month in protection money from Carollo during his term as police director. A grand jury last week indicted Higgins for evading taxes on $65,122 from 1935 to 1938, inclusive. He quit last spring.

In a statement to the court, Maurice M. Milligan, United States district attorney, charged Higgins received $7,500 from the late Edward L. Schneider, official of several Pendergast companies, largely in checks made in the name of a third person.

The money, the prosecutor explained, was intended for the police benefit fund, which takes care of widows and children of officers who die or are killed in the line of duty.

"The money was paid at the direction of Pendergast," Milligan continued, and was intended to reimburse Higgins for funds he spent entertaining distinguished visitors.

Part of Cleanup Drive.

Schneider drowned in the Missouri river following the indictment of Pendergast. He left suicide notes.

Indictment of Higgins was one of a series of cleanup moves which the federal, state, and county officials directed at the Pendergast Democratic machine which had ruled Kansas City since 1926 and had wielded a great influence in state politics.

At about the time Higgins quit, H. F. McElroy quit under fire as city manager and was under county grand jury indictment for misuse of public funds when he died.

Martin Sweeney, Policeman for 33 Years, Is Retired

Policeman Martin J. Sweeney, who has been assigned to the bureau of identification for the last 17 years, was retired yesterday. The day marked his 63d birthday. Sweeney has been a member of the police force for 33 years. He lives at 5719 South Green street. A bachelor, he plans a trip to Florida.

ADAMOWSKI OUT OF RACKET COURT AFTER A MONTH

Judge Stephen Adamowski, who has been active in hearing gambling cases in the South State Street [Racket] court for the last month, has been transferred to the Wabash avenue and Stockyards police courts starting Monday. This was disclosed yesterday in a general assignment order issued by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court.

Judge Frank E. Donoghue.

Judge Adamowski will be replaced in South State Street court by Judge Frank E. Donoghue, a former assistant state's attorney under Thomas J. Courtney. Judge Donoghue was elected to the bench last spring.

During his month term in South State Street court Judge Adamowski announced that no dilatory tactics would be permitted defense attorneys in gambling cases brought before him. As a result several alleged bookmakers were convicted in bench trials and assessed heavy fines.

Court attaches said they were surprised at Adamowski's transfer after serving for only a month in the court. Chief Justice Sonsteby, however, said it was routine.

SIX IN CHAMPAIGN INDICTED ON NEW GAMING CHARGES

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 3 [Special].—Gambling indictments were returned against six men by a Champaign county grand jury as a result of raids made Aug 18. All posted bonds in Circuit court today.

Two of the defendants, Fred [Hambone] Klemick and Ben Durman, were convicted last month on indictments returned by the January grand jury which investigated charges of vice and corruption in Champaign as the result of the fatal shooting of a University of Illinois sophomore. Roy M. [Riley] Sharp, who also was indicted by the January grand jury, was among those indicted today. The jury hearing his case on the first indictment failed to agree and was dismissed.

The others indicted today are Harry Sayles, Morris Grossman, and Charles J. Manville.

MR. ARNOLD'S FIGURES.

A reader of THE TRIBUNE sent to Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of antitrust prosecutions, a copy of one of our editorials on Oct. 14. It commented unfavorably on Mr. Arnold's claim that his milk antitrust indictment, since dismissed in the federal court, had reduced milk prices in Chicago by 25 per cent.

THE TRIBUNE has Mr. Arnold's reply, the portions of which pertaining to the editorial are quoted below. For reference purposes we have numbered the statements of fact that Mr. Arnold alleges.

"The editorial in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is, as is usual with all such editorials, a complete misrepresentation," says Mr. Arnold. The facts may be briefly stated:

"[1] When we got our indictment milk was thirteen cents. While the indictment was in force we had real competition and [2] milk dropped to nine cents, and [3] could be purchased in Chicago for as low as six cents, [4] the cash and carry people were beginning to do some business. After the indictments were dismissed milk climbed again to thirteen cents. [5] We estimate that we saved consumers in Chicago during the pendency of this prosecution about $25,000,000."

Now, in order, let us consider Mr. Arnold's alleged facts:

1. When he got his indictment, on Nov. 1, 1938, home delivered milk was not thirteen cents, but twelve cents a quart.

2. Home delivered milk did not drop to nine cents. It dropped to eleven cents on May 13, two months before the indictment was dismissed. Cash and carry milk did drop to nine cents, and even to eight cents in some stores, but this milk cost only ten cents a quart on Nov. 1, 1938. By the old trick of comparing apples with oranges, Mr. Arnold seeks to convey the impression that he cut the price of milk from thirteen to nine cents, a drop of four cents. Actually the only decreases during the pendency of his indictment were one cent on home delivered milk, and two cents in some stores, for a very limited period, on cash and carry milk.

3. The lowest price that was charged by the leading cut rate dairy company during the period Mr. Arnold discusses was 7½ cents a quart. A few neighborhood price wars, involving negligible quantities of milk, might have brought prices to six cents, but we doubt that one per cent of the housewives in Chicago saw milk offered at that price.

4. Cash and carry dealers were doing a heavy business long before Mr. Arnold procured the indictment. In July, 1938, the differential between the home delivery and the cash and carry price was increased from one to two cents. This was the principal cause of the increase in cash and carry sales, and it preceded the milk indictment by four months. Another factor was injunctions in the state courts restraining the picketing of cut price stores. These injunctions were obtained by lawyers who were able to make their cases stand up in court, something Mr. Arnold thus far has been unable to do in the matter of the milk prosecutions.

5. The period when the milk indictment was pending, during which Mr. Arnold says he saved Chicago consumers $25,000,000, was eight months and thirteen days. That would make his claimed savings reach to a total of about $3,000,000 a month.

In September, the month during which milk consumption normally reaches its annual peak, Chicago and the north shore suburbs combined used 30,746,800 quarts of fluid milk. To accomplish his boasted saving, Mr. Arnold would have had to have cut milk prices 10 cents a quart. Actually the only price decreases were two cents or less [one cent on home delivery] for two months only. This, at the outside, would not have amounted to more than $1,200,000 for the entire period.

Thus, of Mr. Arnold's five statements of supposed fact, the first was an untruth, the second was either untrue or a deliberate attempt to deceive by confusion, the third, if true, was inconsequential, the fourth was irrelevant so far as Mr. Arnold had anything to do with it, and the fifth was the grossest sort of exaggeration.

Some people might be tempted to call the man who made such statements a liar. We will content ourselves with the hazard that he gets his figures from the same fellow who writes his briefs. Neither of them stands up.

SNOW IN NOVEMBER.

It isn't unusual. Some people think that nothing which happens in this gay climate could be unusual. The extraordinary is the familiar. We may shake snow off the early roses and dust it off the late ones. Our hardier earlier and later blooms have learned to sock back. A sturdy trillium can go 10 rounds with any spring snowstorm and a hill billy hepatica can knock old man winter out of the lap of spring. We grow them tough as an inspiration to youth.

This does not pretend to be a tender climate, but it does not have dust storms, and we're not afraid that a high mist will fill the football stadium to the 30th tier of seats. The greatest damage the high winds do is to hats, and if the crockery falls off the shelves it is because some one has bumped into them or missed the moth.

Snow in November does remind us, however, that summer and winter are not on a 50-50 basis. Our familiar forest growth, for instance, is not in full leaf until late in June, and by September the leaves have begun to turn and drop. Three months is about the period of full foliage and that leaves nine in which it is slowly coming along or isn't here at all. A planned society which could produce six month summers would be getting somewhere. This climate is unfair to summer.

THE REPEAL OF THE EMBARGO.

A majority in the house of representatives followed the majority in the senate in passing the amended neutrality act. The principal controversial question was the embargo on the sale of arms. The other amendments could have been passed three weeks ago. Indeed, the opposition proposed that the ground be cleared by adopting them. There was a general agreement that American ships should be kept out of war zones, that Americans should be kept off the passenger boats of belligerent powers, and that purchases should be made on the cash and carry basis. The difference of opinion related almost entirely to the repeal of the embargo on arms, munitions, and airplanes.

The opposition represented a very large body of American citizens who do not think it is the duty of the United States to fight this war, who do not think it would be a service to mankind, and who do not think that intervention in European wars should be the fixed policy of the United States or that the young men of America should be sacrificed every generation to the maladjustments of the rest of the world.

A great many people who supported the repeal agree that entrance into the war would be a calamity. They believe that America can sell munitions as well as other materials on the terms proposed in the amendments without thereby incurring a greater risk of going to war. The opposition was convinced that the risk would be increased. The opposition did not believe that aside from the questionable advantage of war profits any American interest could be served by a change in the American neutrality law during the war.

Not all of the supporters of the embargo bill are desirous of keeping out of war. Some of them would put the United States in the field again. They are now of the same mind as Secretary of State Lansing in 1915 when, as he reported in his notes written at the time, he thought it was the duty of the United States to enter the war and that it was of paramount importance that the foreign policy of the American government be calculated with such a purpose and end in view. The people did not know, of course, at the time that such a view prevailed in their official circles. They were led to believe that the unchangeable determination of their government was to avoid the conflict. It was rather startling later to discover that there had been no such purpose.

Mr. Roosevelt says this is a peace measure. He has said that it is the determination of the government to keep out of the war and that nothing in the new law will make it more difficult. Altho some of the members of congress who supported the repeal said they did so to help Europe get rid of a menace, the majorities in the senate and the house of representatives in passing the bill declared that it is to promote peace and that the United States will not enter the war.

It is to be kept in mind that the American people will not go to war unless the federal administration and a majority in congress make it possible. The majority which passed the bill can keep the United States out of war regardless of what war parties subsequently try to do. Even if Mr. Roosevelt should find later that the present law does not offer sufficient aid to France and Great Britain, the congressional majority responsible for the change can prevent such consequences. These senators and congressmen are on record and they will be held responsible for the outcome.

Mr. Roosevelt will have a new law in the terms he proposed. It has not been forced upon him by an opposition. He said his proposals were just and peaceful. If an opposition had given him something he didn't want, he might defend himself from criticism if things went wrong.

The opposition has made its fight in the belief that it had the best interests of the American people in mind. It made the fight thinking of nothing except the welfare and security of the American people. It did not make this welfare secondary, but primary. It has not prevailed, but in yielding to the decision which congress had made it will now insist that these same votes preserve the peace without further yielding to the pressures which may be brought upon congress to give more aid.

The good features of the new law, the provisions which were generally accepted, should make it possible to avoid the incidents upon which the declaration of war in 1917 was directly based. It should be possible to avoid the sinking of American ships and the loss of American life in the war zones. We should not have another Lusitania or another Sussex. Mr. Hull should have no occasion, as Mr. Lansing had, to send strong notes to warring governments or wind them up with an ultimatum.

The war guilt will be self-evident if the persons responsible for the new law break their promises to keep the peace.

YOU PAY TAXES.

[Danville Commercial-News.]

Do you earn $30 a week?

Do you earn $1,500 a year?

Then, providing you don't own an automobile, don't own a radio, or don't have a telephone, you pay $183 a year in taxes!

And if you do have a car, a radio, and a telephone you pay $200 a year in taxes!

That's the conclusion of Dr. William G. Sutcliffe of Boston university, given in testimony to the ways and means committee of the house of representatives during hearings last session on the social security act.

Polls have shown that a quarter of the people in the United States are under the mistaken impression that they don't pay taxes. This is largely because they don't pay any income tax. They do, however, pay plenty of taxes in hidden taxes.

Government money is raised in taxes. What the government spends comes out of your pocket. Reckless government spending is a waste of your money. The national debt is not just a couple of words that mean nothing. It's a debt that will have to be paid in taxes from your pockets or your children's pockets. Stop reckless spending and taxes will go down.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

A MAN FROM TENNESSEE.

On page 14 of the Line Book of 1938 you will find this bit of "filler":

"Who first promoted daylight saving time? Joshua, when he commanded the sun to stand still. "O. R."

That came from Opie Read, who has just gone to join Finley Peter Dunne, Eugene Field, and all the other Men of the Great Race in Chicago journalism and literature. He was the last of a gifted and stalwart breed.

Opie was not a chronic column contributor, and he didn't send us that two liner in any lust for printer's ink, of which he had long since had drunk his fill. He merely wanted to help a new boy who was trying to get along. "Friend Collins," he wrote, "here's a little gag that might fill a hole." It was a gesture of fellowship, and it carried us back to the early years of this century, when he was the central figure of the old Press club of Chicago, and we merely a worshiping cub, listening to the tales of masters in the craft.

In his prime Opie Read might have posed as a model for Daniel Boone, except in costume, and he belonged to that breed of early Americans. He had the frame and the countenance of the old frontiersmen; a great voice, a vigor of speech, and a racy flow of backwoods anecdote. Altogether, he was the most virile specimen of the literary type that we have ever encountered; Jack London would have seemed like a sissy beside him. He outlived his generation by many years, and went into his '80s almost as rugged in appearance as he had ever been.

We saw him for the last time about 12 years ago, when he attended a dinner for the organization of the Tavern club, and made a speech in which he gave the venture his blessing. A week ago the veterans of the Chicago press, at dinner assembled, voted to send greetings to Opie, in the hope that he would know, before the end, that he still had a warm place in their hearts.

BROWN COUNTY, IND.

Here the impassioned heart of autumn burns
  Its bright, most splendid flame. Across these hills,
Whose quiet distances no migrant spurns
  In his long southward flight, wood fragrance spills.
And here the magic artistry of frost
  Makes of each maple leaf a cardinal
A-wing. Fragments of elm and oak are tossed
  Upon the wind, drifting and mutable.

Who stands amid these skies, in amber haze,
  To learn the mysteries of burning bough
And arching hills, must wear through all his days
  The fiery brand of autumn. Lo, somehow
In Indiana—misplaced on every chart—
Here is the true Grand Canyon of the heart.

What's the Matter with Thursday?—IV.

Maybe Richard Harding Davis in one of his Van Bibber stories has the answer to the Thursday blight.

Van Bibber went to a dance of hotel employés and thought he ought to ask a young lady to dance. She said she wasn't dancing because her brother died. "Of what did he die?" asked Van Bibber. "He died of a Thursday," she answered.

COMBATING MASTOID TROUBLE WITH SULFANILAMIDE.

WE are entering the season of more frequent colds among children. Some will be neglected and, in consequence, bacteria may reach the middle ear. As we know, germs can arrive at this well-nigh sacred space [inside the drum] via the Eustachian tubes, which constitute direct channels from the throat. Then, too, microbes in the blood may settle in this locality if the resistance is low.

Now, no one would invite deliberately an infection in this vicinity, as enough pus may form to rupture the sounding board of the ear. Every episode of this sort paves the way for deafness. Sometimes attacks may follow one another periodically and, now and then, a state of chronic inflammation may be established.

For years physicians have provided relief by opening the membrane and allowing the accumulated material to flow outward along the canal. Recently, however, considerable reliance has been placed upon sulfanilamide, a dye which proves deadly to several types of microorganisms. Able medical men everywhere are now employing it without waiting to determine just what "bug" is responsible. In fact, some are suggesting its use should the symptoms of a nasal or throat infection appear to be severe.

There is reason to believe that its early utilization may reduce the possibility of abscess formation. Even before the drum is observed to bulge outward, with the child complaining of pain, this powerful remedy may be prescribed and as much as three-fourths of a grain per pound of body weight may be given in the first 24 hours. Thereafter the dose is decreased. It is customary to add sodium bicarbonate in an equal quantity.

But the preparation can exert no influence unless the circulation is able to carry it to the inflamed areas. For example, if the mastoid becomes involved the chemical will be beneficial only if a generous blood supply transports it to the parts. However, if capillaries have been blocked or destroyed—as they are in the presence of dead bone—we may anticipate but little relief.

The reason why pus within the ear is so significant is that the region lies so close to the coverings of the brain [the meninges]. Extension to these structures may come almost before we know it. It is of vital moment, therefore, to reduce the virulence of the growing bacteria or control their activities entirely. Once the brain substance becomes affected we are confronted with a struggle for life. Any procedure, therefore, that will be helpful should be seized upon eagerly. A group of ear specialists—questioned on this subject—replied that in their experience serious trouble within the mastoid was definitly reduced by the use of sulfanilamide. Furthermore, it appears to lessen the danger of complications, with fewer brain abscesses.

Under this régime a recent report lists but one death in 2,417 patients. We must recall, however, that we are dealing with a potent chemical—one that must be safeguarded scrupulously. A few of our tots may react badly with nausea, vomiting, and marked blueness of the lips.

In every instance an examination of the blood should be made to determine the effect upon the cells—both red and white. If anemia develops it must be combated promptly. Should the white corpuscles drop appreciably in number it may be necessary to stop the drug—at least for a time—until they have regained their normal proportion. The malady known as agranulocytosis—which may follow the administration of certain coal tar products—is quite too serious to overlook.

We may conclude safely that with more research wider fields for sulfanilamide will be found. Thru its influence we may hope to destroy a goodly amount of ear infection and hence preserve hearing.

WHY TAKE CHANCES?

No. The vagaries of weather in many parts of the country are such that some form of protection is needed. Disease likes to find weak spots.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Nov. 4, 1914.

[99th day of world war; 65th day of present war.]

VALPARAISO, Chile.—A squadron of five German warships met a British flotilla of four ships off the coast of Chile and sank one, set fire to another, badly damaged a third, and lost sight of the fourth due to darkness.

LONDON.—The British troops bombarded and destroyed the Turkish barracks of Okabah on the Turco-Egyptian frontier. More than 15,000 Turkish soldiers have entered Egypt and 400,000 Turks are marching on Russia. The Russian government has informed Turkey that the Turks' apology for raids in the Black sea has come too late and that a state of war exists between the two countries.

PARIS.—German troops resumed the bombardment of Reims with great violence in the last two days, according to dispatches from Bordeaux.

PARIS.—Hard fighting still is being carried on near Flanders with heavy losses on both sides. The allies have maintained a successful resistance to German attempts to advance to the French ports of the English channel.

WOULD OUTLAW HALLOWEEN.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—This is the morning after Halloween and a hasty survey of damage done prompts this writer to ask what purpose does Halloween serve, if any? The city council has outlawed fireworks, the damage from which is minor to that done by hoodlums on Halloween nights. The parents of these hoodlums are just as much to blame as the brats they permit to roam at large to damage, steal, and inconvenience. If any reader can give as good a reason for the continued existence of this "hell-i-day," as I have for its discontinuance, let him now speak or forever hold his peace. If, perchance, a member of the city council sees this article, I hope a germ of an idea penetrates his mind—or is this too much to hope for? Here's for outlawing Halloween! C. S. L.

DON'T FORGET THE FOUNDERS!

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Like many other Chicagoans I take pride in the fact that our city is to be enriched by the combination of Armour and Lewis institutes into one. But inasmuch as I am a person with a strong regard for tradition, and one who thinks that benefactors ought to be remembered, one aspect of the consolidation troubles me. Philip D. Armour founded the Armour institute in 1892 to serve the needs of young men, technically minded, who could not afford to attend the universities and schools elsewhere. Allan C. Lewis established Lewis institute in 1877 to serve the same purpose for liberal art students. These two men [and Mr. Armour's son] continued to support the two institutes for years after they were founded. Thanks to their vision and unselfishness thousands of students received training which they otherwise could not have secured. Are the names of Armour and Lewis to be forgotten now?

Why not call it the Armour-Lewis institute? It seems to me that this would be doing little enough to honor the memories of men who did so much for the culture of Chicago. S. B. KOMAIKO.

FROM 12 WOMEN JURORS.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—We, some of the present women jurors, resent your editorial, "The Jurybox Follies." Why capitalize on one clubwoman who changed her mind?

We have been told by presiding judges that men jurors have changed their opinions several times after turning in their sealed verdict, and have often displayed the intelligence of a child. The judges have commented on the intelligent verdicts women jurors are turning in; that they are alert and attentive to testimony. At no time have women jurors considered or discussed personal appearances and feelings toward complainants or defendants, but you might refer to past cases of murderesses where men jurors have served and freed good looking women.

Clubwomen are in a very small minority in the last half of the October jurors.

Why criticize the women at such an early stage? Be good sports and give us a chance. 12 WOMEN JURORS.

POLICE ASK HER: "WHAT OF IT?"

Chicago, Nov. 2.—On Monday at 9:30 a. m. my home was burglarized. After telephoning the police three times they arrived one hour and fifteen minutes later. I had called Fillmore station, nearest my home. When I told the officer who answered the telephone that I had called twice before, he replied by saying: "What of it?"

Is this the kind of service the Chicago police department gives when two women, panicky after being robbed, are waiting for them? A TAXPAYER.

4. "Hawkeye State" is the nickname of what state?
[a] Iowa. [b] Missouri. [c] Ohio.

A CONTRAST IN OPINIONS.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—It is comforting to at least one American of English birth to know that THE TRIBUNE has no hostility to England. However, it is disturbing to observe in your editorial on this subject such aggravating pin pricks as:

"England oppressed Ireland for centuries."

"England now engaged in its 100th war in the last 150 years."

"England holds people in subjection by military occupation."

"After we had won the war."

England must have progressed marvelously if she was ever as wicked as you make out. In the world war she did help a little, I hope you'll admit. France, too, helped at a great cost of blood and treasure, but it is nice to know "we won the war." G. O. DAWE.

Midlothian, Ill., Nov. 2.—Your editorial, "No Hostility to England," is very good. Your paper is the only paper in Chicago that understands European conditions and knows their history, past and present. Your paper has been called a pro-Hitler paper; it is not. It is a real American paper and the public knows it. Your firm stand for peace is deeply appreciated by churches and church leaders. I hope you will not betray and deceive the American people like so many of our senators and other newspapers have done. Please continue to fly the flag of peace. P. N.

WE FURNISH THE BOMBS.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—I have read the statement of Ambassador Grew that the American people are shocked and horrified at the bombing activities of the Japanese military forces in China.

I think we have all seen pictures in the newspapers and newsreels of huge mountains of scrap iron consigned to Japan—and I remember a picture in THE TRIBUNE [January, 1938] showing carloads of aviation bombs, made in America and being loaded on ships bound for Japan.

Surely no one over here had any idea that these forms of fireworks were going to be used by the Japs to celebrate 4th of July, the day on which we celebrate our independence from Great Britain and all European influence.

How strange it is that our internationalists in Washington are now trying so hard to get us "back into the fold," from which the Father of Our Country once fought to free us. E. S.

THE THREE STOOGES.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Your editorial, "Defense of Lord Lothian," is the truth if there is such a thing. I fully agree with you about Kennedy, Bullitt, and Biddle, only I have long since termed them the Three Stooges.

It is our misfortune that our representatives at the court of St. James's are so frequently imbued with the English point of view that they forget their duty to their own country. It was this fact that led Woodrow Wilson to remark one day, as he tossed aside a communication from his own ambassador to England that it did not seem possible to have an ambassador in England for more than six months and keep him an American.

Are we Americans or are we British?

MORE POWER TO THE NEWSBOYS.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Replying to "Tired Worker," I, too, am a worker, but she is not expressing my sentiments in her protest. If the voices of a few little boys can disturb her I wonder what she would think of some of the following:

The half-wits whose lack of manners prompts them to honk their auto horns any hour of the day or night to call their friends out.

The dittos who prolong their goodnight inanities 20 minutes or more after getting out of the car [usually about 2 a. m.].

The drunks, men and women, who, after the saloons have spewed them out at closing time, come stumbling up the stairs, disturbing every one in the apartment building.

The morons who, the later the hour, turn their radios on loud enough to be heard in the next block, when they occupy just a small room. And so on down the list ad nauseam.

More power to the newsboys, ice cream peddlers, and all the rest of them who are trying to make an honest, independent living, instead of expecting to be supported like the professional reliefers who would pass out if offered that or any other real work. I'm not alluding to the many who do need relief and should get it; just to the sponges and barnacles.

JUST ANOTHER WORKER.

COLOR PICTURE EXHIBIT TO SHOW YEAR'S PROGRESS

Art Institute Will Display Tribune Men's Work.

For the second successive year the Art institute will give an exhibition of the color photographic art of The Chicago Tribune studios.

Twenty-five samples of the color work done by The Tribune artists during 1938 will be exhibited in Blackstone hall of the museum beginning today and continuing until Nov. 19.

These pictures represent a great variety of subjects, from a New England boiled beef dinner to a quiet pastoral of the Fox River valley and a study of Shirley Temple teaching her dog to read, which probably will be the most popular.

Amazed at Progress.

They also represent, according to Charles Fabens Kelley, assistant director of the institute and himself a photographer of professional ability, a distinct advance over the level of last year's work. A picture of Gary Cooper, which was made in fifteen minutes in a hotel room during a stopover in Chicago, is said to be the best study ever made of the actor.

"I am amazed at the rapid progress in color photography during the last two or three years," said Mr. Kelley. "Last year I thought the things we showed from The Tribune studio were justified in being shown in a museum because they had something more than news value. I am agreeably surprised again to find the general run of work distinctly above the level of last year's work.

Subjects Are Varied.

"In talking with Edward H. Johnson, head of the studio, when I made the selections for the exhibit, I was pleased to find him alive to the artistic side of things, problems of composition. Newspaper stuff is apt to run in the same grooves, and I am glad to find it expressed in various directions. It is really good stuff, technically about as accurate color work, with the process they use, as I have ever seen."

Among the pictures are a quiet farm scene, a fall vista of colors, with cattle in the foreground; a study of a working man in an old felt hat; a steel mill furnace scene with the colors of the hottest fires showing; a view of the Museum of Science and Industry, with a quiet lake and lawn in the foreground, and a Chicago river scene, with boat, bridge, and towers.

BOARD UPHOLDS RESTRICTION ON RADIO SPEAKERS

The board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters yesterday sustained its code committee which on Oct. 1 banned spokesmen on controversial issues from buying radio time, except under strict limitations. The ruling was invoked in the heat of the neutrality debate while the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin was opposing repeal of the arms embargo.

The board, which met in the Drake hotel, announced that John Sheppard III., president of the Colonial and Yankee networks of New England, had agreed not to continue the Coughlin broadcasts on a sponsored basis. Coughlin's contract with the Colonial network expired Oct. 29. Sheppard agreed to comply with the code, but said he wanted to continue the Coughlin talks without profit. If Coughlin's managers decline to broadcast except on a sponsored basis, then Sheppard would give the receipts to charity, the board announced.

Where contracts involving broadcasts on controversial public issues are in conflict with the code, the directors ruled, these agreements may be continued until the expiration date or terminated at the discretion of broadcasters.

MILK CARTON O. K. ON HODES' DESK AFTER 3 WEEKS

The board of health's request that council amend the milk ordinance to permit use of paper milk containers in Chicago continued yesterday to rest in the desk of Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes. The recommendation was made three weeks ago.

At that time the board asked that the ordinance be amended to permit the sale of milk in "standard milk bottles or single service containers." It now specifies standard milk bottles only. The request, it was stated, was in conformity with action recently taken by the United States public health service. In a companion resolution the board referred the recommendation to the corporation counsel.

Yesterday Mr. Hodes explained: "I only received the resolution from the board of health. The board did not specify if it wanted an opinion on the recommendation, if it expected me to send the recommendation to the city council, or what it wanted me to do with it. As a result, there is no request before me."

She did not learn Miss Upham was her mother, she said, until 1930, and meantime she had been married twice to Negroes. Two physicians testified Miss Upham never had a child.

TWO CHICAGOANS PADDLING ACROSS LAKE IN A CANOE

Two Chicagoans were somewhere out in choppy Lake Michigan early today in a 17 foot canoe on an adventure trip to St. Joseph, Mich. They are Carl Sjobring, 27 years old, 3417 Foster avenue, and Chester Streske, 19, whose address was not learned. Both are fellow workers at a type factory.

They left from the Montrose avenue beach at 11 o'clock last night. The distance to St. Joseph is about 60 miles. They expect to arrive there this afternoon.

Sjobring made the canoe, a kayak-like craft. Streske had never been in a canoe before last night, it was said. The family of Sjobring did not know about the trip until notified by outsiders this morning. His father, Nels P. Sjobring, said he could not understand the object of the hazardous trip. "It must be a mysterious reason," he said.

Rolland J. Weaver of Angola, Ind., a second cousin who is administrator of the estate, said relatives had no idea Mrs. Garman had an estate of that size because she had lived very simply.

ROB EVANSTON REALTY DEALER.

GROUP THAT PAID BATH'S AID HUGE SALARY DEFUNCT

The Chicago Parking association which once paid $400 to $700 a month to Raymond Milne for special services, is no longer in existence, it was learned yesterday. It was disbanded about two months ago. The association had a membership of about 22 downtown parking stations.

Milne's connection with the organization was disclosed recently in an alimony suit filed by Mrs. Helen Milne. Milne contended he couldn't pay alimony because he no longer had his former income.

Milne's lawyer explained that Milne at one time was secretary to the late Ald. John [Bathhouse] Coughlin, of the 1st ward. After the alderman died, and Milne couldn't do the association any good, his lawyer stated, he was fired. The lawyer did not specify what services Milne performed. A former official of the parking association said yesterday that Milne was a trouble shooter or arbitrator. This official said the association disbanded because it had fulfilled the purposes for which it was organized.

A bronchoscope was used. The child was brought to the hospital early in the afternoon. Dr. Stephen Manheimer summoned Dr. Jacob Lifschutz, a bronchoscope specialist. Within a few minutes Dr. Lifschutz had removed the seed.

Michael Cudahy Assures Divorced Wife He's Broke

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 3 (AP).—Michael Cudahy, in efforts to convince his divorced wife, Jacklyn Ruth Cudahy, that he is broke, signed an order in court today directing administrators of the Cudahy packing estate to reveal his status as an heir. The young Mrs. Cudahy had Michael cited for court contempt recently because he was behind in his alimony payments. Cudahy said "I have nothing left but my good name." Asked how he was managing to live, he explained: "My mother has been most kind. I have been practically living off charity."

INDIANA HUSKER WINS NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

28.39 Bushels Gives Title to Pitzer.

Lawrence, Kas., Nov. 3 (AP).—Lawrence [Slim] Pitzer, lanky Indiana farmer with 160 acres of corn back home waiting his attention, is the new king of the cornhuskers. He outshucked the pick of 11 states in the national contest today, finishing with a net total of 28.39 bushels of corn for the 80 minute session.

Richard Huth of Granite Falls, Minn., was second with 27.03 bushels. Huth, Minnesota state champion, competed despite an attack of tonsilitis.

Well Under the Record.

The new national champion, altho he hung up a new record in winning his state contest last week, was considerably under the national record of 41.5 bushels established by Elmer Carlson of Iowa in 1935. Pitzer's best effort in four previous tries in the national competition was third place in 1935.

Pitzer, 6 feet 2, is 40 years old, married, and has one son, 17. He farms about 300 acres in Fountain county, Ind., near Attica.

With his victory Pitzer won $100 in cash and a trophy. Huth won $50.

Illinois Places Third.

Third place and $25 went to Ecus Vaughn, Illinois state champion who finished with the greatest net load but who lost out because of excess husks clinging to the husked ears. His home is at Monticello. Ted Koger of Elmer, Mo., was fourth, and Otto Sorensen of Blair, Neb., was fifth.

A throng estimated at 112,000 witnessed the contest, in a 40 acre field of hybrid corn two miles north of Lawrence. There was a total of 21 contestants.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO weddings of interest are taking place this afternoon, both at 4:30 o'clock. The larger one will be in Winnetka and the smaller one in town. Miss Jean Defrees will become the bride of James Hull Kellogg in Christ church, Winnetka, with the rector, the Rev. Ashley Gerhard, officiating. Following the ceremony the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Defrees, will give a reception at their home.

Only relatives and a few intimate friends have been invited to go to the chapel of St. James' church this afternoon to see Miss Madalon Search be married to J. Beacham Tredennick. The rector, the Rev. Duncan H. Browne, will read the service, which will be followed by a small reception given by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gist Search, in their apartment in the Churchill hotel.

Miss Carlotta Lagorio will be Miss Search's only attendant and Alan Tredennick of Helmetta, N. J., will be his brother's best man. Mr. Tredennick, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark C. Tredennick of Montclair, N. J., and his bride will spend two weeks motoring in Virginia, after which they will be at home in New York.

Miss Defrees will wear a cap made of lace from her maternal great-grandmother's wedding gown. She will have a Westover roommate, Mrs. Joseph Bell of Montclair, N. J., as matron of honor and two Smith college classmates, Miss Mary Partridge of Minneapolis and Miss Stella Coulter of Greensburg, Pa., as bridesmaids. Mrs. Laurin Healy also will be a bridesmaid.

Mr. Kellogg, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. James G. Kellogg of Winnetka, will have Thomas Edwards of Lexington, Ky., as best man. Ushering will be Mr. Healy, Alwin Folley, William Lisle, and Clyde Criswell, the bridegroom's cousin. After a six weeks' wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg will be at home in Beverly Hills.

Courtenay Barber Jr. to Wed Eastern Girl.

News of romantic interest has come from Edgartown, Mass., where Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Watson of that city and New York have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ann Moinette, to Courtenay Barber Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Barber of Chicago and Edgartown.

Miss Watson was graduated from the Ethel Walker school and from Smith college. She attended the Yale Graduate school and the University of Florence in Italy. Her fiancé attended the Phillips academy in Andover and Cornell university. The wedding is planned for Dec. 28 at St. Andrew's church in Edgartown.

Some members of the Du Page County Hounds probably will ride with the Wayne and the Longmeadow. The Du Page has made tentative plans for a hunt during the afternoon. The Mill Creek Hounds will meet at James Simpson Jr.'s farm at 11:20 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Louis F. Swift and Mrs. William R. Odell Jr. are leaving for Virginia on Monday by motor with their horses in a trailer for two weeks of hunting. They will stay at Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes' farm near Middleburg.

Mrs. Laurance H. Armour, who is just back from an eastern trip, is giving a luncheon tomorrow at the Armour home in Lake Forest. Young Larry Armour, who is east at preparatory school, will be at home for the Christmas holidays.

Daniel Willard, president of the B. & O. railroad, took a trip to Washington in his private car, and when the train pulled into the station sauntered up to see the engineer.

"I thought we had a rule that this train should not go faster than 60 around the curves," he said. "I had a speedometer in my car and it registered 85 doing the curves."

"Speedometer in the cab said 60," said the engineer. "I didn't see your car going past me any time."

Royalty Fan.

The veneration which Gilbert Miller, theatrical producer, has for royalty is known to his friends and is a source of teasing. Mrs. Robert Harvey, back from a New York visit, tells the story of Miller's comment to Playwright Moss Hart after Miller's return from Europe early this autumn.

"Do you know what the duke of Windsor calls Kitty (Mr. Miller's wife, the former Kitty Bache)?" he asked.

"No," said Hart. "What does he?"

"Kitty," said Miller, beaming proudly.

Considerate.

This story, told by Mrs. Harvey to Eddie Cantor in Chicago, elicited a tale of a meeting with the then prince of Wales at the time Cantor was playing in Kid Boots.

"Do you get to London often?" Edward asked.

"As a matter of fact, I'm coming over next summer," Cantor told him.

"Well, don't forget us," said Windsor. "I want to see you."

"I'd love to stay at Buckingham palace," said Cantor. "But of course I'd go out for breakfast so your mother won't have to get up early to get it for me."

Edward roared with laughter, Cantor said.

Good Morning!

This somber but exciting cinema is based on historical incidents which occurred during the days when a peaceful majority of the Philippine Islanders lived in a tumult of fear and superstition, kept at boiling pitch by fierce inroads upon them by their enemies, the savage Moros who lived in the jungles.

As long as American soldiers were stationed there the bandits were under curb. But one day the troops were called away to other duties . . . Only five officers—one a doctor—were left to hold the fort and train the native soldiers in self-defense.

Two of these are killed by the savages, leaving in command a man determined that everything shall proceed according to rules; a man, himself, living in deadly fear—of going blind.

Capt. Hartley's lack of diplomacy and his serious blunders bring about terrific results. It is young, quick thinking Dr. Canavan who, with applied psychology and demonstrations of great personal bravery and resourcefulness, saves the day, the life of Hartley—whose daughter he loves—and is responsible for the unifying of the natives and their release from the terror that has paralyzed and rendered them helpless.

Swift action, fine acting, and able direction has "The Real Glory." Gary Cooper is entirely convincing as Canavan. So is Reginald Owen in a rôle so different from his ordinary run of parts that you wouldn't think he'd know what to do with it. . . . Andrea Leeds and Kay Johnson—what a long, long time this charming actress has been absent from our screens!—contribute the needed gentle feminine influence. Effective portrayals are contributed by David Niven, Russell Hicks, Tetsu Komai [as the big, bad wolf of a bandit chief], Ruby Robles as a faithful native soldier, and Benny Inocencio as a native boy who attaches himself to Dr. Canavan and proves a hero. . . .

The film is characterized by much suspense. . . . Incidents relative to a cholera plague, which descends upon the natives when the evil Alipang cuts off their fresh water supply, are vivid and heartbreaking. . . . Hard to realize that, not so many years ago, people all over the world died like flies from uncontroled disease and under intolerable conditions such as pictured.

Science marches on, praise God!

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Oscar

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 3.—You can win plenty of bets out here in the movie colony wagering that the stars can't name you the performers who have won academy awards . . . they can name five or six, but from that point on, they're fumbling.

It makes a good game right now, because we are drawing near the twelfth annual academy awards, and the colony is Oscar-conscious . . . "Oscar" is the flippant identification of the gold statuettes which are handed out at the annual banquet.

The academy awards started in 1927-1928 . . . the actress who got the first Oscar was Janet Gaynor, an award based on her work in two flickers—"Seventh Heaven" and "Sunrise" . . . the actor was Emil Jannings, as a result of "Way of All Flesh" and "Last Command."

It was so long ago that there was a special academy award that year for "Title Writing" and it went to Joseph W. Farnham for the snappy titles he wrote for "Telling the World" and "Fair Co-ed."

In silent pictures, the action was explained by titles that flashed on the screen . . . it was agreed that Farnham got more laughs in his titles than anybody else. . . outstanding pictures were "Wings" and "Sunrise."

Miss Gaynor and Mr. Jannings lost their championship in their first defense . . . next year, the awards went to Mary Pickford, for "Coquette" and to Warner Baxter, in "In Old Arizona" . . . top picture of the year was "The Broadway Melody."

In 1929-1930, Norma Shearer won the award for her characterization in "The Divorcee," and George Arliss scored in "Disraeli" . . . outstanding production of the year was Universal's "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Sound now was coming into its own, and stage actors and actresses were taking the play away from the dimpled darlings who once had ruled celluloid . . . the 1930-1931 awards went to Marie Dressler, for "Min and Bill," and to Lionel Barrymore for "A Free Soul" . . . the top flicker of the year was "Cimarron."

Behind the scenes, movie history was in the making because in "Free Soul" there was a youngster named Clark Gable who was destined to go places, and "Cimarron" boasted in its cast Irene Dunne, fated for an important niche in the movies.

In 1931-1932, Helen Hayes swept all of the femmes before her, her performance in "Sin of Madelon Claudet" hitting a new cinematic high . . . the actor was Fredric March in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" . . . the No. 1 flicker was "Grand Hotel" . . . this is interesting, in retrospect, because it marks a milestone in movie makeup: March's makeup was hailed as a revolutionary chapter in the art . . . today, if you regard that picture you are struck by the crudities of makeup in those days, compared to the magnificent jobs which are now routine at every studio.

1932-1933 awards went to Katharine Hepburn in "Morning Glory" and to Charles Laughton in "Henry VIII" . . . the finest production of the year was Director Frank Lloyd's "Cavalcade" . . . Disney scored with the first of his great shorts, "Three Little Pigs."

Looking back, it is apparent now that the year was significant because it marked the start of Disney as one of the great creative minds of the industry, and also served warning that England's film industry finally had attained a maturity of thought and execution that was to establish it as a rival to Hollywood . . . both Disney and England were to make good on the promises contained in 1932-1933.

In 1933-1934, Director Frank Capra stole all the thunder, his "It Happened One Night" taking every possible award . . . and Claudette Colbert and Clark Gable, co-starred in it, won the "Oscars" . . . perhaps it will aid you to identify the year more vividly if you are reminded tnat "La Cucuracha" was voted one of the best short subjects of the year's product.

1934-1935 was highlighted by the appearance in the academy awards of Bette Davis, for her work in "Dangerous" . . . the winning actor was Victor McLaglen, in "The Informer" . . . the picture of the year, "Mutiny on the Bounty" . . . Miss Davis had distinguished herself prior to this, but this was the first formal Hollywood recognition of her ability.

Up to this year, no European actress [Canadians Mary Pickford, Norma Shearer and Marie Dressler are commonly regarded as American products], had managed to win an academy award, but in 1936 tradition went by the boards . . . Luise Rainer was given the top rating of the year for her work in "The Great Ziegfeld" . . . Paul Muni won in the actors' division for "The Story of Louis Pasteur."

Luise Rainer turned right around the next year, 1937, and successfully defended her academy "Oscar" with a fine performance in "The Good Earth" . . . Muni lost out, however, the academicians naming Spencer Tracy for his performance in "Captains Courageous" . . . Tracy was in the hospital: his wife accepted the statuette in his name.

Tracy repeated last year, as Father Flanagan in "Boys Town" and Bette Davis, the 1934-'35 winner, returned to the winner's circle as Julie in "Jezebel."

Both Audience and Cast Enjoy Comedy Opera

BY EDWARD BARRY.

After spending nearly a week strewing the stage with corpses, the Chicago City Opera company last night broke its series of mournful works to put on Rossini's "Barber of Seville." This sunny 1816 opera, leaping the gulf of time as easily as if its 123 years were but a week-end, filled the Civic Opera house with bubbling music and unforced laughter.

John Charles Thomas carried his real life bluffness and heartiness and love of clowning right over into the part of Figaro. He delighted the house at the very beginning of the evening by introducing into the "Largo al factotum" one of those rowdy whistles by which taxicabs are customarily summoned. The freshness and amplitude of his voice matched the freshness and amplitude of the music.

Hilde Reggiani, as Rosina, was as comically demure as her more nearly straight part demanded. Her voice seemed a little rounder than last year and she displayed somewhat more reserve power. However, there were serious pitch difficulties here and there and an undeniable sense of strain whenever she climbed into the stratosphere.

Tito Schipa, with his gift for drollery and his sense of style, fairly glorified the part of Almaviva. If the florid first serenade did not flow as limpidly as one could desire, the second—flexible, languishing, and shot with subtle colorings—was Schipa at his glorious best.

The partly slapstick rôles of Bartolo and Basilio were in the hands of Pompilio Malatesta and Virgilio Lazzari, respectively. Malatesta was reserved but effective. Basilio is one of great Lazzari's greatest parts. Time after time his caricature became mad, inspired, Marxian [referring to the brothers, not the reformer]. His performance of "La calunnia" left the audience speechless.

Speaking of fine enactments, there is Ada Paggi's performance of the housekeeper. The trolleylike walk and the fine hysterical screams are high comedy.

Angelo Canarutto conducted with a good ear for the music's texture and contour.

They Hunted a Fox

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1939: By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Alison Young and her fiancé, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, are guests at Chenerys, the English country estate of Tom Boldre, to attend a fox hunt and ball. Wynn Marchmont, sister of Tom's wife, Pat, is engaged to Tom's brother, Derek. Alison overhears a love scene between Pat and Arthur Kingsclere. Chenerys is mortgaged to the hilt. Gregg, Tom's agent, urges him to accept an offer made for the estate, but Tom refuses to sell. At the hunt, from a far off hill, Alison and Colin see Tom thrown and a man bending over him. Reaching the accident they find Derek stooping over Tom's prostrate form. A farmer, Glover, happens along and helps them. Tom, revived, is surprised that Derek, rather than his neighbor, Maj. Fitts, found him. Three weeks later Tom is again thrown and dies soon after. Alison visits Wynn at Chenerys. Riding near the scene of Tom's first accident they find the dead body of Glover. Official verdict is that Glover was killed by a shot from a passing car. Kingsclere, Derek and Maj. Fitts all drove that way. Inspector Headcorn from Scotland Yard finds the murder weapon. It belongs to Maj. Fitts, but was stolen the afternoon of the day Glover was shot—after Kingsclere and Derek had called. Dr. Blount, who'd attended Tom, admits he gave Tom an anti-tetanus injection—which caused his death, as he had not been desensitized after a previous injection. The first injection must have been given Tom after his first fall when he was unconscious—whoever gave it must have murdered Glover because he was a witness. Derek admits having anti-tetanus serum which was taken from his room. Derek goes out for a walk in the night—that same night Mrs. Glover is beaten up by some one evidently seeking to destroy evidence. The inspector finds Wynn battling with Mrs. Glover over a syringe which Glover had apparently found. Derek is arrested. Wynn and Alison figure some one else may have reached Tom after his first accident before Derek. Wynn finds out Maj. Fitts rode behind Tom. A fire breaks out in Wynn's room at Chenerys in the night. She believes some one is trying to murder her and Alison. The inspector investigates a James Elderson-Brown, who'd tried to buy Chenerys.

INSTALMENT XLVIII.
SINISTER FEARS.

Standing by the table Gregg let his roving eyes gravitate downward till it rested on her empty hands.

"Wynn's off somewhere, I see. By herself is it?"

"With me," she snapped. "To the chemist's."

"Chemist's!" he echoed the word softly, a gleam leaping in his fixed gaze.

"O, don't you understand?" she whispered, exasperated. "I suggested it. It's only to get her out for a little. We must somehow shake her out of herself."

His slow nod infuriated her. Altogether too comprehending, and how it damned her small efforts! He raised his brows.

"Taken a look at the sky?"

"No. What's wrong with it?"

She stepped outside. Goodness, how it had darkened! Bruised clouds rested almost on the treetops. They were in for a flood.

Gregg advised, "Better wait. That car leaks like a sieve."

"O, we'll beat this, I think! If we don't who cares?"

She got her coat from the cupboard, and when she emerged Gregg had vanished. These muted comings and goings! The office door, closed a moment ago, was ajar, and now, from inside, it was pushed gently to. Her thoughts flew to the loaded Colt lying there for anyone to take.

Instinctively she took two steps toward the office only to draw back. Supposing Gregg had suddenly decided to remove a possible temptation, did she want to confront him in the very act?

Minutes passed, and still the door remained closed. Some voice surely not her own whispered inside her brain, "But Gregg did read my letter to the inspector. And he had turned that queer, ashy color.

She felt again the brief doubt which had so quickly seemed childish, and with the return of it a new creepiness ran along her skin. What if the inspector was mistaken about the "bungling incendiary." Who lighted that blaze? Not Wynn at all, but someone else who had stolen in, lain low, made this attempt to burn two persons in their beds?

A faint ting told her the telephone receiver was being replaced. Bitterly she laughed. So that was all Gregg was doing, making a call. Another mad mist blown to naught, along with her foolish gropings for what she had so desperately prayed might be truth.

Gregg was back, his right hand in a pocket that sagged heavily. Fingering his pipe? She'd seen him do it fifty times, though not surely with such a noticeable bulge where his hand nested. On the stone steps at her side he seemed to be listening. His cavernous eyes trained watchfully on the gates leading to the garage, and suddenly it struck her that Wynn was taking ages over the car: Another thought hit her broadside. Gregg had seen Wynn going into the garage. He had also hunted her up the day before when she was fiddling with the car—and now he was trying to stop them driving off . . .

Horror slammed down on her. "I'd better see," she muttered, and then went limp with relief. Here was the small car crawling through the gates, Wynn at the wheel.

She got in, banged the door. "Well, shall we race the storm?"

Back in the old, dull torpor, Wynn drooped in her seat, tousled curls over her brow, eyes the exact color of the heavens which pressed, the lid of a box, over the livid, waiting world. If she had noticed Gregg she had given no sign, and now he was withdrawn into the house. Her hands went on resting, inert, in the steering wheel. Without stirring she spoke.

"You were interested in those snapshots. Why?"

"Was?" Alison flooded a guilty red. And Wynn had seemed so utterly incurious!

"In the ones with horses," said Wynn in the same even, dead tone. "And you asked about Derek's height."

The inspector had simply ignored her letter. That showed her how footling it was. Vague, fatuous . . . Wynn mustn't know.

The girl at her elbow was speaking, detachedly. "I suppose you realize hunters don't differ much in size."

"Yes! That's why I——"

A deliverance! Out of the rhododendrons, panting with haste, popped Maj. Fitts, for all the world like a jack-in-the-box. For once Alison could have hugged him. In another second she would have blurted out what could only lead to yet another shattering disappointment, for if the dim uncertainty did still stick in her mind, how could it ever be resolved?

"What, not shoving off into this, surely? You'll be drowned." The major glared at them through a quickly screwed monocle.

Not answering, Wynn stared straight through the ruffled figure in their path as though he had not been there at all. Alison explained that they were going to the village, and saw a sharpness leap into the major's gaze.

"O, not far, eh? I'll come with you. Save getting out my 'bus, if you think . . . God, look at that!"

Pale lightning snicked above them. There came a deafening cannonade of thunder and the crack of a struck chestnut tree. It might have been the signal for which Wynn was waiting. Off lurched the car, the major scuttling to safety. Alison had barely time to take in the fact that Gregg had reappeared in the doorway and that some consoling message had been telegraphed him before the major had caught nimbly on to the running board and was scrambling into the rear seat.

"We'll chance it," he gasped. "As it's only to the chemist's."

Who had said chemist's? Village was the word Alison had used.

And now it flashed on her. Unable to prevent them going, Gregg had done some quiet telephoning with the result that the major had hurried here on the hop. He was going to make sure no lethal mixture was passed to Wynn over Mr. George Burt's counter. Though what did the strict drug laws allow one to buy, except fly-papers or maybe spirits of salts?

Seething, Alison stole a glance at her companion's face. It was stern-eyed but distrait, so her wrath simmered down. There was this about it, the major's presence shut down all awkward topics.

In the lane the hedges raised high, dust-powdered barricades. No leaf rustled, the gulley had dried to a trickle. On they rattled, past the cracked scum of a pond at the crossroads, past the squat church and the wilting hyacinths on Tom's grave. Uphill, into Sompton's sleepy huddle of shops.

The major was out, leaning on them. "What can I fetch you?"

Wynn had already slid to the cobbles. "Don't trouble," came over her shoulder as she led the way into the little general emporium. From its door two tall forms had emerged, holding grave, hushed conference. Ted Horrocks, and . . .?

The other man was Arthur Kingsclere.

Teen Age Boy in Love Needs Understanding

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Would you be good enough to let me know what I could do about my son? He is just 17 and has a girl friend who is 15, and who was graduated from grammar school recently.

"He seems to have gone absent minded on me ever since he became interested in this girl. I ask him to do something for me and he either forgets it entirely or brings the wrong thing.

"He just won't listen to anything we say. His dad asked him different things about himself and the girl, and he doesn't know whether to answer or not. He isn't working, so naturally when her birthday came and then her graduation, I had to give him money for her gifts. I get him everything he wants and he still won't stay away from the girl. She is very false, won't look you straight in the eye, and always has a downcast look which I don't like. What can I do, as my boy seems to be leaving me? Please help.—Mrs. R. H."

You're the one, mother, who must get a hold on yourself. Face facts The boy is 17. He's not your baby any more. A man now, in his own opinion. Anyway, grown up enough to become normally interested in girls. Keeping to one girl only we don't like, but that's what most of them do at first. They get a desperate case, and right here is where you should be his best friend and not his severest critic.

Don't establish a prejudice against the girl. Her downcast look may be shyness in your presence. She may be all right. But if you're smart you'll make a friend of her. You'll tell son to bring her home for dinner some night. You'll take her in as you'd take a daughter's friend. Let her see you like her. If she isn't all she should be, the boy will be more likely to see it in your little family circle than away off somewhere alone with her. Let the boy understand that his friends are to be your friends, too. That's a way to win his confidence. Don't treat him like a little boy. Pay his fancied manhood a little deference and see if he doesn't react agreeably.

I generally use the Culbertson system, but, playing with this particular group which uses the Blackwood and a very strong opening no trump convention, I agreed to use their system; otherwise bidding and play were quite regular. In defending my own four club bid my contention was that, as dealer, I had an opportunity to shut out an opening bid by the opponents which might lead to a major suit game, my hand having no defensive value whatsoever. My partner's four heart bid was not in bad order. The opponents were more critical of my bid than of my partner's.

"I should like you to say whether my bid was good, bad, or indifferent; my partner's heart response was correct, and any other opinion you might have in the matter.

"H. M., Wisconsin."

Regardless of "system" used, a hand such as South's, under the part-score and vulnerability conditions noted, is absolutely ideal for an opening preëmptive [shut-out] bid. My correspondent was quite correct in stating that here was an opportunity to shut out the vulnerable opponents, and also correct in estimating his own probable defensive strength as very slight. [It was certainly not to be expected that North was void of clubs and that South's suit would therefore take two defensive tricks.]

Without any part-score South's four club bid would be ill advised because it would shut out a possible three no trump response from his own partner. But in view of the fact that a full game was not needed, and in further consideration that a three club opening would not have nearly as great shut-out value, I am strongly of the opinion that the bid actually chosen, namely, four clubs, was the best possible selection.

I cannot say as much for North's four heart response. Without a part-score a player in North's position would, of course, be tempted to improve the four club contract in a try for game, but even then I would frown on the bid and greatly prefer a pass on North's part. But, considering the North-South 60 part-score, the four heart bid was nothing short of horrible. It seems to me that North could safely presume that South's club suit was somewhat better than A K x x x!

Take Plenty of Time When Buying Shoes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Plenty of time should be taken in buying new shoes. Always have your feet measured, and do not "just take" the same size as that of the shoes you are wearing. The feet do change from time to time, and also some former shoe salesmen may have made a mistake. This is the advice of a life insurance company.

Test the fit of new shoes, they continue, in standing and walking about. The foot spreads in standing, some feet more than others, and no shoe fits properly unless it has room to spare for the use of the foot in standing and walking. A shoe should fit snugly around the heel and have enough width in the front part to accomodate the metatarsals and toes comfortably. The heels should have a base sufficiently broad and substantial to give the body a feeling of support and balance.

When heels are too high, the weight of the body is thrown forward, so that the front part of the foot gets more than its fair share of the burden. The muscles in the feet, legs, knees, and back all feel the strain of making the adjustments necessary to keep the body from losing its balance entirely. A desirable feature of shoes with high thin heels worn on dress occasions is extra stiffening in the narrow shank. This helps to preserve the shape of the shoes and to give them some degree of stability for the benefit of the feet. Shoes should be kept in good repair, because wornout soles and run down heels are possible factors in foot strain.

Children's shoes should be flexible, with broad toes and firm, flat soles. They should be made so that the weight of the body falls equally on the balls of the feet and the heels.

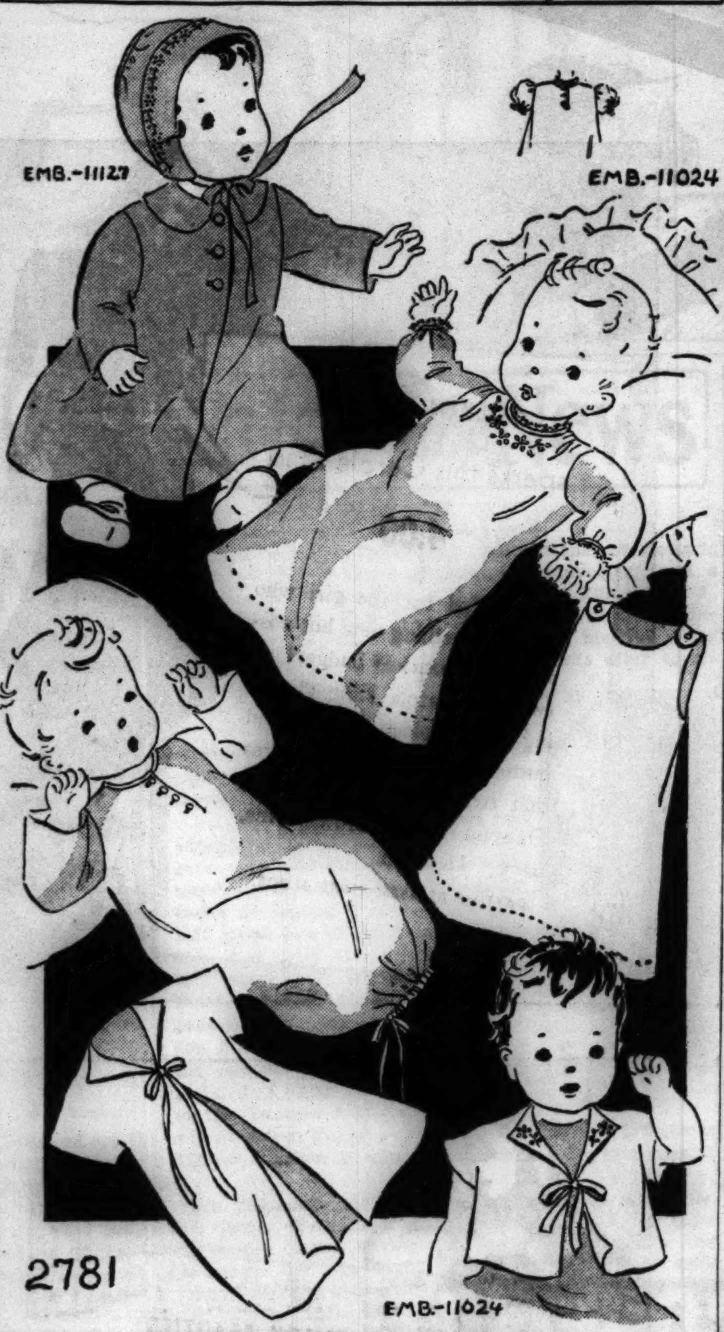
Garments for the Layette



LAYETTE CLOTHES OF DISTINCTION.

This one pattern creates several articles which will meet with appreciative welcome from a prospective mother assembling her baby's layette. The design provides for a coat and matching cap, a sleeper to keep the infant warm in bed at night and for his carriage rides on cold days, a dress, a slip, and a kimono. These little garments demand only the minimum of inexpensive material, and because they are so tiny and dainty you will enjoy making them. Simple embroidery, made with either or both of the suggested patterns, Nos. 11127 and 11024, gives a finished distinction to these articles.

Style No. 2781 is designed for one size only. Coat and cap require 1½ yards of 39 inch material; sleeper requires 1½ yards of 39 inch; dress requires 1⅝ yards of 35 inch; slip requires ⅝ yard of 39 inch, and kimono requires 1⅜ yards of 39 inch.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

GOOD NEWS FOR APPLE MUNCHERS: Big, fat, shiny, juicy red apples are going to be plentiful this year and therefore will be reasonably priced. It has been predicted that there will be 20 million bushels more this year than last year's apple trees yielded.

Already the markets are glowing with those huge and beautiful "delicious" apples. McIntoshes and Jonathans, also delectable eating, are plentiful, and so are several good kinds of cooking apples.

It pays to buy apples by the bushel if you've a big family and a cold storage place in which air circulates. But don't try to store apples in a warmish cellar where the air is musty.

EDIBLE TABLE DECORATIONS: This is the lush season for fruits. Some grocers have made their windows into glorious works of art by piling high the reds and greens, purples, oranges and yellows. Women can make their dining tables beautiful and add edible color to other parts of the house by arranging fresh fruits in pottery bowls where they'll look most gorgeous. Fat, bright oranges, red, golden or green apples, pomegranates, shining persimmons, green, rose tinged and fat purple grapes, bananas, lemons, avocados, pears—choose from among these and more. Sometimes the fruit bowls will be so beautiful you'll find your guests hesitating to help themselves when you pass the fruit for fear of spoiling the picture!

Gourds, in attractive colors, shapes, and sizes, may be purchased in some stores for use as household decoration or as table centerpieces.

Are you familiar with that delicious crunchy kind of peanut butter which contains chopped nuts as well as butter? It makes wonderful cookies.

The Housewife

Those handsome glass hurricane shades for candles are highly decorative on a mahogany dining table. They play a dual rôle, too. Sometime try using one as a centerpiece for fruit. Lay it down on the table lengthwise and arrange Malaga grapes and limes, little oranges and small, shiny apples inside the glass cylinder. See what a charming effect is thus created.

Some of the most beautiful of all the hurricane shades, and there are many, are made in this country by a firm noted for its craftsmanship and the clarity of its crystal.

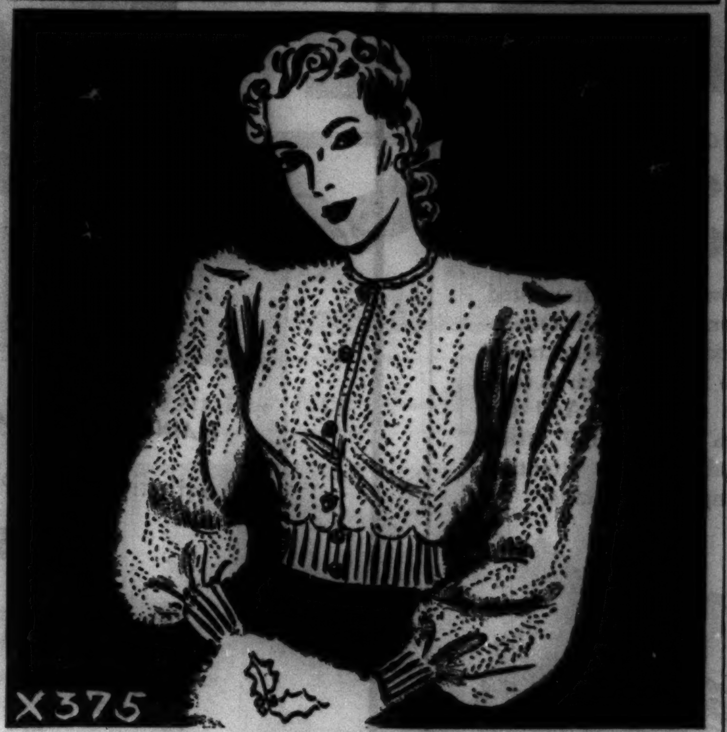
Knitted Jacket for Evening



BY JEAN MACDONALD.

A knitted angora evening jacket is an ideal item for those who are knitting their Christmas gifts. This dainty fern pattern is an easy one to create. If another type of yarn is desired, a fine quality of chiffon zephyr or two-ply saxony may be used. Instructions for the sweater are available in 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

For instructions in knitting the evening jacket in the fern pattern, No. X-375, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Don't miss the "curl brush." It's a brain wave if ever there was one. . . . A small, stiff bristled little brush with a rat-tail handle. The rat-tail comb was a swell invention, but this is even sweller. Your curls get the benefit of brushing that brings up luster and the rat-tail handle makes it simple to fold the hair over and over into a perfect roll. The brush is of excellent quality and not expensive.

One of the hair dressing salons here is wildly excited about a new trick in permanent waving. Instead of a liquid chemical solution they use a special cream and find it ever so much kinder to the hair. Very dry hair [and Lord knows there is a lot of it in this territory], hair that has been bleached to the point of exhaustion and hair that's just naturally difficult to wave satisfactorily has responded beautifully to the cream permanent. It's a specialty of the establishment now.

A giant pomander makes an original gift or a highly desirable possession. One of the shops has a beauty—a huge, round grapefruit, saturated in fragrant oils, spiked with cloves. These are carefully dried in ovens so that the mixed, entirely charming aroma is baked in and lasts a long time. You can hang these in closets to scent your linens or can keep them in chests. Or, for their good looks as well as their scenting properties, hang them decoratively in any room in the house.

Children Stop Some Habits of Their Own Will

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"First" children have to go thru a lot, poor darlings, until their parents learn. Not all, of course, because some women [and men, too], seem born with a gift for parenthood, but a great many.

Take the young mother who, every time the baby does something he shouldn't raises her hand and says, "Naughty! Mother will slap!" Before any time that baby has the hand-raising habit, tho he doesn't give the same warning as his mother does before his fat hand descends. Keeping up these tactics, she will soon have a problem on her hands.

So, a mother writes me about a practice like that of her own which she early discarded, and one she advised other young mothers to discard, too. She goes on further to say: "When a child has just acquired some little objectionable habit, if the parents will make one or two corrections and then ignore it the child gradually forgets and stops of his own accord. I found this to be true even when my babies were small."

These comments show a nice perception in the handling of children. The principles involved are worthy of consideration:

Don't make too much of trifles.

Correct wherever humanly possible without crossness or punishment.

Don't make an issue of small things, acting as if a little fault were a crime.

Train your children, big or little, with as little friction as possible.

Sometimes a result in behavior must be obtained by "laying down the law," but try to have that the rare exception.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 3.—Notre Dame will play the Army in Yankee Stadium tomorrow and, if you know your football, that information is sufficient.

Red Cagle.

The gridiron's oldest continuous intersectional series has grown into one of the most colorful fixtures of the season. It's an event to see and a place to be seen. If you don't feel that way about it, 76,000 others do, because that's the number which will be jammed into the huge playground.

The capacity this year has been reduced slightly for the benefit of box seat customers. All tickets were sold in late summer. The crowd that turns out year after year is a remarkable tribute to the spirit and tradition attached to the annual passage at arms between the fighting Irish and the West Point cadets.

It's Everyman's Game.

Since the late Knute Rockne prevailed upon officials at the military academy to move the contest from the Plains to New York in 1922, this has been the people's game. It's the day taxi drivers, butchers, bakers, business men who have risen from the ranks, politicians, straphangers, actors, and artists, most of whom follow Notre Dame with passionate devotion, have their fun. There doubtless will be thousands in Yankee stadium tomorrow who will be watching their only football game of 1939. Some of them think the season lasts only one day.

They come because this annual battle, regardless of the records of the contending teams, has thru the years amassed such a wealth of color and tradition and hard fighting heritage that it always is something to remember, no matter which school wins.

You'll Remember These.

The list of players who have earned gridiron immortality in this series is long and brilliant. Rockne, Dorais, Eichenlaub, Oliphant, Vidal, Cofall, Gipp, French, Cagle, Garbisch, Castner, Layden, Crowley, Stuhldreher, Flanagan, Elder, Meyer, Craig, Stella, Shakespeare, all reached the heights when Army played Notre Dame.

Each succeeding game develops some one else just as good and just as glamorous as the football parade whizzes by at a rapid pace.

The Notre Dame party arrived at Harmon, 40 miles up the Hudson, at 7:30 this morning and, after attending mass in Rye, retired to the Westchester Biltmore Country club. The players worked out this afternoon, saw a movie tonight and were in bed at 10 o'clock.

Tackle and End Out.

The Irish will present a revised left front. Neither Bud Kerr, left end, nor Tom Gallagher, left tackle, are with the squad. Both were injured in the Carnegie Tech game last Saturday. Kerr has a kidney infection and Gallagher has a sprained ankle. Frank Biagi, a senior, has been moved up to end and Jim Brutz, a sophomore, will step into Gallagher's spot at tackle.

Ben Sheridan, whose brilliant run gave Notre Dame its first touchdown over Navy, will start at left half back. Bob Saggau, who is rated the No. 1 back at that position, is nursing bruises and Coach Layden hopes to keep him out of service. Milt Piepul will be the full back, Lou Zontini at right half back and Steve Sitko at quarter back.

Cadets are Excited.

The Cadet corps has worked up more enthusiasm over this year's game than has been seen at West Point in several years. The young soldiers forgot rules and regulations last night and put on a "beat Notre Dame" rally after taps. They turned out en masse today to give the players a huge sendoff when they left for the Knollwood Country club in White Plains for their last workout.

Army has everything to win and nothing to lose in tomorrow's game. Notre Dame comes up to the battle undefeated. West Point has been beaten by Yale and tied by Columbia.

WIRE BAN FAILS TO STOP BOOKIES IN WASHINGTON

Capital Gamblers Merely Adjust Operations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—Capital bookmakers, deprived of wire service on horse racing results for more than a year, are operating as briskly as ever today.

Informed persons report the amount or number of wagers in Washington has not lessened despite the shutting off of the horse racing information service of Moses L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, who was indicted for income tax evasion in Chicago after waging a successful campaign against the New Deal in Pennsylvania.

The Annenberg racing service, the General News bureau, was forbidden to operate in the District of Columbia more than a year ago when government agencies began their drive against the publisher.

Payoff Following Day.

The action of the capital police did not force handbooks to close, but merely effected an adjustment of operations to new conditions. Payoffs now are no longer made immediately after the results and prices are announced at the end of a race. Cash returns are made the following day on the basis of results printed in the Daily Racing Form, an Annenberg property.

At present bookmakers accept bets up to the post time of races at various tracks thruout the country. At post time the race is declared officially on and no money is accepted. In the past, when the wire service was in operation, bets were accepted up until the time the race actually started.

Maximum Odds 20 to 1.

Washington bookmakers pay off at track odds up to 20 to 1 to win, 8 to 1 to place and 4 to 1 to show. Thus it is possible to get back a maximum of $42 on a $2 win bet, $18 on the same amount to place and $10 to show.

Some bookies will pay as high as 75 to 1 under an insurance system. In this case the better pays an additional 10 per cent which goes into the bookie's insurance fund. Thus if a better saw a chance of cashing in on a 75 to 1 shot he would put up $2.20 instead of $2.

Get Returns Via Radio.

On daily doubles Washington bookies will pay track odds up to 50 to 1. For 10 per cent insurance the odds will be raised to 100 to 1. The same applies for other parlays, bets coupling two horses in two different races or even at different tracks.

A Washington radio station gives race results sandwiched in between presentation of recorded music. This is concerned chiefly with results at nearby tracks. Some bookies pay off on the radio program, but the majority prefer to make their payoffs on the more official Racing Form the next day.

As a result handbook operators do their business by telephone. Customers call up to make their bets and drop around only to collect or settle up their accounts.

AMPUTATE LEFT LEG OF INJURED PRINCETON STAR

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 3 (AP).—The left leg of Don Herring, Princeton tackle, was amputated above the knee today by Dr. Robert W. Johnson Jr. of Johns Hopkins university.

"All possible medical skill was exerted in an effort to save the leg. Unfortunately, injuries blocking the popliteal vessel are invariably followed by loss of limb, and so it was necessary to resort to surgery," Dr. Johnson said.

"Mr. Herring had a grand attitude before the operation and stood it well. The leg was removed above the knee joint since the circulation was so damaged that no tissue beyond that point could be saved. The operation consumed about an hour and 30 minutes."

Mother's Pattern of Life.

When we are out together
How often people say
That you are looking younger
With every passing day.

And no one ever guesses
How long the road has been,
For time has touched you lightly
In spite of grief you've seen.

Altho your hair is silver,
Your face is still unlined;
You've kept a sense of humor,
Your voice is always kind.

I hope when I am reaching
The age you are today
That I'll reflect the pattern
You wove along the way.

A Call to Arms.

Who thrills to ramparts reaching high,
Who glories at an evening's sky,
Who breathes the fragrance of the rose,
Who disdains all but life's repose,
Who jilts stern action, woos a whim—
Marks the dreamer; dream with him.

Who visions sunshine thru the rain,
Who vows to beauty in the plain,
Who treads wraithlike, as if on clouds,
Who sights just one in madding crowds,
Who swears devotion, life and limb—
Portrays the lover; thrill to him.

Who does the thing that must be done,
Who knows all folly he must shun,
Who labors with a willing grace,
Who yearns for home and fireplace,
Who merits pride, is seldom grim—
Denotes the man; hold fast to him.

Who scoffs at romance as long passé,
Who fails to let you share his pay,
Who raves and rants from morn till night,
Who never finds things just quite right,
Who married you, now shows depletion—
O, sister! use your own discretion!

ANGOTT WINNER OVER ARIZMENDI IN TEN ROUNDS

Gets Unanimous Decision in Stadium Fight.

Fight Decisions

At Chicago Stadium—Sammy Angott beat [Baby] Arizmendi [10]; Frankie [Kid] Covelli beat Leon Efrati [10]; Altus Allen beat Eddie Wenstob [6]; Clarence Brown beat Dan Merritt [6]; Johnny Janis beat Jake Lebovitz [4]; Marion Mosley beat Harry Sutton [4].

At St. Louis—Dave Clark beat Johnny Romero [10]; Eddie Greever and Pat Kissinger drew [10].

At Kansas City—Eddie Simms beat Sandy McDonald [10]; Elsa Thompson stopped Tipperary Murray [3].

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Sammy Angott, Louisville, Ky., lightweight, strengthened his right to a title match with Champion Lou Ambers by beating Alberto [Baby] Arizmendi of Los Angeles, Cal., in a ten round bout in Chicago Stadium last night.

After the fight Promoter Bill Rand announced that Angott would meet Davy Day of Chicago in a rematch. No date was mentioned, though it was reported either Dec. 8 or 18 was available. Angott defeated Davy for his 14th consecutive triumph on Oct. 6.

The Arizmendi fight, which was his first since the Day victory, established Angott as a possible successor to Ambers or Welterweight Champion Henry Armstrong.

Angott Knocked Down.

Angott survived a no-count knockdown in the second round to win the unanimous decision of Referee Tommy Thomas and Judges James Lynch and Dr. E. Allen Frankel.

Up to the time of the knockdown Angott had things his own way. Sammy bombarded Arizmendi with a series of rights to the jaw in the first, and shortly after the second opened drove his rugged foe to the ropes with the same weapon. It was then the spectators got their big thrill.

Arizmendi ducked a right to the head and shot a left hook to the jaw which found its mark. The blow sent Angott to the canvas, hurt and surprised. He grabbed Arizmendi's left leg and pulled himself to his feet. The Mexican veteran was unable to shake himself free of Angott's grasp in the clinches, however, and lost his opportunity.

Angott Nearly Down Again.

In the third and fourth Angott came back and handed his rival a beating around the head, but in the fifth Arizmendi almost dropped Sammy with a left and right to the chin.

Alberto battled Angott on even terms in the sixth and the Californian won the seventh. In this round Angott was tired and held on.

A barrage of rights opened cuts under Arizmendi's left eye and caused it to swell in the eighth. In the ninth and tenth Angott made a punching bag out of his opponent.

Arizmendi weighed 135¾ pounds and Angott 135. A crowd of 5,025 contributed a gross gate of $10,262.

Frankie [Kid] Covelli, Brooklyn junior lightweight, conquered Leone Efrati of Rome in a hard 10 round semifinal. It evened the score between the two, Efrati winning a verdict and being held to a draw in two earlier fights.

Altus Allen, 1939 Golden Gloves international heavyweight winner, scored a notable victory by beating Eddie Wenstob of Edmonton, Alta., in a six round preliminary which preceded the windup. A series of rights closed Wenstob's left eye in the final round.

Brown Upsets Merritt.

Marion Mosley, Fort Madison, Ia., heavyweight, pounded out a decision in four rounds over Harry Sutton of the south side.

Clarence Brown, former Catholic Youth organization heavyweight champion, upset Dan Merritt, last year's Chicago Golden Gloves titleholder, in a six round event. Merritt was floored four times in the last round, twice for eight counts and twice for nine counts.

In the four round opening match Johnny Janis, Brighton Park heavyweight, beat Jake Lebovitz of the south side.

Illini Hear of Harmon, but Are Unafraid

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 3.—Champaign tonight was in a holiday mood and there was no outward sign of nervousness exhibited by the populace over the arrival tomorrow of Tommy Harmon, a 19 year old lad from Gary, Ind. It was homecoming for the Illini and the celebrants did not choose to allow the coming of the 1939 season's top football executioner to spoil their fun.

Of course, it will be a different matter at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when the Illini take their positions in Memorial stadium against Harmon and his associates from the University of Michigan. The Illini forces, from Coach Bob Zuppke on down, admit that they face a terrific task in stopping the man who has scored 73 points in four games this year.

Rated Better Than Berwanger.

Harmon has been acclaimed the greatest Western conference back since Harold [Red] Grange roamed the gridirons for Illinois 15 years ago. All week long the 30,000 who will get in on the proceedings have been given newspaper comparisons of Grange and his modern counterpart. It may turn out to be a day of triumph for Harmon and the undefeated Wolverines, but there is none who will concede the Indiana flyer will do to the Illini tomorrow what Grange did to Michigan in 1924. That was the day the redhead took the opening kickoff and dashed 95 yards for 6 points, then

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 3.—More than 55,000 football fans have revealed through the purchase of tickets, many at fancy premiums, that they don't give a hoot about October tragedies suffered by Northwestern's Wildcats and Minnesota's Gophers. The capacity crowd will be on hand in Minnesota Memorial stadium tomorrow afternoon to watch the twice defeated Wildcats and the twice defeated and once tied Gophers engage in the twenty-third battle of a series that began 47 years ago.

Both teams, their followers believe, will be different in November. So the folks are expecting a great, bitter battle between two thwarted outfits. The 55,000 will go to watch the business at hand, and let the Western conference standings take care of themselves.

Buckeyes Beat Both.

Both teams have lost to Ohio State. Minnesota tied Purdue. Those are the only Big Ten setbacks and Minnesota won the championship last year despite a defeat at the hands of Northwestern. Mathematically, therefore, both enter the game still contenders. Still, the attendance urge appears to be exclusively for tomorrow's game itself.

There is considerable interest here in the case of one Bill De Correvont. Everywhere there seems to be a feeling the slightly smothered Wildcat sophomore sooner or later will bust loose in dramatic fashion. Northwestern partisans can think of few places where they'd rather see him do it than right here in Minneapolis.

Minnesota has had two weeks to rest up for the Wildcats, a team which has won twice and lost twice in the four seasons Lynn Waldorf has been the Northwestern skipper. The Gophers won here, 21 to 13, in 1935, and 7 to 0 in 1937. The Wildcats won in Evanston, 6 to 0 in 1936 and 6 to 3 last year.

Who's Afraid of a Jinx?

The Wildcats do not appear to fear a Minneapolis jinx, tho no Purple team has won here since 1930, when Pug Rentner and Reb Russell, aided by a ferocious line, ran wild for a 26 to 7 victory. Northwestern also poured it on the following fall, 32 to 14, but that was in Evanston. When the Wildcats came to Minneapolis again, in 1932, they were stopped, 7 to 0. Their next Minneapolis appearance was the 21 to 13 squelching in Mr. Waldorf's first year.

There will be no sophomores in the starting Northwestern line. Coach Waldorf will push off with his best line, except that Joe Lokanc might not have received the call at left guard had Don Guritz been in condition. Ted Grefe and Bob Daly at the ends, Nick Cutlich and Corne Aarts at the tackles, Lokanc and Hal Method at guard, and Johnny Haman at center, all are in tiptop shape and ready to make critics ashamed of what they were saying about blocking several weeks ago.

Soper Is Ailing.

The starting back field will include Paul Soper at left half, if he recovers from a light case of intestinal flu; Tuffy Chambers at right half, Don Clawson at full, and Dick Richards at quarter. If Soper is still ailing Ollie Hahnenstein will take his place.

50 TO START IN CROSS-COUNTRY AT LOYOLA TODAY

Fifty runners, representing seven schools, will face the starter at 11 o'clock this morning in the ninth annual Loyola invitational cross-country run over the Loyola course. Wisconsin, winner of the team trophy the last two years, is favored to repeat.

The Badgers, led by Wally Mehl, who finished third to Greg Rice and Steve Szumachowski of Notre Dame last year, have entered Ed Buxton, Bill Farin, Howie Knox, Jerry Bauer, and Bob Meek. Capt. Marion Cole, who finished fourth last year, will head the Illinois State Normal team. Max Lenover, unbeaten this year, is Loyola's star. Other schools entered are Milwaukee State Teachers', Chicago, Charleston Teachers', Wheaton, and Bradley Tech.

BEARS FIND OUT TODAY IF MANIACI IS ABLE TO PLAY

Injured Star May Oppose Packers Tomorrow.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Today's workout in which the Bears' complete preparations for tomorrow's Green Bay game suddenly has become the most important of the week, for this drill will establish whether Joe Maniaci, veteran full back and leading ground gainer in the National league, will be able to oppose the Packers.

Maniaci suffered a severely wrenched leg against Detroit last week. He was dismissed from the hospital on Tuesday morning to resume practice and has shown steady improvement. His progress had not been rapid enough, however, to permit a definite decision on his availability yesterday.

Burden On Osmanski.

Regardless of the verdict, Bill Osmanski, the rookie sensation from Holy Cross, will be forced to bear the brunt of the burden against the Packers as the Bears strive to preserve a mathematical chance of sharing in the title. Osmanski, in all probability, will start the game and play most of it.

The Bears' concern over Maniaci is no reflection on Osmanski. They have the greatest confidence in the young man. But if Maniaci is not available, Osmanski will be without adequate relief, and it is not especially comforting to enter a game as important as tomorrow's struggle without reserve strength, particularly in a position as important in the Bear offense as full back. Green Bay comes into the city tonight with a full complement of reserves, an offense that has been traveling in high gear, and a defense that has turned back every opponent except Cleveland.

Packers Expect Battle.

The Packers declined comment on the game, their own condition, or what strategy they expect to use in an attempt to remain tied with Detroit for the western division lead. They intimate, however, that they expect Detroit to beat the New York Giants, and it has been known since the first Bear game in Green Bay on Sept. 24 that they expect tomorrow's encounter to be the hardest of their schedule.

Coach George Halas announced yesterday that the kickoff had been moved up to 2 o'clock, despite the fact that the starting time on tickets is 2:15 o'clock.

CHICAGO RACING YEAR ENDS TODAY AT SPORTSMAN'S

Little Saratoga, Au Revoir Purses Top Final Card.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago's horse racing season, which began last May at Lincoln Fields, will close this afternoon at Sportsman's Park. Some of the stables which have been operating here thruout the summer will head for New Orleans, Miami, or Los Angeles. Others will retire for the winter.

This is the latest any Illinois race track has operated since the sport was restored to legal standing in this state. Next season, opening day probably will be earlier than ever before. Encouraged by an increase in the daily average mutuel handle, six tracks have applied for 1940 dates. Aurora, which plans to reopen under new management, has asked for an April 27 opening in accordance with an amendment to the racing law which permits tracks to operate from the last Saturday of April to the first Saturday of November.

Two Purses Head Card.

The getaway day program this afternoon will be headed by the Little Saratoga purse and the Au Revoir purse. The former drew a field of nine of the better grade claiming horses and the latter has enlisted eleven 2 year olds. The older horses will go six and a half furlongs and the juveniles will run seven.

Calculator, which had showed a liking for the Sportsman's Park track by scoring a six length victory in a recent effort, got to the post at better than 8 to 1 in a seven furlong sprint which topped yesterday's program. Meanwhile Honored Miss was established as the 5 to 2 favorite because of her excellent performances in her last four starts. She had won two of these and had taken a second and third in the others.

Calculator Wins Easily.

Calculator, however, ran right back to his best effort. After racing close to the pace in the early stages, he responded to strong urging in the last half mile, took the lead away from Eternal Wave in the last sixteenth, and won by a length and a half. Eternal Wave had just enough left to save second place from Individual by the margin of a head. Those who backed the winner collected $18.80, $10.60 and $9.80.

Jockey Bill Lowe rode winners in two close finishes. He brought in Scottish Mary under a hard drive in the first race. After losing ground on one of the turns, she moved up fast in the last quarter and beat Mary Van Trump by a head.

Lowe scored his other victory aboard High Fire in the seventh. This was the closest race of the day, High Fire winning by a nose after racing head and head with Oatsie B. thru the stretch.

SIX DAY BICYCLE RACE WILL START TOMORROW NIGHT

Chicago's 42d international six day bicycle race gets under way tomorrow night at 9 o'clock in the Stadium, with Eddie Cantor firing the starting gun. Twelve teams will start.

All the riders are in town and the majority of them had a workout yesterday afternoon at Humboldt park. Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, German riders, will not compete. They are serving in the German army. Jerry Rodman, west side, and Cecil Yates, south side, make up the Chicago team. Torchy Peden and Doug Peden, Gerard Debaets and Bobby Thomas, Cesar Moretti and Angello de Bacco, Charley Yaccino and Fred Ottevaere, Alf Letourner and Tino Reboli, Jules Audy and Cocky O'Brien are among the favorite teams.

Tomorrow night, before the six day race starts, there will be a one hour amateur team race. Among entries are Tony Neberz and Mike Abitrick, Eddie Carfagnini and John Fitzpatrick, Tony Nerberz and Joe Berlando, and Fred and Erwin Pesek.

15,000 WILL SEE LANE TECH, SENN CONTEST TODAY

Prep Rivals to Clash in Soldiers' Field.

The Big Three in the Public High School league's football race—Lane Tech, Austin, and Fenger—go to work again today.

Milton Pergament and his Lane Tech associates will attempt to convince a homecoming crowd of 15,000 that they possess the speed and power to reach Mayor Kelly's All-City game on Dec. 2 in their annual battle with Senn in Soldiers' field. Undefeated and untied in five north division games, a victory over Senn will assure Lane Tech of at least a tie for the sectional championship.

Griffin, Rotunno in Action.

Fenger's Donald [Flash] Griffin and Austin's Tony [One Man Gang] Rotunno, the league's touchdown specialists, will try to lead their teams to within a game of sectional titles. Fenger will meet Hirsch, which has a record of one victory, one loss, and one tie in south section competition, in Pullman Tech field. Austin, west division champion for three years, opposes Farragut in Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue.

Fenger and Austin also have perfect records. The south siders, who won from Mount Carmel in last year's All-City game, have scored four straight victories in the south zone, rolling up 147 points to its opponents' 13. Austin, eliminated by Harrison Tech in last season's semi-finals, has won five games, scoring 129 points and its goal line has not been crossed.

Seek Six in Row.

The two other unbeaten and untied teams in the league—Tilden Tech and Lindblom—which are tied for the central section lead, will go out in quest of their sixth consecutive triumphs. Lindblom meets Phillips in Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue, and Tilden Tech plays Kelly in the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

BY WILFRID SMIT[illegible]

[Chicago Tribune Press Servic[illegible]

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—Indi[illegible] versity's football men, intent [illegible] setting the Ohio State team [illegible] row afternoon, went thru [illegible] drill today in the Buckeye s[illegible] This group of Hoosiers, perh[illegible] best team Col. Alvin N. [Bo] [illegible] lin has assembled in his ten[illegible] Bloomington, has been pointi[illegible] Ohio State two weeks.

With the exception, of cour[illegible] Purdue, the home state rival, I[illegible] would rather whip Ohio State [illegible] any team on the schedule. [illegible] victory to offset last year's [illegible] served defeat is exactly what B[illegible] Millin and his "pore little boys" [illegible] promised their neighboring fri[illegible] Indiana has become a feature on [illegible] Buckeye gridiron program.

They're Both Ready.

Indiana's men are ready. To[illegible] preview of Hoosier strategy, w[illegible] will be shown before 40,000 cus[illegible] ers tomorrow, consisted of the u[illegible] passing, kicking, and running w[illegible] up, but Indiana is so sincere in [illegible] drive against the Buckeyes tha[illegible] team was sent to Indianapolis T[illegible] day evening after practice, permi[illegible] to sleep in Pullmans in the In[illegible] apolis railroad yards and [illegible] brought in the early morning h[illegible] to Columbus.

Indiana has an excellent chanc[illegible] become an all-important factor in [illegible] Big Ten race by whipping Ohio S[illegible] The Hoosiers now have won [illegible] games [Wisconsin, 14 to 0, and [illegible] nois, 7 to 6], and have lost one [illegible] test—to Iowa, 32 to 29. After O[illegible] State comes Purdue on Nov. 25, [illegible] fifth and final conference oppon[illegible] Indiana could share in the confere[illegible] championship by winning tomor[illegible] and failing of that goal, by conti[illegible] ation of the drives of undefe[illegible] rivals, still finish high in the [illegible] division.

Cornell Defeat Hurts.

The edge was taken off this ga[illegible] by Ohio State's defeat by Corn[illegible] last week. Another perfect sea[illegible] envisioned by Buckeye partisans [illegible] failed to materialize. But Ohio St[illegible] still has a clear record in the Big T[illegible] with conquests of Northwestern a[illegible] Minnesota. Following the India[illegible] game are contests with Chicago, I[illegible] nois, and Michigan.

There can be no particular do[illegible] but that Ohio State will win fr[illegible] Chicago and Illinois. The importa[illegible] game then is with Michigan, provi[illegible] that the Buckeyes escape with a [illegible] tory tomorrow.

Ohio State worked out briefly af[illegible] Indiana's men had left the practi[illegible] field. The Buckeyes have had m[illegible] spirit and enthusiasm this season th[illegible] in any year of the Schmidt régi[illegible] and the loss to Cornell has be[illegible] marked down as just another wh[illegible] ping.

Ohio Proud of Team.

Ohio State is not inordinately pro[illegible] of its team. The Buckeye back fi[illegible] of Jim Strausbaugh, left half; Fra[illegible] Zadworney, right half; Jim Lan[illegible] hurst, full back, and Don Sco[illegible] quarter back, however, is about [illegible] fine a combination as the Big T[illegible] can boast. Scott's passing, only rival[illegible] by that of Hal Hursh, of tomorro[illegible] competitors, has done as much [illegible] keep Ohio State on top as has [illegible] running of Strausbaugh.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—Indiana university's football men, intent upon upsetting the Ohio State team tomorrow afternoon, went thru a final drill today in the Buckeye stadium. This group of Hoosiers, perhaps the best team Col. Alvin N. [Bo] McMillin has assembled in his tenure in Bloomington, has been pointing for Ohio State two weeks.

With the exception, of course, of Purdue, the home state rival, Indiana would rather whip Ohio State than any team on the schedule. And a victory to offset last year's undeserved defeat is exactly what Bo McMillin and his "pore little boys" have promised their neighboring friends. Indiana has become a feature on the Buckeye gridiron program.

They're Both Ready.

Indiana's men are ready. Today's preview of Hoosier strategy, which will be shown before 40,000 customers tomorrow, consisted of the usual passing, kicking, and running warm-up, but Indiana is so sincere in this drive against the Buckeyes that the team was sent to Indianapolis Thursday evening after practice, permitted to sleep in Pullmans in the Indianapolis railroad yards and then brought in the early morning hours to Columbus.

Indiana has an excellent chance to become an all-important factor in the Big Ten race by whipping Ohio State. The Hoosiers now have won two games [Wisconsin, 14 to 0, and Illinois, 7 to 6], and have lost one contest—to Iowa, 32 to 29. After Ohio State comes Purdue on Nov. 25, the fifth and final conference opponent. Indiana could share in the conference championship by winning tomorrow and failing of that goal, by continuation of the drives of undefeated rivals, still finish high in the first division.

Cornell Defeat Hurts.

The edge was taken off this game by Ohio State's defeat by Cornell last week. Another perfect season envisioned by Buckeye partisans has failed to materialize. But Ohio State still has a clear record in the Big Ten with conquests of Northwestern and Minnesota. Following the Indiana game are contests with Chicago, Illinois, and Michigan.

There can be no particular doubt but that Ohio State will win from Chicago and Illinois. The important game then is with Michigan, provided that the Buckeyes escape with a victory tomorrow.

Ohio State worked out briefly after Indiana's men had left the practice field. The Buckeyes have had more spirit and enthusiasm this season than in any year of the Schmidt régime, and the loss to Cornell has been marked down as just another whipping.

Ohio Proud of Team.

Ohio State is not inordinately proud of its team. The Buckeye back field of Jim Strausbaugh, left half; Frank Zadworney, right half; Jim Langhurst, full back, and Don Scott, quarter back, however, is about as fine a combination as the Big Ten can boast. Scott's passing, only rivaled by that of Hal Hursh, of tomorrow's competitors, has done as much to keep Ohio State on top as has the running of Strausbaugh.

HORNER ORDERS COMMISSION TO 'ACT ON EXPOSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 3.—The Illinois boxing commission today received instructions from Gov. Henry Horner to open an investigation of the scandal exposed exclusively in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE last Monday. Chairman Joe Triner, Commissioners Sheldon Clark and James R. Fitzpatrick, and Secretary John Owen told him that evidence will be considered at the commission's meeting Monday.

"The alleged fake fights were held outside the state," the governor said, "but in the interest of clean sports, I want the commission to look into the charges and then report to me. If the board's findings justify it, there will be a public hearing. Everyone involved in the case will be invited to present his side."

Gov. Horner did not mention any of the principals, but he was referring to Heavyweight Harry Thomas of Eagle Bend, Minn., who admitted to THE TRIBUNE that he arranged to lose bouts to Max Schmeling and Tony Galento in advance; Nate Lewis, Thomas' manager, and Joe Jacobs, manager of Galento and Schmeling.

Wyatt of Dodgers Has Operation for Knee Ailment

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 3 (AP).—Whitlow Wyatt, Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, underwent an operation on his knee at Johns Hopkins hospital this morning. The operation was performed by Dr. George E. Bennett, in the hope it may correct the ailment that reduced Wyatt's effectiveness in the closing weeks of the baseball season. Wyatt is expected to remain in the hospital about two weeks.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 3.—Purdue's Boilermakers, those rough and ready youths who were good enough to battle Minnesota's Gophers to a tie, have a slight attack of jitters. And all because Nile Kinnick, one of the forward passing plutocrats of the Big Ten, will be in town with his Iowa pals tomorrow to attempt another aerial bombardment such as he turned loose to drive Indiana and Wisconsin to their bombproof shelters.

While the Boilermakers profess to be greatly annoyed by their own thoughts of what might result if Kinnick has control of his dazzling pitches, there is reason to be suspicious that they have a few tricks of their own to spring before a homecoming crowd of 20,000. Their line, supposedly, is infinitely superior, their backs are better runners than the Hawkeyes, and they have a passing assault of consequence. So even if Kinnick does go on parade again the Boilermakers might easily outpoint him on their versatility.

They've Been Warned.

All the Boilermakers have heard since they finished their losing fight with Santa Clara last Saturday evening are warnings against Iowa's one man football circus. Wisconsin's Badgers prepared similarly for Kinnick last Saturday. They hustled to get at him, but he kept right on pitching. What the Badgers didn't do, seemingly, is to guard the spots where Kinnick's throws might travel. He threw seven successful passes that afternoon and five different men were on the receiving ends. So the Boilermakers might do themselves no harm by keeping only one eye on Kinnick and one on five other guys.

The Purdue town criers don't say much about their own passers, but maybe that's because there are too many of them. The Hawks undoubtedly have been cautioned that they can expect to see some throwing from Mike Byelene, John Galvin, Lou Brock, Jack Brown, and maybe some others. But the Hawks may not know that in Dave Rankin the Boilermakers admit they have the kind of a pass catcher who's an answer to any coach's prayer. Rankin might be wearing Hawk toggery tomorrow if his folks hadn't migrated from Davenport, Ia., to Warsaw, Ind.

Shock Troops to Start.

As is the custom, Mike Byelene will not be among the starters in the Purdue back field, but Mike will get in there eventually and that will be something for the Hawks to consider. Mike doesn't confine himself to passing. He's the lad who last year, with a little help from his blockers, skipped across 76 yards of grass to whip Wisconsin. He contributed to the tie with Minnesota by dashing 45 yards in one play. He also made the longest run of any Purdue back in the battle with Notre Dame. In these two struggles he had an average of eight yards net per play.

Neither team will start off with what the respective coaches figure is their choicest ensemble. Two Boilermaker linemen, Right Guard Carl Verplank and Right End Felix Mackiewicz, are out of harness as the result of injuries. The Hawks will have to conduct the day's business without the help of Center Bill Diehl, who was considerably bunged up by the Badgers, and without Jim Walker, a left tackle, whom Iowans speak of as a second edition of Duke Slater.

The Iowa squad worked out on Stagg field in Chicago before coming on to Lafayette.

SCHMELING STILL THINKS HE CAN BEAT JOE LOUIS

MADRID, Spain, Nov. 3 (AP).—Max Schmeling wants another crack at Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis. The big German said so today when he arrived by plane from Barcelona. He said he weighed 193 pounds, compared to his usual fighting weight of 190.

"I still think I can beat Louis," Schmeling said.

Max doesn't plan to go to the United States just now. He explained that he was here to look over the ground for a movie his actress wife, Annie Ondra, plans to make in Spain.

MAROONS WIN! MAROONS LOSE (IN FROSH GAME)

Exhibiting more rough and tumble football than has been seen on Stagg field in many a day, the Blues of the University of Chicago's freshmen squad nosed out the Reds yesterday afternoon, 13 to 12.

The Blues' touchdowns were scored by Dill Ostenbrug and George Basich, with Adam Kosacz converting one of the extra points that ultimately provided the margin of victory. Bob Stenberg and Howard Heller scored the Reds' touchdowns. Heller ran 65 yards for his touchdown just before the game ended. The lineups: scored three more touchdowns the next five times he got his hands on the ball. Later, he made a fifth touchdown. Harmon, even against such weak opposition as the University of Chicago, has failed to approach that one day spectacular running display.

The Illini haven't had much to cheer about this season, but they seem to feel that tomorrow they may rise to the heights. They admit Harmon perhaps is the best back in the nation, but they do not hold him in awe.

Illinois Shifts Back Field.

Illinois' strategy against Harmon resulted in a back field shift after today's practice. Jimmy Smith and Liz Astroth, sophomores, were placed at the half back positions, because of their defensive ability.

Chuck Purvis, perhaps the most gifted back on Zuppke's squad, is suffering from a knee injury incurred in the 13 to 0 loss to Northwestern last week. He has taken no part in scrimmage this week, but will be used in spot situations that call for his passing skill.

Michigan's chief casualty is Paul Kromer, Harmon's running mate in the back field. But his substitute is Fred Trosko, 154 pound senior back, who as a sophomore beat the Illini on this field. Illinois had a 6 to 0 lead in the third quarter when the Wolverines marched into enemy territory for the first time. On the 40 yard line Trosko whipped a long pass to John Nicholson, who ran eleven yards for a touchdown. Trosko then assured himself of a newspaper clipping to put on page one of his scrapbook. He kicked the extra point that won the game.

Last year Coach Fritz Crisler watched the Wolverines beat the Illini, 14 to 0. Harmon, as a sophomore, had a leading hand in the victory. He scored one touchdown and passed to Forrest Evashevski, the quarter back, for the other score. In their three meetings preceding 1937 Illinois won three straight, winning, 7 to 6 in 1934, 3 to 0 in 1935, and 9 to 6 in 1936. Michigan won in 1933, 7 to 6. So, except for last year, either a field goal or a place kick has been the margin of victory since 1933. It is the twenty-fifth meeting between the rivals, and Michigan has a 16 to 8 advantage. None of the games has resulted in a tie.

Big Crowd to See Maroons Play Virginia

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 3 [Special].—Virginia will see a Western conference team in action for the first time tomorrow when the University of Chicago eleven and the University of Virginia meet in Scott stadium before the largest crowd of the season. It will likewise be the first time the two teams have ever met.

The Maroons, far below Big Ten standards this year, are not expected to offer serious competition to the Virginians, but the opportunity of seeing a Big Ten team in action has been the lure which will fill the stadium. Charlottesville and university police completed plans today to handle the crowd.

The Chicago squad, led by Head Coach Clark Shaughnessy, arrived this morning and held a light workout this afternoon in the stadium. Following the practice the Chicago players were taken on a tour of nearby Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson, and Oak Hill, home of James Madison. Probable lineups:

KANSAS, BEATEN BY KANSAS STATE, 27-6, WINS FIGHT

Lawrence, Kas., Nov. 3 (AP).—Kansas made its best defensive stand after the game today as approximately 2,000 Jayhawk students repulsed attempts by Kansas State sympathizers to uproot the goal posts following the Wildcats' 27 to 6 triumph in a Big Six football clash.

The fighters surged up and down the field for 20 minutes after the game as the 18,000 noncombatant spectators cheered the spectacle.

Innocent bystanders were brought down by flying blocks, band instruments trampled, and noses smashed, but the goal posts were still upright after the fight ended.

The postgame activities overshadowed the game itself in which Kansas State relentlessly hammered the Jayhawk line and, as necessity demanded, unveiled an aerial attack that brought yardage and points.

MARQUETTE TO FACE UNBEATEN DUQUESNE TODAY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 3 [Special].—Marquette university's football team will face unbeaten and untied Duquesne university in an intersectional game on Forbes field tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Paddy Driscoll has the Marquette eleven at its strongest form since the opening game of the season with Wisconsin, but the Hilltoppers still will be without the services of two first-stringers, Dave Braden, guard, and Chuck Peifer, tackle.

Duquesne's hopes for victory are based on the fact that the Dukes never have lost a daytime game on Forbes field; on earlier triumphs over Pittsburgh, Manhattan, and Texas Tech, and on the presence of several sophomores who are making Coach Aldo T. Donelli's first season here a success. Both teams are expected to make frequent use of the forward pass. A fast dry field is in prospect, and a crowd of 25,000 is expected.

Probable lineups follow:

LETTERS REVEAL PRICING SECRETS OF ORE BUSINESS

Dealer Admits Consulting 'Big Four' on Bids.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—The reading of a series of frank, and apparently embarrassing, father-and-son letters produced evidence before the monopoly committee today that leading iron ore merchants had consulted in recent years on the base price of this major raw material.

The letters were between Emmett Butler, brother of Associate Justice Butler of the Supreme court and head of an iron ore company at St. Paul, Minn., and his son, Patrick Butler.

Patrick wrote his father that he had consulted the "big four" of the iron ore industry before submitting a bid to supply ore to the Ford Motor company.

Admits Consultation.

"Then you did consult with the 'big four' on ore prices?" a committee attorney asked young Butler.

"Evidently I did," he said, after identifying a number of letters to his father that justice department agents had taken from their company's files.

Butler identified the "big four" as a quartet of Cleveland iron ore companies whose representatives were at the hearing.

These included George M. Humphrey of the M. A. Hanna company, E. B. Greene, Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company; Crispin Oglebay, Oglebay, Norton & Co., and Elton Hoyt II. of Pickands, Mather & Co.

Explains Base Prices.

The base price of iron ore remained on an even keel in recent years, while prices of finished steel products and other raw materials varied widely.

Hoyt said concessions from base ore prices under different contracts produced a wide variance in actual prices paid by ore buyers. This data, he added, had been given the committee, but involved "trade secrets" among competitors.

Young Butler's letters disclosed that he considered it "dangerous to quote Ford under the full price," and that the Ford business "is the only open market business left." One letter said that if the Butlers cut prices and this were learned by the United States Steel corporation "our goose would be cooked."

HUDSON BAY.

I would appreciate some information on Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting.—H. S.

Answer: Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting company, Ltd., gets copper, gold, silver, zinc, and other metals from ore mined at Flin Flon, Manitoba, Canada. Reserves at the end of 1938 were estimated as sufficient for about 18 years.

Earnings fell off quite sharply last year, although some recovery has been shown so far in the current year. Net income, earnings a common share and dividends paid a common share in recent years:

Year.	*Net income	Earned.	Paid.
1934	$1,549,612	$0.58	....
1935	3,215,187	1.17	1.00
1936	3,692,075	1.34	1.00
1937	7,490,653	2.72	1.75
1938	4,435,432	1.61	1.50

*Before depletion.

Net income for the first nine months of the current year amounted to $3,656,336, equal to $1.32 a share, against $3,096,782, equal to $1.12 a share, in the same period last year. Dividends totaling $1.75 a share have been declared so far this year.

Current assets amounted to $12,248,762 and current liabilities to $2,033,563 at Dec. 31, 1938. There are 2,757,973 shares of no par common outstanding. There is no funded debt.

ASSESSMENT.

What is meant by the term assessment?—J. D.

Answer: When a security is of the assessment type, the holder may be called upon to pay money to the company. Some insurance policies are of this type, also. While the premium paid on such policies may be unusually small, the company has the right to assess policyholders for funds.

RAILROAD BOND.

Please give me some information about Colorado and Southern 4½s of 1980.—K. S.

Answer: The series "A" 4½ per cent bonds due in 1980 of the Colorado and Southern Railway company are in a junior position. Prior liens amount to $28,444,300. This issue is covered by a second lien on 613 miles of track.

The road has had difficulty in covering interest in recent years. The times fixed charges earned record for the last seven years:

Year.	Times earned.	Year.	Times earned
1932	0.74	1936	0.81
1933	0.79	1937	1.2
1934	0.59	1938	0.5
1935	0.68

Fixed charges were earned 0.7 times in the first eight months of 1939 against 0.90 times in the same period last year.

The 4½s of 1980 are predominantly speculative.

Skaters Perform.

Nov. 3, 1939.

It will be some time until the farm ponds are frozen and the boys and girls are able to put on their ice skates, but some of the residents of the Du Page county farm already have seen an exhibition by some interesting water skaters which live on a small pool. These artists don't demand a frozen body of water to demonstrate their ability, because they know how to skate gracefully over a pool of water before the thermometer goes down to the freezing point. The performers are water striders or water skaters, small insects that look like spiders.

Any one who has seen these insects navigate across a pool of water can understand why they are called water striders, because when they go into high gear they remind one of a graceful skater gliding across a frozen pond. They hatch in late summer or autumn, store food within their bodies until freezing weather arrives, then hibernate in the mud. Those seen on the Du Page county farm staged their demonstration on a pool near one of the farm homes.

Sunflower Stalks Cut.

One of the farm workers this week cut down the sunflower stalks which grew in the sample garden and provided so many huge golden flowers. This sign of the season's end reminded us, by contrast, of the activity around the sample garden this spring and summer, with farm workers caring for the numerous vegetables and hundreds of visitors strolling along the gravel walks to see the labeled plots.

Now the farm has vacant rows where tomatoes, carrots, and numerous other vegetables grew. In one corner of the plot stand the tall wooden posts connected with wires, but the hop vines that grew there this summer have been pulled to the ground; Jerusalem artichoke stalks have been leveled; the rows where sweet corn grew are bare. In fact the only remaining "residents" of the farm's garden are individual rows of celery, parsnips, parsley, turnips, rhubarb, and asparagus.

Fox Sparrow Banded.

One more species of sparrow has been added to the list of birds trapped and banded on the Du Page county farm this season. Several fox sparrows, which are among the most colorful of all the members of his family, were trapped and released after small numbered bands were placed on their legs. The ornithologist who named the fox sparrow undoubtedly was acquainted with the common red fox, because the feathers of this species are almost the same shade of red as the fur of a fox.

During the summer months the fox sparrow is at home in the area from Newfoundland and Manitoba north as far as northern Quebec and Alaska. During October and early November, in average years, the birds pass through Chicagoland on their way south, and it is then that bird fans have a chance to see them scratch through the leaves in thickets and brushy woodlots. In the spring the fox sparrows come thru again on their way to the north country—usually in late May or April.

The banding of the fox sparrows marks the 13th kind of songbirds trapped and released on the farm since banding operations were started this spring. The 12 others are field sparrows, brown thrashers, cowbirds, catbirds, Vesper sparrows, tufted titmice, bluejays, chickadees, towhees, white-throated sparrows, white-crowned sparrows, and juncos.

"I HAVE A BABY THE NEW WAY"
the story of one woman's experience with painless childbirth

"Those capsules the nurse gave me at 9 p. m. certainly worked fast. I don't remember a thing from then on. I'd say Bill Jr. was born without my knowing anything about it."

Thus a mother describes her experience with painless childbirth—a subject on which experts are still sharply divided. For the step-by-step account of her experience, from the time she arrived in the hospital until her baby was born, read "I Have a Baby the New Way!" illustrated in color, in the Color Graphic section of tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

An accompanying article traces the story of the development of childbirth technique from earliest times to the present. Don't miss these interesting articles.

SOARING STOCKS MARK HOPE FOR BIG WAR ORDERS

Steel and Aviation Issues Lead Rise.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 3.—After absorbing a wave of selling early in the session the stock market met considerable support in the afternoon. As a result active shares posted gains ranging to more than 2 points and volatile issues spurted as much as 5 points.

Nearly all sections of the list were higher, with "war babies" showing the widest gains. Aviation and steel issues stood out. Trading was the most active since mid-October. A total of 1,315,860 shares changed hands, against 845,710 yesterday.

Decisive defeat in the house of representatives of the arms embargo—regarded as ensuring hasty passage of a neutrality bill that will go far toward releasing American war materials to the belligerents—coupled with favorable business news provided the stimulus for the market's strong advance.

Vast War Orders Reported.

Of chief interest were reports that vast British and French orders were ready for airplanes with United States companies; the increase in weekly automobile production despite the union labor troubles at Chrysler plants, and expanding steel operations at several points.

Curtiss-Wright common monopolized the tape for a time, climbing 1⅛ points to 11⅝, a new 1939 peak. United Aircraft also made a new high for the year with a jump of 2⅛ points to 49⅝.

Aviation corporation, up 1⅛; North American Aviation, Glenn Martin, Sperry corporation, Douglas, and Consolidated Aircraft also were conspicuous. The sensitive Wright Aero issue shot up 6 points.

Steel Group Is Strong.

Gains in steel ran to 2½ points in United States Steel and 2⅜ points in Bethlehem. Republic added nearly a point on active demand.

Motors also came in for their share of attention. The low priced Continental Motor issue netted ½ point in active demand. Chrysler added 1⅝ points. General Motors and Yellow Truck were other bright spots.

Coppers showed gains running to 1⅛ points in Anaconda. In the chemicals, Allied Chemical slipped a point, but others worked higher. Merchandising issues ruled firm, as did oil stocks.

Rail shares moved ahead in late dealings after early hesitancy. Rail equipment shares also reflected good inquiry. Power and light shares ruled fractionally higher. Electric equipments also made up ground.

Market Shows Little Change.

The New York Stock exchange announced that the market value of its 1,220 listed share issues at the end of October amounted to $47,373,972,773—almost the same as the figure for a month previous and a little above the comparable total a year ago.

The stock market settled into a narrow range during October after a spectacular advance in the first 10 days of the war in September.

The figure for the end of September was $47,440,476,682 and for Oct. 31, 1938, it was $47,001,767,212. There were 1,245 issues listed a year ago and 1,228 at the end of September this year.

The average values of all shares listed was $33.11 on Oct. 31, $33.15 on Sept. 30, and $32.96 on Oct. 31, 1938.

MURPHY DENIES PLEA FOR DELAY IN COLUMBIA CASE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—Attorney General Murphy informed Senator Nye [R. N. D.] today that "it would hardly be proper" for the justice department to request postponement of court action involving the Columbia Gas and Electric corporation "to permit investigation of the same issues by a congressional committee."

Nye had requested the attorney general to postpone approval of any proposal by the corporation for settlement of a government suit until complaints about the handling of the litigation had been heard by the monopoly committee.

The government filed suit last December to force Columbia Gas to divest itself of all control of Panhandle Eastern Pipeline company. The case is now before the United States District court of Delaware, awaiting approval of a master's report.

EGG PRICES UP ON RUMORS OF FEDERAL BUYING

Egg futures continued to push upward yesterday, spurred by unconfirmed rumors that the government may remove large amounts of surplus eggs from the market and distribute them to relief clients thru the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation. Closing prices were 0.15 to 0.20 cent a dozen higher. Butter futures climbed 0.20 to 0.25 cent a pound.

The Chicago Mercantile exchange reported the volume of futures trading in eggs last month, totaling 84,000,000 dozens, was the third heaviest for any October in the 20 year history of the market. Sales were 18 per cent above the 1929-'38 average for October of 68,902,000 dozens. Butter sales totaled 36,076,000 pounds of futures, up 98 per cent from a year ago but sharply under September's 68,870,000 pounds.

Third Quarter Profit of Radio Corp. Higher

Radio Corporation of America and subsidiaries had net income of $1,894,224 in the third quarter of 1939, David Sarnoff, president, announced yesterday. This was equal, after preferred dividend requirements, to 8 cents a share on common stock, and compared with a net of $1,616,449, or 5 cents a share, in the three months to Sept. 30, 1938. Gross income for the three months was $26,490,546, against $25,624,310 a year ago. Operating expenses amounted to $23,120,158, against $22,524,732.

David Sarnoff.

For the first nine months of the year Radio's net income was $4,066,425, equal to 12 cents a share, compared with $4,141,205, or 12 cents a share, in the 1938 period. Gross income for the nine months amounted to $74,368,668, against $70,195,044 in the 1938 period.

Dixie-Vortex Earns More.

Dixie-Vortex company, manufacturer of paper cups and containers, reported larger earnings during the twelve months ended Sept. 30. Profit increased to $838,519, or $1.93 a share, compared with $729,118, or $1.39 a share, for the year ended Sept. 30, 1938.

Hugh Moore, president, told stockholders that sales so far in the current calendar year are running ahead of those in the corresponding 1938 period.

Pittsburgh Steel company, producer of pig iron and semi-finished and finished steel products, had earnings of $85,093 for the September quarter, compared with net loss of $274,132 in the September quarter last year and loss of $232,615 in the June quarter of 1939. For the nine months ended Sept. 30 net loss was $524,681. No comparable figure was available.

McGraw Electric Gains.

McGraw Electric company had earnings of $1,287,040, or $2.72 a share, in the twelve months ended Sept. 30, contrasted with $764,582, or $1.61 a share, in the preceding twelve month period. This was incorrectly reported on Nov. 3. Earnings for the 1939 and 1938 periods were reversed. The company, with plants at Chicago, Elgin and St. Louis, manufactures electrical household appliances.

Net loss of the Walworth company during the nine months ended Sept. 30 decreased to $41,322, compared with net loss of $1,092,036 in the first nine months of the preceding year. Indicated net income for the September quarter was $104,304, equal to 7 cents a share. This compared with net loss of $224,601 in the September quarter of 1938. The company manufactures valves, fittings, and other products in plants at Kewanee, Ill., and in eastern and southern states.

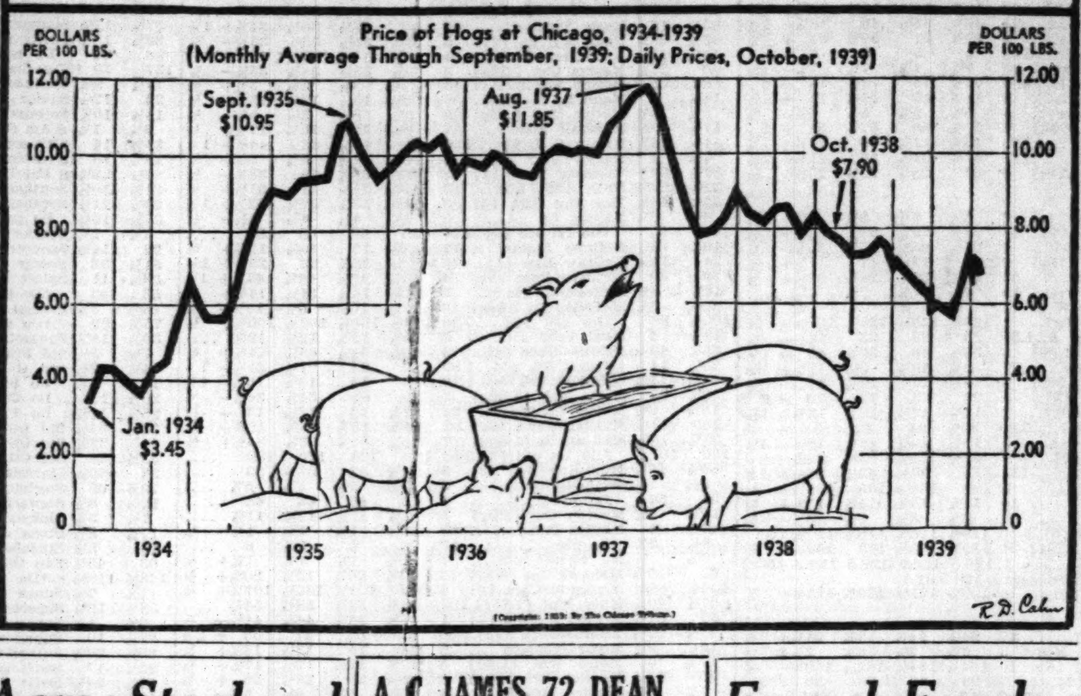
POLAND PAYS INTEREST ON DEBT IN SPITE OF SEIZURE BY GERMANS

New York, Nov. 3 [Special].—Poland continues to pay its debts. The financial counsellor of the Polish embassy today informed the New York Stock exchange that interest coupons due April 15, next, on one of its bond issues would be paid in full.

The communication explained that sufficient funds had accumulated in the accounts of fiscal agents in this country before the invasion of Poland to make this payment to holders of both the dollar and pound sterling amounts of the loan. The bonds in question are the Republic of Poland 7 per cent stabilization loan of 1927 which are 4½ per cent assented external sinking fund bonds due in 1968.

This offer covers only those bonds in the 1927 issue for which holders agreed to accept a lower rate of interest.

Hog Prices, Despite Rise, Are Lower Than Last Year



Acme Steel and Allis-Chalmers Declare Extras

Extra or special payments declared by six companies headlined yesterday's dividend news. Other corporations raised the usual rate of payment on their common stocks.

Directors of the Acme Steel company, Chicago, declared an extra dividend of 25 cents on capital stock, and raised the quarterly rate to 75 cents a share. Both dividends are payable Dec. 12. It was the second time this year the dividend rate was raised. Payments of 25 cents were made in March and June, while 50 cents was paid Sept. 12. The newest authorization brings total 1939 dividends to $2 a share compared with $1.25 paid during 1938.

Allis-Chalmers Votes Extra.

Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company voted an extra dividend of 25 cents a common share in addition to the usual quarterly payment of the same amount, both payable Dec. 22. This brings total 1939 dividends to $1.25, compared with $1.50 paid last year.

Van Raalte Company, Inc., silk manufacturer, announced an extra of 50 cents a share on the common stock, plus the usual quarterly payment of the same amount, both payable Dec. 1.

Sylvania Industrial corporation declared an extra of 25 cents on the common and the usual 25 cent quarterly dividend, both payable Nov. 21.

Creole Petroleum corporation voted an extra of 25 cents in addition to the semiannual payment of the same amount. Both are payable Dec. 15.

Viking Payment Voted.

Viking Pump company authorized a special dividend of 50 cents a common share, payable Dec. 15. In the three previous quarters this year special dividends of 25 cents each were paid. Last year the company paid a total of $1.25 on the common.

Buckeye Pipe Line company declared $1 payable Dec. 15 on the common stock. Payments of 50 cents were made on Sept. 15, June 15, and March 15 this year. Last year $2 was paid.

Chicago corporation, an investing company, declared a dividend of 75 cents on the $3 preferred stock, payable Dec. 1. Arrears on the issue after the payment is made will remain at 75 cents a share. The company reported net asset value as of Oct. 31 equaled $60.12 a share on preferred stock, and $1.46 on the common. This compared with $59.43 on the preferred and $1.47 on the common a year earlier.

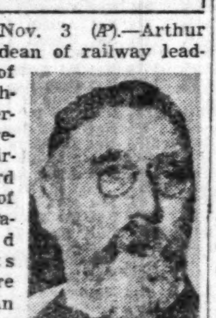
Hold Breakfast Meeting for 1,000 Dodge Dealers

Nearly 1,000 Dodge dealers and salesmen will hold a breakfast meeting at the Palmer House this morning. The meeting will be conducted by George W. Malcomson, Chicago regional manager for the Dodge division of Chrysler corporation, and E. J. Poag, director of merchandising.

A. C. JAMES, 72, DEAN OF RAIL CHIEFS, QUITS WESTERN PACIFIC POST

New York, Nov. 3 (AP).—Arthur Curtiss James, dean of railway leaders and one of the twelve richest men in America, today resigned as chairman of the board and a director of the Western Pacific Railroad company, posts held for more than 13 years. An announcement by the company said the board had "reluctantly accepted" the resignation, effective at the end of the year.



Arthur Curtiss James.

James is 72 years old. He said stepping down from the helm of Western Pacific was "merely another of a series of such resignations" from companies in which he is heavily interested, because of his desire to "lighten the burden of business activities." He added that he has not disposed of any part of his investment in Western Pacific, nor does he intend to.

OIL IN ILLINOIS ENOUGH FOR MOST OTHER NATIONS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 3 (AP).—Illinois oil wells produced enough petroleum during the first 10 months of 1939 to supply petroleum demands of any country in the world except the United States, Russia, and the British Isles, the division of state department reports disclosed today.

Illinois wells during the 10 months produced approximately 70,000,000 barrels of petroleum, which amply would have supplied the demands of France or Germany, fourth and fifth respectively, in petroleum consumption. France was a market for 54,000,000 barrels last year and Germany consumed 53,000,000 barrels.

The United States last year used 1,134,235,000 barrels, Russia, 164,500,000 barrels and the British Isles, 92,800,000.

On the basis of present production, state geologists expect Illinois wells to produce 90,000,000 or more barrels this year, an increase of 66,000,000 over 1938 and 82,500,000 over 1937, when major production began in the new Illinois fields.

CARRIERS REJECT PLEA FOR LOWER SOY BEAN RATES

Railroads operating in Illinois yesterday rejected a proposed reduction in intrastate freight charges on soy beans after a meeting with soy bean shippers and processors at the Union station here.

The shippers had asked for a cut of 25 to 40 per cent, which, they said, would put the rates on a par with those in Iowa, where motor competition has forced rail charges lower. R. A. Sperry, chairman of the Illinois Freight association, announced the railroads' decision.

Some soy bean men said the rate cut would put Illinois processors in a position to compete with Iowans. Others argued that rate cuts scaled on a mileage basis, as proposed, would limit supplies for many processors to the short haul areas.

BELIEVE CANADA IS READY TO BUY 1,200 U.S. PLANES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 3.—Canada, as well as Britain, will buy munitions in the United States as soon as the arms embargo repealer becomes law, according to information here today.

Canada plans to purchase 1,200 or 1,500 planes to train empire pilots, while the British purchasing commission is expected to place orders estimated at $2,500,000 for arms and munitions in New York within eight weeks.

General Electric Orders Rise Briskly in October

Orders booked by the General Electric in October were reported yesterday at $39,510,000, against $79,510,000 for the entire third quarter of 1939. It was indicated that if orders continue at last month's high level, a new record may be set for the fourth quarter.

French Funds Finance New Plane Plants

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 [Special].—The French government has completed arrangements to finance the construction of additional aircraft factories in this country in an effort to speed production and give powers opposed to Germany decisive control of the air.

About $5,000,000 is being advanced by France to the United Aircraft corporation's Pratt and Whitney division and to the Curtiss-Wright corporation to construct new airplane motor plants.

It is reported that similar deals with other American plane manufacturing concerns have been made or will be made soon.

These facts were revealed authoritatively today as congress sent the neutrality bill removing the arms embargo to the White House.

Meet German Challenge.

To meet the challenge of the huge Nazi air fleet, the French government wants to be assured of getting quickly the 6,000 airplane motors it is ordering in anticipation of embargo repeal and to make certain that it does so without interfering with aircraft requirements of the United States government.

The French deals are held here to be in conformity with laws declaring that foreign governments shall not own airplane factories in this country.

The French government will obtain no equity in the new plants because the money it is providing will be charged off later against increased airplane prices. In other words, a premium apparently is being paid by France for quick and assured production.

At the same time the Finnish military attaché, Col. Per Zilliacus, revealed that Finland is negotiating for the purchase of planes in this country, apparently to assist in meeting the soviet threat against that country. It was understood that more than 800 planes would be bought.

Build 1,600 for Britain.

It was believed here that the first planes to be delivered after the embargo is removed will be fifteen constructed for training purposes in Canada and that one of the first British orders completed after President Roosevelt signs the neutrality bill will be for 1,600 training planes.

With airplane production in Great Britain at a new peak, it is believed in official quarters here that there is an understanding between the British and French governments that the French will do the major part of the buying in the United States.

The American government's aeronautical board has moved to protect the American air forces' needs by requiring American plants to give preference to army and navy orders. Production has been rushed sufficiently, however, so that foreign orders can be hastened thru, it is felt here.

Await New Orders.

New orders to be placed immediately by the French and British as soon as the embargo is removed, tomorrow, are understood by officials here to total about $220,000,000.

They would be divided about as follows: Glenn Martin Aviation corporation, $66,000,000; United Aircraft, $60,000,000; Curtiss-Wright, $45,000,000 to $50,000,000; Douglas Aircraft company, $25,000,000 to $30,000,000; Lockheed Aircraft corporation, $5,000,000; Republic Aviation, $4,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Watch for Sabotage.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—Attorney General Murphy disclosed today that the justice department was ready to protect industry against sabotage if embargo repeal resulted in an increase in subversive activities. The department, he said, has moved cautiously, and a protective system has been set up under J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation. Murphy said the existence of such a system minimizes the possibility of widespread sabotage. He said that already there had been some sabotage.

Reichsbank Reports Big Gain in Note Circulation

Note circulation of the Reichsbank, Germany's central bank, increased 617,000,000 marks [about $246,800,000] to 10,819,000,000 marks [$4,327,600,000] during the week ended Oct. 30, the bank reported yesterday. Note circulation of the bank has been closely watched for signs of monetary inflation in Germany.

INDUSTRY POURS OUT MOST GOODS SINCE '29 BOOM

Fast Pace Forecast to End of Year.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—The federal reserve board announced today that American industry was rolling out products at the fastest pace since since 1929 and probably would continue at as rapid a gait until the end of the year at least.

At the same time Secretary of Commerce Hopkins said that wholesale trade during the first nine months of the year aggregated $15,000,000,000, an increase of $1,000,000,000 over the corresponding period of 1938.

Figures from the bureau of domestic and foreign commerce showed that half the wholesale gain was accounted for in July, August, and September. September sales of wholesalers were 16½ per cent higher than in September, 1938.

Warning on Inventories.

The reserve board tempered its optimism with the comment that "unless there is considerable increase in the consumption of goods, the accumulation of inventories which is now under way is likely to reach substantial proportions."

This meant that, unless people and businesses buy and use up newly produced goods faster than they now are doing, factories soon might reach the point of shutting down temporarily to get rid of present stocks.

However, moderate increases in retail sales and plant expansion, together with continued active residential construction, also were reported.

The board estimated the October rate of production at 120 per cent of the 1923-'25 average, compared with a revised figure of 111 [formerly given as 110] for September, 92 for the low 1939 months of April and May, and 96 in October, 1938.

War Accelerates Upturn.

"Industrial output, employment, and pay rolls," the board said in its monthly bulletin, "have shown further rapid advances following the buying wave and rise in prices that began with the outbreak of war.

"In many industries the volume of orders on hand appears to be large enough to sustain activity at a high level at least to the end of the year.

"In most primary markets buying was especially active in the first half of September and has since subsided. Demand for semifinished and finished products, however, has been maintained in large volume, although recently new orders for some products have decreased from earlier high levels.

"Consumption by individuals, utilization of materials thru outlays for capital goods, and commodity exports have increased much less rapidly than production.

Equipment Buying Expands.

"Buying of equipment and expenditures for improvement of plant have expanded, particularly in the metal working and railroad industries.

"Residential building activity has been for some months at the highest level of recent years and contracts for this type of building have continued large in recent weeks.

"Retail distribution of general merchandise has shown a rise beginning before the outbreak of war, and sales of electrical equipment, furniture, and other durable consumers' goods are reported to have increased considerably. Department store sales are at the level eached in 1937, and sales by mail order houses and chain stores have risen above 1937 levels."

MIDWEST STORE SALES INCREASE OVER YEAR AGO

Department store trade in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district was 9.6 per cent above 1938 levels during the week ended Oct. 28, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. During the preceding week, sales were 13.1 per cent higher than a year ago, and in the four weeks ended Oct. 28 trade in the district was up 11.9 per cent from the figures of a year earlier.

Chicago department store sales were 10.6 per cent higher during the week than in the corresponding week of 1938, and were 11.6 per cent higher in the four weeks than in the 1938 period.

National department store sales were up 5 per cent in the week ended Oct. 28 from the trade of the corresponding week a year ago, and were up 9 per cent in the four weeks period.

LANDON SEEKS LEASES AT NEW OIL DISCOVERY

Falls City, Neb., Nov. 3 [Special].—Former Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas and 20 other oil men from Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas were here today, interested in "cutting in" on the discovery of oil on the R. H. Boice farm.

Neither Landon nor the others had time to visit the well. They were too busy trying to buy into the Pawnee Royalty company's enterprise or obtain leases on nearby territory. Landon got up at 5:30 this morning to drive from Topeka.

Local folk, who greeted first word of oil yesterday with some skepticism, were more excited today. Referring to the influx of oil men, Landon said: "You haven't seen anything yet. Wait until Monday." Four major concerns already have geologists on the scene.

Finds Business Joining People to Oppose War

Business joins wholeheartedly in the determination of the American people that this time they are going to stay out of war, Alvin E. Dodd, president of the American Management association, said yesterday at the midwest conference on industrial relations. The conference was sponsored by the school of business of the University of Chicago, and was attended by 500 personnel administrators of big industrial firms.

"Business is doing everything possible to avoid an unhealthy wartime boom," Dodd said. "Altho some new business will come from abroad, plant expansion is not being planned on the basis of war boom mirage. The long term prospects of normal business activity are still being carefully weighed and, with few exceptions, business men are keeping their feet firmly on the ground.

Regard War as Disastrous.

"Many executives realize how disastrous war can be to their companies and to their employés. They are trying to make their employés realize the grave threat that war holds for each of them personally. They believe it is important that wage earners realize that a war is inevitably followed by a disorganized and contracting business cycle, with little demand for goods or for workers."

He listed important personnel problems that will confront business if the European war continues and industrial activity advances. Labor shortages in some branches of industry are already occurring, he said, and intensive training methods may have to be utilized. Business, he said, is making a determined effort to keep prices down, but in some lines costs are advancing and prices will go up. A demand for wage increases is expected to follow.

Urges Increasing Production.

"Regardless of wartime disruptions," he said, "the responsibility for increasing the productiveness of our industrial machinery, for employing every means available to keep prices down and thereby increase consumer buying power and business employing power cannot be neglected.

"Our lasting prosperity depends upon our efforts as executives to improve business efficiency and to pass the major benefits of our accomplishments along to our customers so that each economic layer of our population can be elevated to a higher plane. Business under the guidance of scientific management will make a more determined effort to demonstrate to the public that it is doing this kind of a job and that it is a highly desirable citizen."

Merrill Shepard of the law firm of Pope & Ballard pointed out that the 1939 draft act significantly omits control of plants if labor threatens a tieup, and merely mentions cooperation. There is a notable tendency generally in the country today, he said, away from direct regimentation, at least in the labor field.

Explains New Labor Plan.

Nathan W. Shefferman of Sears, Roebuck & Co. discussed a modern concept of labor relations in which he advocated the setting up of three committees in each community to deal with industrial problems. One would be made up of employers, a second an arbitration committee on which labor would be represented, and the third a committee of citizens in which the professions and other groups would speak for the public at large. The voice of the citizens' committee could become extremely important, he declared, in such situations.

MOTOR DEALER'S CHARGES DENIED BY 4 OFFICIALS

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 3 [Special].—Four General Motors officials, called in the corporation's anti-trust case, today contradicted previous testimony of a former Buick dealer that his franchise was canceled because he failed to give all his time sales paper to General Motors Acceptance corporation. Jack McCrary of Fort Worth, Tex., the former dealer, had testified for the government.

The officials are William F. Hufstader, Flint, Mich.; Buick sales manager; Allan Wright, Chicago, regional manager for Pontiac; L. B. Strayhorn, Dallas, Tex., and H. C. Gillespie, Memphis, Tenn., regional manager for Buick.

Hufstader, one of the 17 individual defendants in the case, made a blanket denial of ever "to his knowledge" having attempted to persuade Buick dealers to use G. M. A. C. in financing time sales.

Hufstader declared McCrary's dealership was canceled because of "his poor financial condition, poor business, and unethical trade practices."

Wright also denied telling McCrary he had to use G. M. A. C. Wright, at that time, was Buick zone manager in Dallas.

Strayhorn and Gillespie declared McCrary sold a demonstrator which had been run 4,500 miles as a new car.

CHICAGO WHOLESALE BUSINESS RISES; WAR'S INFLUENCE MINIMIZED

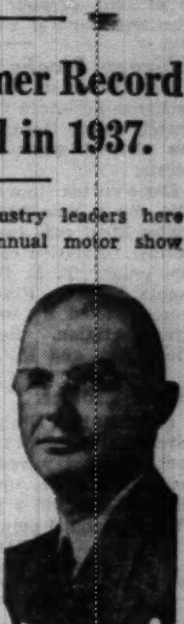
Business in the Chicago wholesale district during October averaged from 15 to 25 per cent ahead of last year, according to the monthly survey of the Chicago Wholesale Market council. Forward business in shoes, winter merchandise, hosiery, lingerie and holiday goods also increased.

"One feature of this condition of business in the district is that it does not directly reflect an acceleration of business as a result of the war," said Irving Parsons, managing director. "These increases seem to come from trade seeking to replenish subnormal inventories, with a healthy demand for American-made goods."

CHICAGO MOTOR SALES SET NEW OCTOBER PEAK

Pass Former Record Reached in 1937.

Automobile industry leaders here to attend the annual motor show which opens today were given encouragement yesterday with the news that automobile sales in Chicago and Cook county in October set an all-time record for the month. The total was 7,397. In October, 1938, sales were 3,475, and for September of this year the total was 4,882.



George H. Pratt reports Hudson sales at 10 year peak.

The previous October record was set in 1937 with a total of 6,650. The 1929 total was 6,484. The lowest number of October sales in the last decade was in 1932, when the total was 1,479.

Plymouth Holds Rank.

Plymouth continued to hold first place with a total of 1,363, compared with 965 in September and 868 in October, 1938.

Buick advanced to second place with a total of 1,032, against 438 in September and 623 in October, 1938. Ford occupied third position with 716 sales, against 463 in September and 316 in October, 1938. Dodge was in fourth place with a total of 658, against 507 in September and 167 in October.

Chevrolet, whose fall production was delayed by labor troubles, was in fifth position with a total of 569, against 481 in September and 428 in October, 1938. Pontiac held sixth place with 549; Oldsmobile seventh with 536; Packard eighth with 380; Hudson ninth with 293, and Studebaker tenth with 286.

Hudson Sales Spurt.

George H. Pratt, general manager of the Hudson Motor Car company, announced here that Hudson sales in October were the highest for any October since 1929. Sales for the week ended October totaled 2,270 units, a gain of 12.7 per cent over the preceding week and 158 per cent over the corresponding 1938 week.

Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., estimated production of automobile factories for the current week at 82,690 cars and trucks, compared with 73,210 last week, and 75,830 a year ago.

The survey predicted a November output of at least 330,000 units, adding that this minimum would be augmented by whatever cars Chrysler corporation may produce should its labor dispute with the United Automobile Workers [C. I. O.] be adjusted.

WESTERN UNION INVOKES COURT ON NLRB ORDER

New York, Nov. 3 [Special].—The Western Union Telegraph company today asked the Circuit Court of Appeals to set aside a National Labor Relations board order requiring disestablishment of the 21 year old Association of Western Union Employés. The company contended that the board's findings of fact were not supported by the evidence and that the conclusions of law were unwarranted and erroneous.

The NLRB announced yesterday that it had asked the Circuit court here to issue an enforcement order against the company, but Francis R. Stark, general solicitor for Western Union, said the clerk informed him that the board's application had not been received at the time the company's petition was filed. The papers from Washington arrived later by registered mail.

C. J. Elsden, division president for the Association of Western Union Employés, said he expected the company to continue its contractual relations with the association, pending a decision by the courts on the validity of the NLRB order.

Plan $1,000,000 Expansion at National Gypsum Plant

The National Gypsum company yesterday announced plans for a $1,000,000 expansion of its plant in the Bronx, New York City. Payment will be met in part with proceeds from an issue of $5,000,000 in 3⅞ per cent bonds. It was reported that the bonds have been sold privately. About $3,300,000 of the money will be used for refunding outstanding 4½ per cent bonds and $500,000 will be added to working capital.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 3 (AP).—Industrials, rails, and selected utilities led the corporate bond market into higher ground today. Traders said hopes for increased sale of American goods abroad with repeal of the arms embargo stimulated the rise.

United States government issues, however, showed losses ranging to 12-32ds of a point as traders weighed the news the treasury plans to raise around $500,000,000 of new money before June, 1940.

Fractions to around 2 or more higher were Alleghany 5s of 1950, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s of 1962, Southern Railway 4s, Western Union 5s of 1960, Armour 4s of 1955, and Portland General Electric 4½s.

Chicago Stocks.

Most issues on the Chicago Stock exchange advanced yesterday in moderately active trading. Volume leaders showed gains ranging to two points.

Dixie-Vortex moved ahead ¼ to 12½ for a new 1939 high. United States Steel rose two points, closing at 76¼. Aviation corporation gained one point. E. L. Bruce moved 1⅛ points higher. Fractional advances were chalked up for Aviation and Transportation, Bendix, Marshall Field, Aro, and Berghoff.

Bank Stocks.

Continental Illinois bank stock reached a new 1939 high for the third consecutive day yesterday, when it was bid at 84½, up ½ point. City National was bid 2 points lower and First National 1 point lower.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Hog prices broke sharply under pressure of receipts at the Chicago yards yesterday. A decline in wholesale markets for fresh pork, bad weather in some of the principal hog producing areas, and prospects of further expansion in the movement to market in the near future caused buyers to restrict purchases.

Colder weather, rain and snow resulted in a heavy movement of hogs to all packing centers in the country again yesterday. Most new crop hogs fell 15 to 25 cents to the lowest levels in 10 weeks. The day's average showed a decline of 15 cents at $6.50.

Not enough cattle arrived at the yards to put quotations to a test. Demand was extremely light and sales were considered weak to slightly lower than the preceding day. Slaughter lambs met good demand at steady prices.

[All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

COTTON

Strength in securities and expectations of a much larger business with the United Kingdom brought in fairly aggressive buying of cotton futures yesterday. Prices advanced readily due to light offerings and closing trades were at gains of .08 to .16 cent a pound.

Exports of cotton from British India are now subject to license, it was reported.

Killing frost occurred Thursday night and Friday morning in northwestern Texas, which raises approximately one-third of the 3,000,000 bales produced in that state. This ended the growing season in the affected area. The frost came about a week earlier than normal and will prevent the top crop from maturing, traders said.

Five private crop estimates given to the trade in the last week showed an average yield at 11,928,000 bales.

Trading in cotton futures in three American markets in October aggregated 3,726,000 bales, compared with 6,066,000 bales in September and 3,854,000 bales in October, 1938. Trading in New York furnished 85 per cent of the total business.

Spot cotton closed .13 to .19 cent higher with New York 9.37 cents, New Orleans 9.22 cents, Galveston 8.92 cents, and Houston at 8.80 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Commodities

Raw sugar yesterday dropped 0.03 cent a pound to 2.95 cents, which compared with 2.92 cents on Aug. 31, the day before the European war started.

Immediately after the war a scramble to buy sugar resulted in all prices being withdrawn. When dealers were again able to find a firm basis for judging prices, raw sugar was quoted at 3.75 cents a pound. Values declined when President Roosevelt suspended marketing quotas, and in the last week raw sugar has dropped from 3.70 cents to its present level.

Refined sugar was still quoted at 5 cents a pound. On Aug. 31 it was about 4⅗ cents, and at the peak of the boom it sold for 5¾ cents. Sugar futures, already having taken the weakness in the cash commodity into account, moved up as much as 0.07 cent a pound.

Chicago cash hides dropped ½ cent a pound to 14½ cents, but New York futures advanced 0.17 to 0.20 cent a pound.

Tin futures declined 0.10 to 0.70 cent a pound. Santos coffee, cottonseed oil, rubber, and wool top futures advanced. Cash raw wool sold at $1.15½ per pound, up 2½ cents. Copper and No. 1 silk futures were irregular. Closing unchanged were lead, zinc, cocoa, Rio coffee, and No. 2 silk futures.

JUDGE SUPPORTS TRUST CHARGE IN ALUMINUM TRIAL

Holds Federal Evidence Indicates Conspiracy.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—The justice department announced today receipt of an opinion from Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey, presiding in the aluminum monopoly trial at New York, holding that the government had presented sufficient evidence to warrant a jury in finding the existence of a conspiracy among the principal defendants.

Judge Caffey.

The action is a civil suit against Aluminum Company of America, Aluminium Limited, a Canadian firm, and 61 other defendants, charging that these companies and the British, French, Swiss, and German aluminum companies controled production and price of the metal thru a world cartel known as Alliance Aluminum company.

Trial to Be Resumed.

The trial began June 1, 1938, and will be resumed Nov. 8 after a three month recess. The government completed its evidence on June 1 and the defendants have introduced only a portion of their proof.

The justice department said the effect of Judge Caffey's 20 page opinion would be to make admissible as evidence "letters written by the foreign aluminum producers in furtherance of the conspiracy."

The statement noted that Judge Caffey had reserved until conclusion of the trial any ruling as to the effect of Aluminium Limited's conduct outside of the United States, altho Judge Vincent L. Leibell had held early in the progress of the case that the Canadian firm was subject to the jurisdiction of United States courts.

Ultimate Issues Undecided.

Judge Caffey made it clear, the department said, "that he will not decide any of the ultimate issues in the case until the conclusion of the trial." The opinion was given at the request of the government, which wanted to introduce the letters, the justice department said.

The government has contended that these companies conspired to allocate world markets as well as fix prices.

Company's Counsel Comments.

New York, Nov. 3 (AP).—William Watson Smith, chief of counsel to The Aluminum Company of America, said today that a federal court opinion made public today by the justice department in connection with its monopoly suit against the corporation "makes no decision on the merits of the controversy."

In a formal statement he added that it merely "passes on a question whether certain evidence will be admitted, the effect to be given to that evidence to be determind later."

Treasury Cuts Allotments of RFC Notes to 7½ Pct.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3 (AP).—The treasury announced today that investors asked for $3,619,000,000 of 1 per cent Reconstruction Finance corporation notes in this week's financing and the RFC wanted to sell only $250,000,000. Therefore, subscribers will be allotted 7½ per cent of what they asked, provided not less than $1,000 was given each subscriber.

WHEAT MOUNTS TO BEST LEVELS IN TWO MONTHS

Drouth and Firmness in Stocks Cause Rise.

Wheat prices advanced about 1¼ cents a bushel at one time yesterday to new high levels since early in September. The upturn resulted from buying based on continued dry weather in the west and southwestern parts of the winter grain belt, and strength in securities.

December wheat sold at 88 cents a bushel early and came within 1¾ cents of the highest price of the season. Profit taking caused a reaction from the best prices, with the close at gains of ¾ to 1 cent.

Expect Larger Food Exports.

Altho many operators expect that repeal of the embargo bill by congress will increase the European demand for American foodstuffs, there was no evidence yesterday of any business in wheat, corn, and lard.

The demand for North American cash grain was confined to Canadian wheat. Sales were estimated at 1,500,000 bushels or more, largely to the United Kingdom. There was some business in Canadian oats.

The best demand for Canadian cash wheat in some time has been witnessed in the last week. Sales in all positions are estimated by Winnipeg authorities at 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 bushels.

The Canadian Wheat board has ceased shipping wheat to Vancouver, B. C., due to the lack of available storage room.

Soy bean prices soared more than 6 cents yesterday to the highest level since March, 1938, and closed with gains of 4 to 4¼ cents. The May delivery sold at $1.00¼ at one time.

Soy Bean Prices Soar.

Buying of soy beans is said to be based on the belief that a large part of this year's record crop, estimated at 83,000,000 bushels, has already left farmers' hands.

Export sales so far this season are estimated at 11,000,000 bushels, of which about 5,000,000 bushels already have been shipped. The long ocean voyage from Manchuria to northern Europe has resulted in the latter being forced to purchase from the United States.

Corn, oats, and rye advanced in sympathy with wheat and soy beans.
